CHEVROLET TRUCKS CUT DELIVERY COSTS TO THE BONE!

Chevrolet gives the kind of dependability we need... to face keen competition

Fleet Superintendent George Gauld bases his opinion on 14 years of experience with Chevrolet trucks and an accurate-to-the-penny cost control system. He has proved, to himself and his management, that Chevrolet trucks cost less to operate.

Door-to-door at 10 below: No matter what the weather, milk has to be delivered, and year after year, United Dairies' Chevrolet fleet does the job at minimum cost and with maximum efficiency. It's a true test of Chevrolet's stamina.

Dear Sirs:

In 1949 the United Dairies fleet standardized on Chevrolet trucks and at the moment we have 121 Chevrolet on the road in Calgary, 24 in Lethbridge, 16 in Medicine Hat, 2 in Fort McLeod, 2 in Cranbrook and 4 in Banff, for a total of 169.

Most of these units are hauling payloads of 2,500 to 3,000 pounds on short-run, door-to-door routes and doing a fine job of it. Fleet mileage for the year in Calgary alone adds up to over 700,000 miles.

We have found that maintenance costs are right in line. Down time is minimal, and even with a regular paint and maintenance programme, 3 spare trucks are all we need.

Chevrolet gives us the kind of dependability we need in the dairy business to face keen competition and extreme weather conditions. We are very pleased to have found that with proper maintenance we can expect each of our Chevrolet trucks to last from 10 to 15 years.

Yours truly,
George Gauld

Be sure to see Bonanza on the CBC-TV network each Sunday. Check your local listing for channel and time.

Statements like this, from men whose business is trucks, prove that Chevrolet trucks are unequalled for performance, economy and dependability. Before you invest one penny more in any truck, see your local Chevrolet truck dealer for the facts and figures on Chevrolet. It will be well worth your while!
