

COOK - STOREY WEDDING

On Saturday, May 19, a very pretty wedding was solemnized at Zion Presbyterian Church, Charlotteville, when Eleanor Isabella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Storey became the bride of Harry Howard Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Cook, Parkdale. Rev. W. H. Brown officiated the double ring ceremony. The organist was Mr. John Lea-Morgan with Miss Maida Rogerson as guest soloist who sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and "Because" during the signing of the register. The church was decorated with daffodils and the pews were marked with white satin bows and lilacs. Given in Marriage by her father, the bride wore an original portrait gown of nylon tulle and chintz lace over slipper satin with long sleeves forming a point over her fingers. The finger tip veil of tulle illusion fell from a pillbox headress of rhinestones and iridescences. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Harold Stewart, St. Huberts, P. Q., was matron of honour and Miss Arlene Guidon and Miss Anne Storey, Charlotteville, were bridesmaids. All were similarly attired in nylon net over tulle dresses with tuxedo styled bolero jackets of tulle. Mrs. Stewart wore aqua, Miss Guidon coral and Miss Storey yellow. They carried nosegays of white mums.

Miss Jo Anne Stewart, niece of the bride was flower girl. Her dress was of yellow tulle and she wore a matching headress and carried a basket of mixed flowers. Mr. Edwin C. Cook, brother of the groom was best man.

The ushers were: Mr. John Storey, Toledo Ohio, brother of the

MARY HAWORTH

13 - Year - Old Boy Asks Woman To Kiss Him

Dear Mary Haworth: I am writing about our son, age 13, who never as given us any trouble. He is very good in school, active in church work and Boy Scout activities. We have two other children, younger than Bill, and he always has loved them and never has shown any jealousy.

The other day, a neighbor woman who is in her mid-twenties, told me that Bill had told her that she was pretty and had asked if he could kiss her. She laughed him off, but decided, wisely, to tell me about it.

I questioned Bill about it, he told me he didn't know why he had said it. He has been on mixed parties in connection with church activities, but never has shown any particular interest in girls.

PARENTS TO BLAME

Am I right in being upset about this? Can you tell me if we should consult a psychologist for guidance? Bill never has been in any kind of trouble and stays in his own neighborhood. He mingles well with other children and has many friends.

My neighbor has said she will never mention the incident to anyone—to spare Bill embarrassment. If my husband and I are to blame in any way, we surely hope you can show us how to correct our mistakes. As for Bill, he is very contrite about the matter and says it won't happen again. However, he has shown no embarrassment about it. Are we taking this too seriously? Please advise us. C.D.

OVER-REACTION

DEAR C.D.: "Evil to him who evil thinks," as the saying goes. Or as Shakespeare phrased it: "There is nothing either good or bad but thinking makes so." It seems to me that the neighbor woman is being a bit of a fool, in acting as if she were appalled by potential sin, in the guise of Bill's ingenious gallantry. And I think her over-reaction to Bill's emotional gaucherie has thrown you badly off stride too.

I doubt that there were any implications of juvenile delinquency inherent in Bill's suggestion of a kiss for Mrs. X. But by now, her conspiratorial whispering to you (as if something dark or dangerous had been hinted at), and your anxious hectoring of Bill, may have planted some seeds of neurotic confusion in his thoughts—as regards male affection for females.

LACKS POISE

All that the situation required of Mrs. X, when Bill, a 13-year-old, praised her looks and asked to kiss her, was a constructive womanly rejoinder, of casual sympathetic appreciation. She might have said, for example, "Why, thank you, Bill; that's nice of you. I think your mother is pretty too..." or simply ignored the reference to kissing. Or, she could have dismissed it by adding: "—No, no kissing. You're getting to be a big boy now and soon you'll be kissing the girls, I suppose."

Bill would have known he was put in his place—but affectionately, with no loss of face, and without mutual awkwardness—and with the neighborly friendship undamaged. His yen to kiss Mrs. X probably would have died aborning, and they might have taken a step towards real friendship, in the sense that he'd begin to feel he could count on her to understand him, and occasionally turn to her for deep discussions about a growing boy's interests, etc.

TOO IMMATURE

It is possible that Bill is somewhat of a Mama's boy, too immature for his age to feel aggressively interested in girls, and therefore attracted to Mrs. X (as an imagined sweetheart) simply because she is symbolic of Mom. As for what to do—since you are so bad, shaken by Mrs. X's notion that sex was rearing its ugly head, I think you should have first-hand psychological counsel, to get your fears on the table, and clarified, M.H.

One in particular comes in white with pink embroidery or the reverse. The top of the spread is covered with dainty butterfly embroidery; the skirt is full and embroidered at the hem.

Another new notion we liked consisted of a corduroy coverlet with rounded corners draped gracefully over a provincial printed chintz dust ruffle.

Food Field Offers Career Opportunity

By Ida Bailey Allen

"These cooking lessons here at the International Food Show are most encouraging," remarked the Chef.

We were sitting in the demonstration room, watching two students from the Food Trades Vocational High School of New York City. They were demonstrating the carving of a turkey, its reconstruction on the frame, and the making of roses carved from beef, lemon whirls, mosaics of cranberry and apricot vinaigrette to garnish the turkey platter.

ACCENT ON YOUTH

"It's wonderful to see this accent on youth in action," I observed. "These students are all under eighteen years of age. They will graduate next month, after 3 years training, to enter the fields of cooking, meat-cutting, catering, baking and administrative food work."

"I understand there are four jobs open for each graduate. The food field offers great opportunities to young men and women."

Turkey Platter Waldorf. Here is a step-by-step description of the preparation of "Turkey Platter Waldorf" taken from the notes the Chef and I made during the demonstration. It will help our home-makers, for what could be easier than serving a turkey already sliced!

First remove the second joints. Leave drumsticks and wings un-sliced.

Slice breast meat thin, with as much skin adhering as possible. Slice the dark meat, except drumsticks.

To reconstruct, place white slices in fan-like position down both sides of the platter. Arrange better slices on top. Place thin slices of orange on both sides of white meat. Top each with 1/2 a maraschino cherry. Arrange lettuce leaves on platter. Put wings in normal position at top of platter, then place drumsticks.

Arrange asparagus at neck of opening. Decorate with pimento strips.

Arrange remaining sliced white meat over dark meat.

Garnish further with a "rose" cut from a beet, a "lemon whirl" and remaining orange and cranberry slices.

Tomorrow's dinner for guests: Framed passion fruit juice; roast young turkey with herb stuffing; pan-roast potatoes; spinach mold; tossed mixed salad; strawberry meringue cake; hot or iced coffee or tea, milk.

Turkey Salad from Oddments: Combine 2 1/2 c. chunks cooked turkey, 1 c. chopped celery, 2 tsp. chopped green pepper, 1/2 c. coarse-grated carrot, 1/2 c. chopped cashew nuts and 2 chopped hard-cooked eggs.

Add 1-3 c. French dressing mixed with 1/4 tsp. Tabasco. Chill 30 min. Put together with 1/2 c. mayonnaise seasoned with 2 drops Tabasco. Spoon a little on top. Decorate with thin slices radishes. Border with lettuce or romaine.

Passion Fruit Frappe from the Chef: Passion fruit is a fruit exquisite new to the United States. In canned form, the juice is perfect to use in making gelatines or Bavarians, to add to fruit drinks, and to freeze to a mush to serve plain or over chilled canned Mandarin oranges as an exquisite dessert.

Teen - Ager Triumphs Over Bulky Pounds

By Ida Jean Kala

What can inspire overweight teen-agers to make up their minds to stop adding padding and get down to healthy normal weight? From the dietitian's corner, it appears that a shining success story from another teen-ager who has triumphed over the pounds is the magic spur. All right, overweight, here's a perfect model.

"I've always been fat, ever since I was small. The trouble was that I was getting fatter and fatter and fatter. And how the scales went up! Finally, after being kidded and tormented about my weight, my pride caught up with me. When I learned how my friends were losing, I decided it was my turn, too. So, Mother took me to our doctor to see if it was all right for me to diet. With his consent I began to eat properly and followed many of our marvelous exercises."

So our day went, quietly, and leisurely, with as now shows, and a cool lusty wind against the panes. "Nothing sowed yet-nor by the looks of things, won't be for a while," James said this evening about making an average of 5 months, making an average of 5 months, making an average of 5 months in dieting for me to stop eating between meals. Finally I broke the habit. Every time I got hungry I took a drink of water. I missed peanut butter and mayonnaise sandwiches most of all. When I made one of those sandwiches, I made it thick!

"It took a great deal of will power to resist the snacks, chocolate cake and soda fountain treats, but I was richly rewarded with the compliments on my fine figure."

"To teen-ager girls who are, shall we say, slightly chubby... I advise taking stock and doing something about it. You will feel twice as well and three times as peppy. And, if temptation comes,
