ELLEN'S DIARY

Little Deeds Of Kindness Are Neither Lost Nor Wasted

Mack chuckles to himself as he reads on the couch close by the old armchair. "Not bad jokes here," he offers. "Listen to this one:

Little boy: 'so what! Who's those shoes with?'
Cobbler: 'Hide.'
Little Boy: 'so what! Who's hide?'
Cobbler: 'Hide-hide The cow's outside.'
Little boy: 'o what! Who's afraid of a cow anyway?'
Funny," he grins putting by the paper. "Dear me," he yawns. "I guess it's time for me to hit the trail."

James smiles fondly at him. Nods. "The morning comes," he says.

They have been on an excursion to the store, by way of the Ivan MacLean extended a hearty voice of thanks to the ladies of Alberton for an enjoyable evening.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH REGINALD THOMPSON

Young Couple Pledge Vows In Double Ring Ceremony

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Laurence O'Toole Church, Morell Rear, when Mary Josephine Sinnott, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sinnott, Morell, Rear, became the bride of Joseph Reginald Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson, St. Peter's Bay, in a double ring ceremony.

Rev. Eric Robin officiated and Rev. George MacDonald was present in the sanctuary. White mums and red roses decorated the altar. Soloist, George MacDonald, sang appropriate hymns accompanied by Miss MacInnis as organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked lovely in a white floor length gown of angel lace over satin fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and long pointed sleeves of lace. She wore a pill box headdress trimmed with sequins and seed pearls that held in place the scalloped edge veil. She carried a white lace covered prayer book topped with a bouquet of happy day roses with streamers and rosebuds.

Maid of honor, Miss Mary Lynn, friend of the bride, wore a ballerina length gown of pink nylon tulle and angel lace over satin with a picture hat to match. Bridesmaids, Miss Sheila Sinnott, sister of the bride and Miss Margaret MacCormack, were attired in yellow and blue ballerina length gowns of nylon tulle and angel lace over satin with picture hats to match. They carried matching bouquets of carnations.

Best man was Mr. John J. Thompson, brother of the groom. Ushers were: Roy MacKinnon, friend of the groom and John Sinnott, brother of the bride.

The bride's mother was gowned in a powder blue lace over silk shantung dress fashioned with a jacket, white accessories and corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother wore a navy blue crepe dress with white accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception for 90 guests was held at Mt. Stewart Memorial Hall. The bride's table was centered with a three tier wedding cake made by Mrs. Harold Affleck, flanked with flowers and white mums. Toasts to the bride were proposed by Leo George MacDonald and Mr. Sterling K. Clark to which the groom responded. Telegrams of congratulations were received by the couple from Mr. and Mrs. Fred ; Mr. and Mrs. Gregory and Mr. and Mrs. White of Calgary, Alta; aunts and uncles of the bride; also from Mr. Harold Thompson, Toronto, brother of the groom.

For travelling the bride chose a beige lace over satin sheath dress topped with a wedgewood blue bengaline duster with beige accessories. Her-corsage was red roses.

Following their return from a wedding trip to United States the couple were honored at a reception of over 100 guests at the home of the groom.

Prior to their marriage they were honored by a miscellaneous shower in Mt. Stewart Community Hall; also one at the home of the bride where they received many lovely and useful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside at St. Peter's Bay where the groom is a prominent farmer.

and events of the modern world with the keenest interest. Her retentive memory provides one of the greatest delights of knowing her, and she can entertain anyone interested in the "Old Days" with stories of ice-boats, the introduction of the automobile and farming methods before the advent of machinery.

Miss Campbell says that the old ice-boaters claimed that their transportation service would never end because it did not seem possible to construct a steamer that could maintain winter communications across the Strait. She asserts that the causeway will come just as surely as the steamers replaced the ice-boats.

Her first trip by train was in 1875 when she went from Kensington to Summerside and return. She stated it would be simpler to go to Florida and return, today.

Miss Campbell spends much time sewing, crocheting and knitting, baby jackets, sweaters and booties being her specialties. Her greatest pleasure is in the visits she receives from her many friends to whom she displays a grand sense of humor.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATION

Alberton WMS Entertains Neighboring WMS Members

Alberton Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society entertained the members of the Freeland and Tyne Valley societies at a special meeting held in the Alberton church hall recently.

After Mrs. F. J. Carpenter, president of the hostess society, extended a warm welcome to the guests a brief devotional period was conducted by members of the Freeland society. The leader, Mrs. Ivan Hardy, was assisted by Mrs. Frank Hardy and Mrs. Erving Smith. The offering was dedicated by Mrs. J. Y. Garrett.

Mrs. Lloyd Wilkie showed slides of her recent trip to the British Isles and the Continent. By way of introduction she reported briefly on the ACWV conference in Edinburgh and commented on a number of the interesting and historic places she had visited.

Mrs. Norman Oliver expressed the thanks of the group to Mrs. Wilkie and to the projectionists who had assisted her in showing the slides.

During a social hour refreshments were served and those present had an opportunity to see some of the souvenirs Mrs. Wilkie had brought home.
