WOMEN'S PAGE EDITOR. AN early opening is in prospect at The Guardian - Patriot for a Women's Page Editor. While experience in this or other fields of writing is desirable, consideration will be given to applicants who are otherwise qualified. The three qualifications most needed are: 1— Aptitude, an ease in writing clearly and accurately; 2— Responsibility that reflects good taste and good judgment; 3— Genuine interest, probably often as a participant, in matters that deserve to be written about for the women's pages. A sound educational background and the ability to type (there's no need to be a speed artist) also are among the minimum requirements. The work to be done is of a kind that should be of greatest interest to a woman who is herself active in the life of the community, whether through club, church or other affiliations. She should be mature in her attitudes but this is no bar to her being young. It is work that can be intensely satisfying to the person suited to it. At the outset all applications must be in writing. No others will be considered. Please include telephone number. Address: Executive Editor, The Guardian- Patriot, Charlottetown.
