

Holiday Gifts & Gizmo's

With the holidays approaching like some creepy homeless guy with a bologna sandwich, you feel uncertain, stupid, and ashamed because you don't have a sweet clue what to give your loved ones. Has Wal-Mart sold out of Tickle-Me-Elmo Dolls already? Have you been banned from Zeller's for shoplifting Martha Stewart napkin rings? Are you worried that you'll be spending this white Christmas alone because you couldn't find the right gift for your cocaine buddies? Well stop sweating, you oily rag of stink, and let Coolbreeze be your guide to last minute Christmas shopping.

Moms get lonely too, you know. Ever since that messy separation with your father, the last thing your mother needs right now is another George Foreman Grill or Juice Lady. I recommend giving your mom the only gift that can satisfy her robotic lusts, The Gillette Sexbot Mach IV ($2300.00 US). After making sweet love to your old lady, the Sexbot will deliver breakfast in bed... followed by desert.

For the Dad who likes his gadgets, the Remington Handy-Droid 200 ($2000000.00 US) is an excellent addition to your father's collection of tools and weaponry. After helping Dad build an extension on the deck, Handy-Droid is pictured here relaxing on a small hairy animal.
