

September.

A change creeps over nature. A deep flush mounts to the maple leaf; the air is clear. The grapes are purpling, and a crimson blush spreads o'er such flowers as deck the waning year.

Old Clothes Made New.

The time for looking over partly worn clothes with a view of renovating them so that they will have a resemblance of their former freshness, is an anxious one for the busy woman who is forced by the state of her purse to turn to account every available piece of material.

The first thing to be done to a garment that is to be made over is to rip it to pieces, pick out the threads and brush thoroughly. If you know just how it is to be made again, select only the pieces needed, so as not to waste any unnecessary labor in cleaning what will not be used.

After brushing, the next thing is to take out all grease and other spots. Grease spots may be eradicated from black goods, by rubbing with a sponge dipped in turpentine, having first laid the stuff over a wooden cloth folded three or four times.

When black stuff has become rusty the color can be restored by sponging it with strong ammonia water, or a mixture of equal parts of ammonia and alcohol, which is still better.

Black stuff may be restored to its former freshness by sponging it with a liquor made by boiling a large handful of fig leaves in two quarts of water until reduced to a pint. This may be used on cloth, crape and bombazine.

Grease spots can be removed from by rubbing the fabric between the palms of the hands. Turpentine, alcohol or benzine can be used, and pipe clay will remove spots without injuring the most delicate shades.

Black silk can be made to look almost as good as new by sponging on the right side with weak tea or coffee, and pressing on the right side with a thick flannel between the silk and the iron. When the silk is very much wrinkled, sponge on the wrong side with weak gum-arabic water, and when nearly dry, iron between two wollen cloths.

When the nap is worn off of cloth it can sometimes be restored thus:—Soak the goods in cold water for an hour, when with a pin or needle gently pick up the nap; after the nap is rising, brush it the right way with a soft brush.

Advice to a Young Man.

Don't worry, my son, don't worry. Don't worry about something that you think may happen to-morrow, because you may die to-night, and to-morrow will find you beyond the reach of worry. Don't worry over a thing that happened yesterday, because yesterday is a hundred years away. If you don't believe it just try to reach after it and bring it back. Don't worry about anything that is happening to-day, because to-day will only last fifteen or twenty minutes. If you don't believe it tell your creditors you'll be ready to settle in full with them at sunset. Don't worry about things you can help, because worry only makes them worse. Don't worry about things you can help, because then there's no need to worry. Don't worry at all. If you want to be penitent now and then, it won't hurt you a bit to go into the sackcloth and ashes business a little. It will do you good. If you want to cry a little once in a long while, that isn't a bad thing. If you feel like going out hubbubbing yourself occasionally I think you need it and will lead you, a helping hand at it, and put a plaster on you afterward. All these things will do you good. But worry, worry, worry, fret, fret, fret,—why, there's neither sorrow, penitence, strength, penance, reformation, hope, nor resolution in it. It's just worry.
