FURTHER PROGRESS IN STORE BUT PROPER BALANCE NEEDED

The year 1956 has been one of high prosperity for our country and the great expansion in our economy—which boosted national production from $26½ billion in 1955 to about $30 billion for the current year—is beyond the most optimistic forecasts made at the beginning of the year and places Canada in the vanguard of progress.

The Bank enjoyed further expansion during the fiscal year ended October 31st. Our assets increased by more than $18 million and are now over $295½ million compared with $60 million in October 1941. During this short space of time, our resources have, therefore, grown almost fivefold, which is a truly remarkable achievement. Our net profits rose from $440,000 in 1941 to $1,081,000 in 1955 and to $1,300,000 in 1956 and if we take into consideration the substantial rise in operating costs during the past 15 years, these results are all the more gratifying.

Our deposits, which constitute the most important item on our balance sheet, increased by $18 million during the year and stand at $283 million, compared with $53 million in 1941. Our loans of all kinds increased from $116½ million to 129½ million against $23 million in 1941. I take this opportunity to stress again the utmost importance of thriftiness for our people, since savings can contribute so much to the development of our country.

The devotion of our staff throughout the year has been most gratifying and I am happy once again to express appreciation for the loyalty and efficiency shown by all ranks. More than eighty members of our staff are enrolled at the present time in banking courses conducted by Queen's University while some thirty senior officers followed special courses in 1956 at Harvard, McGill, Western and Laval Universities, as well as at the University of Montreal.

We have every reason in Canada to look forward to the future with confidence, but caution and moderation are more necessary than ever and it is to be hoped that these good old virtues will continue to be honoured by all, in the best interest of our country.

There could hardly be found an enterprise in Canada where the available equipment and labour could not somehow be used more efficiently. Unfortunately, too many businessmen believe that increased production is not feasible in their own organization unless long and costly research be undertaken, which they claim they could not afford. Experience has shown, however, that substantial increases in productive capacity are often easily attainable through the practical initiative of men alive to the possibilities of industrial organization. Under present conditions, that is, taking into account the credit restrictions now being applied by the central bank, many small and medium-size businesses could easily find along this avenue many opportunities to increase their production without the benefit of additional lines of credit.

...The situation also involves heavy responsibilities for all people at large. It is too much to hope to control inflation if consumers, for instance, will not learn the virtue of self-restraint but will show readiness to buy anything at any price, insisting later to obtain higher rates of wages or salaries or wider margins of profit, as the case may be. If we are to enjoy a sound economy, it is paramount that all should practice moderation and should be ready, in the face of increasing prices, to save rather than to spend. Nothing short of the purposeful co-operation of all people, in all walks of life, will bring to realization an objective as hard to obtain as full employment without inflation. Wisdom and a proper regard for the common weal require that all of us should accept this challenge.

Egypt Seen Entrapped By Soviet Economic Tentacles

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

PARIS (AP) — Egypt, at the moment the acknowledged leader of the Arab world, is seen by Western observers as walking into a dangerous trap of her own making.

Events of the last two years, climaxed by the recent hostilities, apparently are pushing Egypt ever closer toward unbreakable ties with the Soviet Union and the Communist bloc.

A system of political trade—at which the Russians have become expert—threatens to chain Egypt to policies of the Red bloc. She already has gone dangerously far along the road.

This correspondent has just returned from a swing through the Middle East, where he found much clear evidence that Arab leaders in other countries are becoming frightened at Egypt's danger.

NOT TOO LATE
Egypt's current policies, hardened by the British-French-Israeli attack, seem to have closed off possible avenues of rescue from the West. For the moment, only President Nasser has the power to change the direction of Egypt's course. And he himself in a sense is a prisoner of his own policy. It is still not too late for Nasser to seek a way out of his trap. He can try—possibly with Western help—to build Egypt into a position of internal strength that would make resistance to Soviet pressures possible. Or he can continue on the other road.

The Russians are patiently fashioning a chain with economic links. Egypt's trade with the East is carried on through a series of two-way agreements which amount, in the long run, to barter. These bilateral deals are a form of political trade used by the Russians in attempts to drive the West out of certain markets. The pressure on Egypt is becoming enormous now.

The Communist bloc has become almost the only supplier for Egypt—and at the same time an intermediary for the Western goods Egypt needs. The Russians seem to expect that Egypt eventually will be forced to gear her economy to the East bloc. Then the strong political infiltration will begin.

Controlling all propaganda outlets, Nasser's government is keeping the effects of the recent invasion on the economy well hidden from the Egyptian people.

On the surface in Cairo, nothing seems wrong. There are no shortages. Domestic trade seems to be flourishing. But factories are running out of stocks and wholesalers out of supplies. As the situation progresses, the Egyptian consumer's standard will go down because of lowered purchasing power.

Barring a miracle, in a few months the real jolt will be felt through the whole economy. There is a good chance that this jolt will force Nasser into desperate measures tying him even closer to the Soviet bloc.

C. W. L. Meeting Held in Georgetown

The regular monthly meeting of the Georgetown C.W.L. sub-division was held on Wednesday evening in St. James parish hall. The president, Mrs. William Murphy called the meeting to order, and the Rev. Director recited the league prayer.

The secretary read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were approved as read. Reports from the various committees were presented. Mrs. Patrick Murphy, assistant to the social service convener stated she had made several calls on the sick and shut-ins, gave assistance where needed and supplied clothing to a needy girl. The membership convener reported no increase in membership, with 42 paid up members.

Mrs. Ella MacKinnon, presented to the C.W.L., a beautiful hemstitched Altar cloth, and three smaller table cloths, that she had made. The linen was donated by the pastor. Another beautiful hand made table cloth was donated for sanctuary purposes by Miss Kathleen Doyle. This workmanship was appreciated.

The catholic womens league expressed grateful appreciation to Mrs. MacKinnon and Miss Doyle. The treasurer reported a balance on hand of $27.05. The altar workers for the month of December and Mrs. Ernest Roach, Mrs. Phillip Boudreau, Mrs. Patrick Murphy and Miss Catherine Burke.

The Rev. Director stated he would ask for a special donation in the Sunday envelopes to meet expenses for the Christmas flowers for the Altars. Expressions of sympathy were expressed at this meeting in regards to the girl on the death of her sister Miss Annie MacPhee, and a Mass was offered for the repose of her soul by the C.W.L.

It was moved and seconded that a $5.00 T.B. bond be purchased. Some discussion took place at this meeting in regards to the Girl Guide movement re-leader etc. This matter was left over for further consideration as there was no further business on hand the meeting closed with prayer by the Rev. Director.
