OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN D. MARTIN

The death occurred at the Prince Edward Island Hospital, on June 23, 1966, after a brief illness of Mrs. John D. Martin, Orwell, nee Mary Ella MacKenzie in her ninety-second year.

Born in Charlottetown, the daughter of the late Catherine Gillis and Neil MacKenzie, she attended Prince of Wales College and taught school in Greenvale, North Wiltshire and Orwell. She married John D. Martin in 1896 who passed away in 1922, and with the exception of seventeen years lived in Eldon, spent her lifetime in the Orwell area.

She was a member of St. Andrews United Church and served in the Sunday School and as President of the Women's Missionary Society for many years. Her Christian character was evident in her consideration for the promotion of every worthy cause. She enjoyed a wide circle of friends and the many floral tributes and donations to the Canadian Heart Foundation were evidence of their esteem.

Left to cherish her memory are three sons and two daughters: Muriel, Mrs. Willard MacLeod, Kinross; Marion, Mrs. Harold MacKie, Southport; Samuel, Rexdale, Ontario; Harold and Lloyd at home. Two daughters died in infancy. Several grandchildren and great grandchildren also lovingly remember her.

The funeral was held on June 25, from her late residence to St. Andrews United Church, Orwell, where the service was conducted by the Reverend W. E. Grant, assisted by Reverend T.R. Goudge and Reverend Donald Nicholson.

Her remains were laid to rest in the Belfast Cemetery. "God giveth His Beloved Rest."

Complaints Against Game Act Discussed

By JACK McANDREW

I attended a meeting this week which brought together the Honourable Keir Clark; the Honourable Cecil Miller; Fish and Wildlife Director Charlie Bartlett; Deputy Minister Eugene Gorman; Louis Cantelo; Archie Clark, the newly elected Provincial Fish and Game President; and Wally Rodd, representing the Tourist Association.

The purpose of the gathering was to explore some of the grumbling and complaints that have apparently been issuing forth from a few people in King's County, who had harsh words for several aspects of the regulations that have been established to implement the new Fish and Game Act.

Several of the loudest beefs seem to have been made on the basis of mis-information and mis-interpretation of the regulations, and at least one chorus was sent up over a simple typographical error.

This one has to do with the item specifying a five dollar licence fee for resident sport fishermen. The fact of the matter is that this is nothing more than a proofreader's error, and the licence will not cost $5.00, but $2.00.

Another area of complaint was the matter of the $2.00 Provincial Hunting Permit. Apparently some farmers assumed they would have to pay the two dollar provincial fee this year along with the additional $2.00 Federal Migratory bird permit. As it happens this is not the case, and the Act clearly specifies that farmers, commercial fishermen and their wives do not have to obtain a provincial permit before they go hunting.

Everyone, however, must be in possession of the federally imposed permit before they go out after ducks, geese or any other form of migratory bird.

During the meeting, Archie Clark was most specific about the position of the Fish and Game Association over the matter of who should and shouldn't be licensed, and it's pertinent at this point to go on into some of the background of the reasons for licensing people for the privilege of hunting wild game or angling for fish.

LACK APPRECIATION

Perhaps the root cause of misunderstanding is a lack of appreciation of the legal fact that wild game and fish are not property of anyone, landowner or otherwise, until they are permitted ownership through a licence.

I have heard arguments offered that landowners should not have to buy a licence to hunt on their own property, but legally and constitutionally there seems to be no justification for it. Wild things are the vested property of the crown and not the landowner, and the appropriate legislative bodies are assigned the task of administration.

That's one of the reasons for the argument that everyone who hunts or fishes should possess a licence, and it's even more applicable if the hunter or fisherman is practicing his sport on other than his own property. I for one really can't see the difference between myself going from Charlottetown to hunt ducks at Pisiquid Pond, and a landowner from Crapaud doing the same thing.

It seems to me we are both out to shoot birds that belong to the crown, and it follows that we should both be required to pay the privilege.

But there is another principle involved as well, and the best example of its application is the Federal Migratory Permit. When you buy a Federal Permit it means that you are making a contribution towards sustaining the fight of birds in the years to come.

RESEARCH PROGRAMS

Like everything else nowadays it costs money to research and implement programs that will prevent the available supply of birds from sinking below the danger point. This doesn't only apply to Prince Edward Island but to the whole of North America. Programs which were instituted 20 years ago on the Prairies in preserving nesting grounds are only now beginning to show results. With more hunters in the field every year, more wetland being put to agricultural uses, more pollution of potholes and streams, it becomes apparent that someone somewhere has got to pay the shot of maintaining the resource.

That's why there is a universal Federal Permit, and the same rule should hold true in the provincial sphere. I'm quite sure that a farmer in Uigg is not prepared to buy me a seat to see Anne of Green Gables at the Summer Festival out of the sheer goodness of his heart. He would expect me to pay for my own pleasure and recreation, and rightly so.

If that makes any sense at all then, the same principle applies to hunting and fishing. Why should only a portion of those who hunt and fish make their contribution towards the pleasure of everybody who goes out with rod and gun?

DESPERATE NEED

The contention of the Fish and Game Association is that this province desperately needs a wildlife conservation and management program and that all of those who take advantage of the sport should be prepared to pay at least a portion of the cost of maintaining it.

This principle has been applied to hunters and fishermen all over North America for many years, and as I've said before in this column, the only exception are Indians and Eskimos who enjoy special status because of treaty rights. Prince Edward Island is the only province in the country where the revenues gained from licence fees do not support the budget of a Fish and Wildlife Division. This simply

S. H. Burhoe Will Attend Fall Meeting

S.H. Burhoe, president of the Prince Edward Island Fisheries Federation, and a national director of the fisheries council of Canada, is leaving over the weekend to attend a meeting at Ottawa of the fisheries council.

The P.E.I. Fisheries Federation is one of the affiliates of the Council and matters pertaining to the welfare of Island fisheries will be dealt with.

The Board is having the privilege of meeting with the Department of Fisheries in the afternoon and in the evening, members of parliament and those connected with fishing interests will be entertained and informal talks held regarding fishery matters.

Following the Hon. E.J. Robichaud's statement in the House of Commons on October 6, and a meeting with U.S. officials on Monday, it is hoped that some announcement will be made regarding the establishment of coordinates, or straight base lines which will protect inland areas of the Canadian coastline from foreign fishing vessels.

If the negotiations are finalized, there must be several more who don't hunt, but are tagged through taxes anyway. See you next week.

This is the regular fall meeting of the board and will consider a general review of the half-yearly operation of this national body.

ed according to recommendations by the Fisheries Council of Canada, such large bodies as the Bay of Fundy and the Gulf of St. Lawrence would become national bodies of water.
