Old Yellowed Valentines Bring Many Memories

"When you come to consider it, this sending of Valentines is a more or less silly idea," Mack offered this morning. "Though" he added with a young grin "I'm not against it. That is, not altogether," he said. And what we we to say, we that can become misty-eyed at the sight of the quaint yellowed ones we have counted among our treasures down the years which came in varied measures of affection? For, as we have found out, there is many a love to a lifetime from the love to parents and brothers and sisters and comrades, each fitting snugly into his and her own niche of heart, to that we now enjoy which makes room for the little great-grandchildren of ours.

Among the Valentines we cherish, are those made on this or that classroom we taught, when lessons past on St. Valentine's Day, we gave the children leave to make and distribute their own missives of affection from the materials (All too few then, we think now) at hand. Odd ones we have, made by those fated never to reach the adult years—never to live to see the fulfillment of some young dream of youth. Others...but dear, dear! HAPPENINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace B. MacDonald celebrated their 44th wedding anniversary on Monday at their home, 49 Gover Street, Charlottetown, when a number of their friends and relatives gathered to extend congratulations and good wishes for the future. Letters and telegrams were received from those who could not be present for the happy occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald, (the former Rosetta Holland) were married in St. Columba Church, East Point Parish, Feb. 12, 1918 and spent the greater part of their married life in South Lake where they were engaged in farming, before removing to Charlottetown where they have made their home for the past ten years.

Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald have a family of two daughters and three sons, they are Eileen, Mrs. Joseph MacDonald, Cranston, R.I.; Anita Mae, Mrs. William Christie, Burlington, Vermont; Wallace E. Aurora, Ont.; Albin, Goose Bay, Labrador and Kimble, Parkdale.

Mrs. Ross Parker of Charlottetown, chairman of the Island committee of UNICEF reported yesterday that returns from Island Hallowe'en night canvasses are being compiled and latest figures show P.E.I. donations to be up by 34 per cent. So far $1,442.60 has been collected on the Island and UNICEF head office want to see what the glass says now.

And tonight a new moon of February appeared at the far edge of the afterglow, a warrant of moonlight in plenty presently over the valley. Seeing its crescent above a dim hill, James recalled wistfully, how in the years when the mill was in its heyday and the pond was full, it was spanned winsomely in silver on many a night.

"Do you remember, Ellen, the moonlight glistening on the water? There was no prettier sight, now was there?"

Pretty indeed it was. And sometimes in the harvesting, when the year was ripening merrily, and we waited for James to come in from some work of the farm, we have come to sit on the old sandstone doorstep by the front verandah to watch the moon throw its silver bridge across the pond below. And to lend added magic to the scene, fireflies lit their "lamps of fire" to glow, and fade, and shine again, in the alders about.

A crescent of new moon this evening...and a lad off to play hockey. And farm folks come to visit with us about our hearth-fire; to talk of a number of things: of ships, shoes, sealing wax and "children and schools, and of farms and the farming. And all were happy that r o o d s keep now as in summer, and that there can be such visiting to keep hearts young. We chat of this now as James come to the old armchair uncles workbooks. "An extremely sensible woman—that" James nods. "And a good farmer—the man" we say. James smiles. "You know, Ellen, there are women and women. And some...yes some I know well..." he shakes his head in a despairing gesture. And one we know intimately, sends her tokens of affection—her Valentines near and farther. Dainty missives these—rare. Heart-shaped, they are decorated with adorable cupids. The message is inscribed in a writing fluid of pure gold and there are warm red hearts in the garland of red roses about it. It says,

"Because you're such a special friend So nice in all you do, I wouldn't miss this chance to send, A Valentine to you!"

Until tomorrow— Diary— Good-night....
