HOME NEWS FROM ABOARD.—A correspondent of the Fishing Gazette, published in New York, writes: "Small fishermen in the East River and other P. E. Island waters have been using a net with a netted funnel at the mouth. The object of the funnel neck is to save trouble of hauling in the nets so often. These nets cost about $23 each. They have been in use a couple of years without objection, but this last season a lot were seized and destroyed by order of the department, on the ground that the funnel net makes the net a trap and therefore illegal. The fishermen dispute this, and are very indignant over the action of the department."

TEMPERANCE ENTERTAINMENT.—The temperance entertainment in St. Paul's Schoolroom last night was attended by a large and appreciative audience. The story of "Little Davie" was well interpreted, and the performance throughout reflected credit upon all who took part. The readings were given by Miss E. Rogers, and the recitations, solos and choruses, with which they were interspersed, were rendered in such a manner as to emphasize as well as illustrate the story. A concert duet was well given by Messrs. H. Worth and R. Stewart, and instrumental accompaniments were played by Mrs. P. Mitchell (organ), Miss Hill (violin) and Mr. E. Hill (cello). Mr. H. Winn sang a solo and recitations were given by Elsie Lowe and Lewis Wright.

CARTER'S SEED CATALOGUE.—We are in receipt of Carter's Seed Catalogue for 1895. It is beautifully printed by Mr. John Coombs, and is full of interesting pointers to farmers, who ought to look particularly to THE EXAMINER'S advertisement. It is pleasing to note that our enterprising seedsmen are abreast of the times in respect to the importation of seeds for fatter plants, and seed wheat from Ontario and the Northwest Territories, as well as all other lines. Hazard's improved home grown turnip seed continues to be a leading feature, and we are pleased to learn that the home-grown seeds generally produced for the firm by the skill of Mr. Richard Burke, have proved to be very superior. It is also pleasing to note that Messrs. George Carter & Co. have adapted the cash system.

"I have found out since," said Mr. Stanley, "that the man's name was Prunty, and that he lives in the east end of the city. I would like you to advise him not to call again. MAGISTRATES COURT.

Before J. T. Melish, Esq., J. P., the Rodd-Matthew assault case, was adjourned last night till Thursday next. From the evidence thus far before the court we make the following summary: On the evening of March 1st the Rev. Mr. Baker held a revival service at Bloomfield school house. The Rodds and Matthews were present. When Wellington Matthews began to pray, the Rodds, between whom and the Matthews there has been considerable ill feeling, got up and went out. The Rodds waited outside for their friends and after the service was over started for home. The Matthews then began snawling them, whereupon they stopped and told the Matthews to go on ahead, which they refused to do. Shortly after George Rodd was hit on the back of the neck by a hard snow ball. He stopped and asked his assailant to step out and show himself. Joseph Matthew said he was the man and took off his coat and hit Rodd, who thereupon threw off his coat also. After a few moments open fighting they clinched and Matthew fell underneath the three Matthew brothers then rushed forward and it is alleged kicked and treated young Rodd, eventually getting him against a sleigh whereby he met his severe injury. The neighbours rushed in and tried to stop the row, but it is affirmed the Rodds attacked and hit and kicked several of them also, including Miss Jane Munroe. Hence the four actions against them as reported yesterday.

Mr. Warburton while prosecuting Wellington Matthew, caused considerable merriment by the following series of questions:

"Did you urge on your brother Joseph, telling him to go for Rodd, beat him, &c., &c.?"

"Yes."

"Did you take part in the religious services?"

"Yes."

"Have you ever heard of a book called the bible?"

"Yes."

"Do you know that it contains a verse 'Blessed are the peacemakers'?"

Mr. Good then spoke up and said that it also said "Fight the good fight."

BAPTIST CHOR CONCERT.

The concert given last night under the auspices of the Baptist Choir of this city was a pronounced success. The Philharmonic Hall was never more crowded. The programme was an excellent one and the manner in which each number was rendered, evidenced much skillful management on the part of Mr. Hawley, choir director.

The instrumental music was choice, consisting of piano duets by the Misses Bremner and by Miss DesBrisay and Miss Palmer, with Mr. Harris and Miss McDonald as violin accompanists. Mr. Fletcher's cornet solo, and Miss McDonald's violin selection, with piano accompaniment by Miss Caven, were special features of the entertainment. They elicited rapturous applause.

The soloists were Misses Marion McKay, Louise Nicholson, Laura Howard and Mr. Fred Hart. Flattering comments are heard on every side to the excellent voices of the singers and the appropriateness of their selections.

Concert-going people cannot but mark a decided advance in the science of "elocution" in our city, and certainly Miss McMILLAN had reason to be proud of her talented pupils, Miss Josie Stentford and Miss Flo McKenzie. The selections were given in an inspiring manner, and were long and correct. Rev. Mr. Corey persanated

Fifty dollars were realized the night of the hockey match at Crystal Rink.

The postponed trial of the four boys charged with burglary was resumed yesterday morning, lawyer Wyatt for plaintiff and J. K. Martin for defendants. Two new witnesses—William (Professor) Cushing and William Gallant were examined. No new evidence of importance was given. Three of the prisoners, James McDonald, John Perry, and Peter McLeod, were dismissed, the evidence given not being sufficient to convict. Judgment in the case of Joseph O. Noonan was reserved until Saturday next. It will be remembered that Noonan informed the police of the burglary, but at the first trial denied knowledge of the affair. He was then arrested on the strength of the information he gave the police, charged with participating in the crime.

A large and intelligent audience attended Dr. McVey's lecture in Y. M. C. A. Hall last night. The subject was "Canadian Nationality." This, like all of the doctor's lectures, was a treat—a good subject, excellently discussed. Messrs. David Rogers, J. H. Bell, J. K. Martin and Neil McLeod, made comments on the subject after the learned doctor had done.

There is little doubt but that the House of Lords will disallow the Welsh Church Disestablishment Bill. It may be advanced a few stages beyond the measure of last year, and possibly may reach the Lords, but it will never escape alive from the Gilded Chamber. During the past month the importations into Buffalo from Canada increased largely, as compared with the corresponding month last year.

The Rosebery Government has introduced another important measure—the Irish Land Bill. The Rosebery record, at the end of its term of office, will be that there hardly ever was a Government that introduced so much important legislation and never one that carried less.

On Friday night C. R. Shortis, a discharged employe of the Valleyfield, Que., cotton factory, entered the paymaster's office with the intention of robbing him of the twenty-five thousand dollars for the payment of the hands. He failed in his attempt, but shot the watchman and one of the clerks dead, and seriously wounded another clerk. He was subsequently arrested.

The last Toronto fire is asserted by some to have been of incendiary origin. That is bad. But the lack of foresight that exposed the city to the risk of three such conflagrations as it has lately suffered from is worse. An incendiary cannot be guarded against. Apparatus and men can be provided, however, that will minimize his evil work. The blame for most of the loss Toronto suffers from rests on the city itself.

Ex-President Harrison rests his mind from legal and political worries by reading current fiction. He is especially pleased with the new school of which Conan Doyle, Stanley S. Weyman, S. Levett Yeats, and others are the exponents, the school that applies realistic treatment to romantic periods. The ex-President is a close reader and a good critic, and is fond of talking on literary topics.

Frederick Douglass got so used to being left to himself in a railroad train, because nobody would sit with a negro, that he fell into the habit of appropriating a full seat at once; and he has said that one of the earliest signs of a change of public feeling was when a white man came along and said, "You are occupying an entire seat."

"I know that," said Mr. Douglass. "Well, what right have you to it?" exclaimed the man. "Because I'm a nigger," returned Douglass. "That don't give you a right to two seats," said the man, and Mr. Douglass made room for him.
