Nature makes the cures after all.

Now and then she gets into a tight place and needs helping out.

Things get started in the wrong direction.

Something is needed to check disease and start the system in the right direction toward health.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with hypophosphites can do just this.

It strengthens the nerves, feeds famished tissues, and makes rich blood.

The Golden Gray Eye.

I might pile Ossa upon Pelion in the way of description of gray eyes culled from fiction. There is, however, one type of gray eye whose appearance in story I have not yet noted, says Nina Allen in Lippincott's.

We have had gray eyes which "resembled nothing so much as moss agates." Sea gray eyes are not uncommon. Amelie Rives has bestowed upon Ilya, in "The Witness of the Sun," great violet gray eyes, "like rain washed amethysts," while Mr. Paul Leicester Ford has recently introduced us to a pair of slate colored eyes.

But at the present writing I have yet to meet with golden gray eyes in fiction. They are to be found, however, in nature, the most luminous of all eyes, I think, the iris about the edge a soft old gold or golden brown, gradually melting toward the pupil into a warm gray. This lovely color I have seen in the eyes of a dog and of a child—the eyes of the dog wistful, appealing, pathetic with unutterable things; the child's speaking of a soul as yet undarkened by shades of the prison house and splendid with the light that never was on sea or land.

To the novelist desiring something new in eyes I would respectfully recommend the golden gray.

Verdi and the Priest.

Verdi, when a boy, had a gift for Latin, and the village priest advised him to become a priest. Meanwhile the lad became an office boy in Barezzi's wholesale grocery store, and for a little over $7 a year played the organ in the church at Roncole, but one day it happened that Rev. Dr. Seletti, who had decided that the boy should be a monk, was officiating at mass while Verdi played the organ. The priest was struck with the unusual beauty of the music, and at the close of the service expressed a desire to see the organist. Verdi appeared, and the priest recognized him as the pupil whom he had sought to turn from music to theology.

"Whose music were you playing?" asked Seletti. "It was beautiful." Verdi said shyly that he had brought no music with him that day and had been improvising. "So I played as I felt," said he.

"Ah!" exclaimed Seletti. "I advised you wrongly. You must be no priest, but a musician."

After that the way was easier. The priestly influence on his side opened many a door to him.—Youth's Companion.

God's Perfect Flowers.

A little girl who makes the stems of artificial flowers for a living was sent to the country by a benevolent woman. On the day of her arrival the child was taken into the garden. She marveled at the growing pansies. She felt of their petals and sniffed incredulously at the purple and golden blossoms. "I never knew that they were 'real' flowers," she said. "I didn't know that velvet could grow." A giant rosebush in full bloom was greeted with: "Ain't they lovely? They're much better than Felice could make, and she's the best hand in Fleurette's factory."

She picked a rose and carefully pulled it apart. "I'm going on flowers next year, but I won't make roses like this. They don't give you time to stick 'em together this way." The benevolent woman thought this a good opportunity to awaken the child's soul and pointed out the why and wherefore of the rose's perfection. The child sighed when she had finished and said simply, "I should think he'd be angry when he sees the flowers they make at Fleurette's."—Paris Messenger.

Pat's Correction.

Two men, a German and a Frenchman, who met in New York, had a heated argument over the question whether the wife of a state governor had an official title or not. One contended that she should be addressed as "Mrs. Governor So-and-so." The other stoutly insisted that she was simply "Mrs. Blank, wife of Governor Blank." They finally agreed to leave the matter to the first man they met. He proved to be an Irishman. They stated the case to him and asked for his decision.

"Nayther of yez is right," he said after a moment of severe cogitation; "the wife of a governor is a governess."—Exchange.

Fagots to Burn Heretics.

Were requests for the purpose of buying these at all common? One such was left (I speak from memory) by the widow of a city freeman, who bequeathed a tenement, the rent of which was to be applied for the purchase of fagots for the aforesaid purpose. For many years I believe the rent went into the pockets of the parochial clergy. It is now applied for the purchase of coals for the poor, "to warm their bodies instead of burning them," as it was wittily said.—Notes and Queries.

Secretary Alger has received a letter from General Woods as to conditions at Santiago. The General says that matters of every kind are adjusting themselves to the new conditions, and that people are returning to their homes and to work; that business is reviving; that churches and schools are opening and every looks to better and happier days.

Ask for Minard's and take no other

While the tension between Germany and Austria is weakening the triple alliance, signs multiply of a notable rapprochement between Italy and France. Early next spring the French fleet, it is just now announced, is to go to Cagliari for the purpose of saluting the Italian fleet, which at that time will escort King Humbert to Sardinia.

Nature's Own Dyspepsia Cure

Nature's remedies are not like man's—they never fail. Of the many remedies intended to cure dyspepsia, sour stomach, distress after eating, weight in the stomach, wind on the stomach, loss of appetite, dizziness, nausea, impoverished blood, catarrh of the stomach, sick headache, and similar results of indigestion, only one is uniformly and unfailingly successful—that is nature's own remedy, found only in

DR. VON STAN'S PINEAPPLE TABLETS.

The pineapple contains a large amount of Vegetable Pepsin—nature's most potent aid in digesting food. Mix meat and pineapple and agitate the mixture at a temperature of 103°, and the pineapple will completely digest the meat.

Take two of Dr. Von Stan's Pineapple Tablets after your meals and they will digest your food without aid from the stomach. This course rests, strengthens and heals the stomach. The tablets will cure the most chronic case of dyspepsia. They give immediate relief. Take them for a short time and your stomach will be as strong and hearty as that of a farmer's boy. They are as pleasant to the palate as candy.
