

could be overrun and annexed, or harassed by Fenian raids and menaced by superior numbers till their revenues were wasted, and their industry paralyzed, the Provinces would voluntarily consent to rub out the long frontier that they could not defend, and seek admission to the Republic on the best terms they could obtain.

When this was done, the parties in this country who take an English view of everything might be satisfied and consoled. But how would it stand with these Islands? When their only formidable commercial rival ruled the whole Continent of America, from the Gulf of Mexico to Hudson's Bay,—when her Mercantile Marine was increased by a million of tons of shipping,—when England was left without a harbour of refuge, a spar, or a ton of coal on the whole Continent of America,—when four millions of British subjects had been drawn behind the Morrill Tariff, and every loyal Irishman in British America had been converted into a Fenian,—when the outposts of the enemy had been advanced 800 miles nearer to England by the possession of Nova Scotia and Newfoundland,—does anybody believe that American diplomacy would be any the less aggressive, or that the coasts of this great continent of our civilization would be any the more secure? No! England, now fighting for Empire would be compelled to fight for existence; and Ireland, now tolerably steady, impressed by the odds against England, might become a doubtful ally; and what would be worse, millions of loyal subjects, trained in love and devotion to the Mother Country, would be coerced into a contest in which victory would be even more heart-rending and degrading than defeat.

In view of these consequences, certain to flow from this or from any scheme for dismembering the British Empire, with all respect I would implore the Cabinet to put them all aside, and set seriously about the much more hopeful and rational task of so combining its intellectual and physical resources, as to make defence easy and the burthen light.

Having shown, with sufficient clearness, that any attempt prematurely to set up a 'Flesh Power' on the American Continent, even if our people were united upon the policy, and anxious to sustain it, would be a blunder worse than a crime, it is scarcely worth while to show that all the difficulties and chances of failure would be multiplied ten-fold if the people of the Maritime Provinces were carried into such a Confederacy by an arbitrary Act of Parliament. The people of Scotland were only reconciled to the Union by the lapse of time; and the people of Ireland can hardly be said to be reconciled yet. But in both these cases the measures matured, however questionable the means employed, were adopted after full discussion by the Parliaments to be swept away; and in neither case, let it be borne in mind, was there a powerful neighbor close at hand to sympathize with those whose independence had been purchased, or to foment the bitter feelings which in both countries disturbed society for long periods, and often broke into open rebellion.

Beside the Provinces there is a powerful neighbour, armed to the teeth, wary and watchful, bold and enterprising, ready to profit by divisions and perturbations, which now fortunately do not exist. That neighbour does not respect the union of sentiment which pervades our territory, and which has been fostered by the institutions we are asked to overturn, that leave to the Maritime Provinces nothing to envy in the privileges enjoyed by the smaller States of the Union. But let those Provinces be arbitrarily annexed to Canada by an Act of Parliament which had never been laid before their Legislatures or sanctioned by their people, how long then will he be indifferent or inactive? When our people go into mourning, as I believe they will, and wear their flags at half-mast on every sea as an expression of their sorrow and indignation, our neighbours will not be slow to perceive that this forced union has brought strength as a forced marriage brings happiness; and when Canada is blessed with hundreds of thousands of unquiet subjects, who hate her rule and will not be too prompt to fight for a domination which they repudiate, and for a nationality which they despise, the Republicans will promptly avail themselves of errors in policy which every loyal subject of the Queen should pray Her Majesty's Ministers to avoid.

When the American Republic was formed the smaller States, which entered it, had many guarantees for protection and fair play which this Quebec scheme of government does not give to us. In the first place, no one large State could dominate over all the others. There were, even at that time, Virginia, the Carolinas, Maryland, Pennsylvania, and New York to balance and control each other; and, as some of these grew in wealth and population, there came Ohio, Kentucky, Louisiana, Illinois, and many others, which precluded the possibility of any permanent and invidious centralization of power, and so the smaller States grew and prospered, and were protected. In our case we are to have a Confederacy in name, but in reality the centre of power and influence will always be in Canada. It can be no where else. When divided the eastern and western sections may quarrel as they have always done upon sectional questions, but they may be trusted to combine against us whenever our interests clash, and having no other large state to lean upon we will be about as powerless as Hanover or Brunswick in the grasp of Bismarck. Had the Maritime Provinces been permitted to organize themselves first and then to unite with Canada, they might have acted together and had a chance to guard their interests; but, disunited, it is plain that they must be a prey to the spoiler; and having but forty-seven representatives, all told, it is apparent that the Government of the Confederacy will always rest upon the overwhelming majority of 147, and that even when close divisions and Ministerial crises occur the minority can easily be split up and played off against each other for purely Canadian purposes.

Again, the smaller states of the Union secured an equal representation in the Senate, and without this protection they could not be induced to enter the Confederacy at all. We are asked to accept a proportional representation in the Upper Chamber, and can always be outvoted by the Canadians, even when, which is very unlikely, we all act together. Then the American Senate, in which these small States are equally represented, share with the President executive duties, and have a veto on all Treaties and on important appointments. The Senate is, therefore, in the American system, the body in which largely resides not merely the dignity but the real substantial power of the Government; and thus to the smaller States is secured a fair share of influence over the administration, that we, by no provision which the Quebec scheme includes, can ever hope to obtain. The people of the United States elect their own Senators. Ours are to be selected by the Canadian Minister, resting upon a permanent Parliamentary majority which we may occasionally hope to influence but can never control.

The Colonial Minister in former times selected Colonial Judges, and the Canadians liked that system so little that they broke into open insurrection in order to get rid of it. When they appoint ours, they must not be surprised if we follow their example, and even sigh for the American system of electing them which is now universally condemned. Then the Canadians are to select our Governors. The single "golden link," as it is sometimes called, which binds us to the Mother Country, is to be rudely severed, and the only piece of patronage reserved to the Crown in return for the protection which the "New Nationality" cannot do without, is to be wrenched from the Sovereign and dispensed from some bureau at Ottawa. The pretension is modest. Looking down the long line of Governors have been or two not otherwise, or who were indiscreet, but at all events they were gentlemen, and many brought with them ladies trained in the accomplishments and pure domestic life of this country. I can remember Lord Dalhousie, Sir James Kempf, Sir Peregrine Maitland, Sir John Harvey, Sir Gaspard Le Marchant, Lord Normanby and others, who had acquired experience or won distinction in the service of the Crown. The example set by such people and their families is to be traced in the social cultivation and gentle manners diffused from our capital to the shire towns, and all over the country. But all this is to be changed. Of course no such people will be eligible under Confederation. No nobleman or gentleman, who has served his Sovereign by land or sea, need apply. Even the Victoria Cross would be no recommendation. No patriotic lover of his country—no defender of the rights and interests of the Maritime Provinces need hope for this promotion; but if there is any pliant and subservient tool of the Canadian Minister, who has never won distinction anywhere, and is heartily despised by his own countrymen, any body may safely bet the odds in his favour. But how long will the system last? Just till the men beside the sea trample it under their feet; and, driven by the instinct of self-preservation to protect themselves, elect their own Governors, and set their Canadian masters at defiance.

Instead of wasting precious time with schemes to dismember the Empire, I wish the Government and people of England would seriously consider how it can be organized so as to draw around the Throne its vast intellectual and physical resources, and lift us above the atmosphere of doubt and apprehension in which, in those latter days, it appears we live. The people of these Islands surveyed with wonder, a few years ago, the wealth of their Provinces combined in the Crystal Palace. A happy thought, developed by some organization, enabled the people of each to become better acquainted with the others, and the people of England to become familiar with them all. But how little is known here of the undeveloped strength which lies in those great British communities, whose thoughts ever turn to the Mother Country—whose stout arms would willingly defend her; and whose resources, pecuniary, physical, and intellectual, might, by simple arrangements, be drawn into the service of the State. But this subject is too important to be treated at the close of a paper, which I fear those who do me the honour to read it may consider already too long.

The Herald.

Wednesday, October 10, 1866.

HON. J. HOWE'S PAMPHLET ON CONFEDERATION.—This brochure, which has fallen like a bomb-shell among the Confederates, is so admirable in every way, that we offer no apology for yielding up all our available space to its republication. The Confederate organs in the neighboring Provinces, while devoting whole columns to ridicule and abuse of Mr. Howe, yet have neither the honesty nor the courage to place his pamphlet before their readers to enable them to judge for themselves of its merits. We have no hesitation in saying that this pamphlet is full, conclusive and unanswerable; and the way in which Mr. Howe knocks the stilts from under the Canadians is refreshing to behold. The subject of Confederation having been now fully discussed, both in its local details and bearings, as well as upon the broader basis of "nationality," the people, if not the candidates, ought to have their minds made up on it. It ought to defeat cunning, dishonesty and treachery—to be made a test question at the polls, for otherwise all our argument and opposition will have been wasted.

FAIR AND CATTLE SHOW!

A FAIR, for the Exhibition and Sale of Stock, was held in Charlottetown, yesterday, 9th instant, commencing at 11 o'clock, a. m., at HOLLAND GROVE, near the residence of the Hon. Dr. YOUNG, at which the number and quality of the Stock exhibited were creditable to the Colony. The Stock belonging to the Model Farm presented a very fine appearance. Altogether the Exhibition was a decided improvement upon that of late years. The lateness of the hour at which we obtained the prize-list precludes our giving a lengthy or detailed account of the Show.

The Lieut. Governor arrived by the steamship Albatross from Cape Breton on Saturday last.

The telegraphic news of the past week is unimportant. The leaders of the Republican party in Mexico have formed an alliance with the Fenians.

Mrs. Stevenson has realized £30 by her Concerts in the neighboring Provinces in behalf of the sufferers by the fire.

SUPREME COURT.—The October term of the Supreme Court of Judicature, was held at St. Eleanor's on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week, Mr. Justice Peters presiding. The criminal calendar was light. There were but three cases tried, one for larceny, Pacifico Bernard, (dumb); one for obtaining goods under false pretences, J. Dickie; and one for an assault on a constable. The offenders were sentenced respectively to two, one, and eight months' imprisonment. There were few, but several civil cases and none of any importance.

SEVENTEEN new buildings, two of them three, one of them four, and none of them less than two storeys high, have been built, or are in the course of construction in the burnt blocks of the city. Of these, two only are brick, but we believe several will be built with this material next spring.

H. M. Ship Terrible, arrived in this Port on Tuesday night last, and after coaling, steamed off direct for Great Britain.—Isl.

We clip the following in reference to the PRINCESS ROYAL from an English paper. History abounds in facts illustrative of the influence which a mother exercises over the future of her children;—every line in the following exhibits in bold outline the parent's care and training of our beloved QUEEN, and we can read of the PRINCESS ROYAL's works of mercy, which we do not help exclaiming "How like her Royal Mother!" "The Prussian Monitor says:—'The Princess Royal, whose physical and moral state has imperatively demanded, since the death of her son, Prince Sigismund, an absolute repose of some weeks,—and the more so that she is still performing the duties of a mother towards her newly-born infant—will leave the residence of Heringdorf, according to present arrangements, in the first days of August. The Princess, who, at Heringdorf, has evinced the liveliest interest in the care of the wounded, has caused several apartments of her palace to be arranged for the reception of disabled officers. After a short stay at Berlin, which will be devoted to a visit to the hospitals and to conferences with the members of the charitable societies, her Royal Highness will proceed to Silesia, to occupy herself with the general direction of the hospitals of that province, placed under the command of her august husband.'

The Annual Rifle Competition, under the auspices of the Rifle Association, came off on the Stock Farm on Thursday and Friday. We are writing in ignorance of this year's score, and are therefore unable to compare it with that of previous competitions, but we believe our marksmen will be found to have lost rather than gained ground. This is easily accounted for. The limited time given for ball practice, combined with the fact that many of the rifles returned from the country a year ago (and from which those used on Thursday and Friday had been selected) were returned in bad order, render a high score this year an impossibility. The number of competitors were over 120. As on many former occasions, Major Pollard stands at the head of the prize list. So long as he pulls a trigger may he always wear the victor's crown whether the scene of peaceful combat be the fair fields of Prince Edward Island or the hill sides of the sister Provinces.

First Competition. Distance 300 and 500 yards, with long Enfield, 5 rounds at each range:—
1st prize, £5—Major Pollard, Queen's County Regiment, 25 points.
2d prize, £3 10s.—Allan Stewart, Dundas Rifles, 25 points.
3d prize, £2 10s.—Henry Scales, Queen's Own, 24 points.
4th prize, £1—Angus McDonald, 24 points.
5th prize, £1—Capt. Beer, Dundas Rifles, 23 points.
6th prize, £1—Ensign McRae, do., 23 points.
7th prize, £1—Abraham Brown, Little York, 22 points.
8th prize, £1—J. T. Rodd, Mounted Rifles, 22 points.
9th prize, £1—Wm. Kennedy, Dundas Rifles, 20 points.
10th prize, £1—Capt. Holman, Mounted Rifles, 20 points.
11th prize, £1—Sergt. Wadman, Dundas Rifles, 20 points.
12th prize, £1—Donald Lane, Nine Mile Creek, 19 points.
13th prize, £1—George McGregor, Artillery, 18 points.
14th prize, £1—David Harper, Little York, 18 points.

Major Pollard, besides His Excellency's prize of £5, takes the National Rifle Association Medal.

Second Competition. Distance 200 and 400 yards, with long Enfield, 5 rounds at each range:—
1st prize, £5—David Arbing, Royalty Rifles, 30 points.
2d prize, £4—Harry Binns, Artillery, 27 points.
3d prize, £3—J. Hughes, Bayfield Rifles, 27 points.
4th prize, £2 10s.—M. McLeod, Hampton Rifles, 27 points.
5th prize, £2—W. Rodd, Mounted Rifles, 26 points.
6th prize, £1 10s.—H. C. Lawson, Bayfield Rifles, 26 points.
7th prize, £1—F. Doherty, Royalty Rifles, 26 points.
8th prize, £1—J. Crockett, Little York Rifles, 25 points.

Third Competition open to all comers. Distance 200 yards, 10 rounds, long Enfield:—

1st prize, Donald McLeod, Dundas Rifles, 32 points.
2d prize, Noah Harper, Thistle Rifles, 29 points.
3d prize, Patrick Redmond, 4th Regiment, 27 points.
4th prize, George Seaman, Little York, 27 points.

In the case of ties, the order of merit, which was decided in firing off, is given above. The score made by the ties is not here given.—Pat.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills—These admirable medicaments are adapted to the wants of all ages, ranks, and classes of the community. Ulcerations, bad legs, and enlargement of glands, should be first fomented with warm water, and then dressed with this Ointment. In a very few days it will display its cooling and curative powers over the diseased parts. When the complaint has become chronic or has weakened the constitution Holloway's Pills should be taken, while his Ointment is used to free the whole body from any taints or foul humours. Both Ointment and Pills may be employed with the utmost confidence; they contain no ingredients which can do the slightest harm or cause any shock to the most nervous or delicate.

DIED.

At Charlottetown, on Monday, 8th instant, after a few days illness, Mr. Charles McKenna, trader, very deeply regretted by numerous friends in town and country.

At "Osborne House," in this City, on Tuesday, the 2d instant, after a few days illness, Amy Duraxa, daughter of John Bent, Esq., of Westmorland, New Brunswick, aged 23 years. The deceased came to this Island, a few weeks since, on a visit to her friends, in perfect health.

At the residence of the Hon. W. Lord, on Monday the 1st instant, aged 22 months, William Leahy, only child of Mr. Artemas Lord.

Suddenly, on the 27th ultimo, aged 33 years, Mr. Thomas L. Smith, Harness Maker, of Soudis.
