St. Andrews Concert At Kensington Is Lively And Gay

—No one number can be singled out for special mention at the St. Andrews concert at Kensington on November 25, since every number received satisfying applause and calls for encores, to which many of the entertainers obligingly responded.
The response to soloists Frank Burke and Miss Mary Gass really made the rafters ring, only equalled perhaps by "The Wiggle of His Kilt" by a group of the Lads and Lassies with Shirley Burke as soloist. Miss Gass is the Kensington High School music teacher and was her first public appearance here. A well-received number was a rendition from Robert Burns' poem, "The Cotter's Saturday Night," by Mrs. Thomas Humphrey.

The Lads and Lassies Pipe Band under the direction of Pipe Major and Mrs. Burke are as popular as ever and have won for themselves in various competitions, long rows of medals since their first appearance in Kensington at the St. Andrews concert, one of their very earliest as an organized band, in 1930.
The Presbyterian Young Adults and Choir who sponsored the annual St. Andrews concert, which this year as usual packed the King George Hall to the doors, staged a one-act play in which Arnold Walker as John Wingate, a young husband, sets in motion a "comedy of errors" when he comes home to find that his wife, Betty, (Mrs. Earl Semple) has gone "home to mother" (the play's title). The boss, Mr. Billings (Fred Semple) is coming to meet John's wife, and in his anxiety to make a good impression in view of a promotion, he begs first Halle the maid (Mrs. Lorne Dunning), then Nancy, his sister (Mrs. Wallie Thompson), and Grace, his cousin (Mrs. Horace Painter) to play the part of his wife for the boss' benefit. Since each has accepted the role, each convincingly plays the part, to the amusement and consternation of Mr. Billings. Betty, the real wife, on second thought, returns, the tangle is unravelled, and John is promised the promotion when a bit of quick thinking on Betty's part earns the boss' gratitude.

Previous to the opening number, the "new" minister, the Rev. E. H. Bean, was introduced by Mr. Edison Rayner, and very acceptably acted as master of ceremonies throughout the evening. Mrs. Evelyn Jay was accompanist.

Silver Wedding

—Mr. and Mrs. George Brookins, popular couple of Kensington celebrated the 25th anniversary of their marriage on Nov. 28.

Intending to celebrate the happy occasion quietly they were pleasantly surprised on Nov. 27 when their home filled to capacity with friends, and well-wishers anxious to show in a tangible manner the esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Brookins are held. The first part of the program consisted of piano selections by Mrs. Ernest McEwen and Mrs. Russel McKay. The M.C. called on Mr. J. L. Saunders to read an address to the celebrants extending congratulations and enumerating the many fine qualities which have endeared Mr. and Mrs. Brookins to the citizens of Kensington.

At the conclusion of the address an array of beautiful gifts was presented. Leading the parade of gift-bearers was Elizabeth Davison presenting the bride of 26 years ago with a bouquet of carnations in a silver bowl, which was followed by other gifts.

The same hearing led the AFL to expel the IILA from its ranks for harboring gangsters and racketeers.

Says Lobbies In U. S. Protecting Racketeers

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Powerful political lobbies in the United States are protecting racketeers, the former counsel of a congressional investigating committee says.
William F. McKenna, Los Angeles lawyer who resigned his post with a House of Representatives sub-committee on racketeering Friday, said a congressional inquiry on "the political mantle that protects racketeering in this country" is essential.

McKenna resigned following a hearing in Detroit on the AFL Teamsters Union. His statement Monday was prompted by remarks in Detroit by a Committee member, Rep. Clare Hoffman (Rep-Mich).

Hoffman, in announcing McKenna's resignation to return to private practice, said the conduct of the chairman, Rep. Wint Smith (Rep-Kans.), at the hearing "caused McKenna to leave with a bad taste in his mouth rather than a good feeling."

Hoffman said McKenna was "humiliated in not getting more support from Smith in his efforts to get the story out of Hoffa (James R. Hoffa, head of the Michigan teamsters)."

McKenna in his statement said the House government operations committee began investigating racketeering last spring, conducted hearings in Kansas City and Detroit but had barely skimmed the surface in those cities.

He said he, as counsel, and the investigators made it their business to stay out of politics but "we would, however, have been deaf, dumb and blind investigators to be oblivious to the pressures exerted by certain powerful lobbies to stop the inquiry into racketeering."

TORONTO, (CP)—An army bomb-disposal squad Monday night got rid of a bomb by throwing it in the city incinerator. City employees called the army when they found what looked like a bomb in the city dump. The army experts agreed that it was a bomb, but a practice one. Full of sand.
