

In Case You Missed Them, Here They Are:

words by LL Coolbreeze/pictures by Danica Jackson

They should make signs like this for beds instead of floors.

It's important to know where all the exits are in case you get caught running around naked in the computer room.

Nobody sits on this bench because the squirrels who live in the tree behind it are protective of their nuts.

Tylenol tries a new marketing approach with vending machines.

Charles Schultz's son tries to continue his father's legacy, but every time a character is supposed to say "Good Grief" he writes "sweet fuck"

Last semester's shipment of "join the Brain Gain" hats.