100 Weddings in One to "Graduate" Students in Marriage Education

Montreal Model Couples Test Training Theory

Typical of the prospective brides who will be married en masse in Montreal is Lucie Nadon, 22, whose fiancé is a 24-year-old foundry worker.

BY W. A. O'BRIEN, NEA Service Special Correspondent

MONTREAL, Quebec, July 23—One hundred "model couples," rigidly trained for a year in a sequence of marriage preparation courses, were wed in a single ceremony in ancient Notre Dame church here today. Styled to offset waves of unfavorable publicity about the marriage institution, the mass marriage will highlight the Jociet Congress, meeting of young Catholic workers from Canada, the United States, and Europe. Following it will come an every-three-month check-up on the newlyweds for five years. Then Rev. Father Henri Roy plans to draft a sort of textbook on marriage preparation and its results which will provide a guide for future generations. Father Roy is the Jociet movement founder. The name is taken from initials of the association's French name, Jeunesse Ouvriere Catholique (Young Catholic Worker). The 100 couples were selected from thousands of applicants in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec. Their curriculum of courses included such subjects as morals, economics, and medicine. SURVEY SHOWED IGNORANCE Last year Father Roy started promoting his giant marriage scheme to prove to the world the importance of careful and serious preparation for wedlock. He had been conducting a survey on matrimony pertaining to marriage. Here were his findings: 1. At least 50 per cent of the young people marrying today are not morally prepared. 2. At least 20 per cent are not financially prepared to assume responsibilities of marriage. 3. In the great majority of cases, young people do not realize the importance of marriage.

Famous among "mass marriages" are those held in Italy under sponsorship of Mussolini. Newlyweds who figured in a Rome wedding of 700 couples are pictured above in church.

Rev. Father Henri Roy proxy for Cupid.

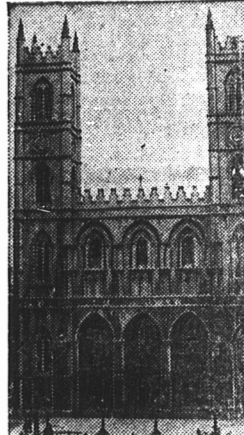

Considering it an event determined by chance alone.

4. The average young person knows little or nothing about the necessity of or the procedure of preparing for marriage by studying all the aspects of the venture. 5. Rare ideas about marriage and lack of preparation is responsible for the vast majority of separations and broken homes. The labor class would not be so poor, mentally and morally, if parents had known their duty and lived up to it.

The report on the survey was circulated throughout the Jociet membership and an invitation submitted to join the mass marriage. For the last three months, training discussions have been taking the form of group lectures—for mixed boys and girls, for boys only, for girls only, and for individuals. Father Roy has been extensively interviewed and lectured to each group and has been accompanied continually by Dr. Donat Voghel, well known physician and psychologist.

FROM 17 TO 25 Ages of the young couples range between 17 and 25 years. The future husbands earn on an average of $25 per week and all are reasonably secure in their jobs. The ceremony began at St. James Basilica where the couples received Holy Communion in body. This followed by registration—legal procedure required in Quebec. A hotel breakfast was an intimate affair, with friends joining the couples at their own expense.

Sept. 25 it was announced today at the Convention all went out to affiliated Unions, Local Labor Councils and Provincial Federations of Labor. The Convention will be the first since the International Unions now affiliated with the Congress of Industrial organizations were expelled from the Trades Congress early this year under pressure from William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor. These C. I. O. unions have a Canadian membership of about 25,000.

Notre Dame, where mass marriages were performed.

At the church, the center aisle had prayer-stools for the couples, their witnesses, and the celebrant priest in each instance. At the church door, red and pink flowers were distributed by Jociets to the guests.

His Excellency, Msgr. Georges Gauthier, archbishop of Montreal, presided at the ceremony and blessed the unions. Prayers were spoken out loud throughout the ceremony and the Mass that followed.

After the service, a luncheon was held at St. Helen's Island—the honor table being occupied by the couples. Sets of rosaries, personally blessed by Pope Pius XII, were presented to each bride. The groom received crucifixes. "History and our exhaustive survey and personal experience," says Father Roy, "have convinced us that very few early marriages ever fail. In youth, one is eager to succeed and gives all his energy to the end. When the mature years have been reached the young husband has stability—and a firmly implanted ideal.

"Courtship is the barometer of marriage—at the future husband is not moral and generally irresponsible during courtship, it is folly for the girl to expect him to change afterwards. I know of young men who took out other girls a week before their marriage. They don't change. All of these 100 couples have been thoroughly prepared—they'll make a go of it."
