RCAF MAY USE SUPER-TIGER

The cabinet is reported to have a recommendation from the RCAF that the government buy the American Grumman Super-Tiger jet plane. A decision is unlikely before summer. This is a stock photo of the Grumman, capable of flying at twice the speed of sound, which is in production for the U.S. Navy.

New Nfld. Loggers Union Ready For Contract Talks

By IAN MACDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GRAND FALLS, Nfld. (CP)—Officials of the newly formed Brotherhood of Newfoundland Woodsworkers (Ind.) will meet with Anglo Newfoundland Development Company representatives today in an attempt to secure a working agreement for 5,000 loggers.

An official said Saturday night that 5,000 loggers have joined the union since Premier Smallwood opened a membership drive with a fiery speech here a little more than a week ago.

The premier said the union gained 1,600 members the first day. Membership has been growing steadily ever since, officials claim.

If an agreement is reached, BNW loggers will enter the woods where International Woodworkers of America (CLC) loggers have been maintaining picket lines since they went on strike Dec. 31 to back demands for higher wages and a shorter work week.

MEN SORE, EDGY

IWA field director Jeff Hall of North Bay, Ont., said his men are "sore and edgy" especially since the premier pushed a bill through the legislature Friday which decertified IWA as bargaining agent for A.N.D. Company loggers.

H. Landon Ladd, president of IWA's District 2, spends most of his time visiting picket lines. He addressed a meeting of loggers at Gambo, about 90 miles from here Saturday night.

Mr. Smallwood said the decertification bill was necessary because the IWA strike was affecting the economy of the whole island which values its woods industries at more than $30,000,000 annually. Lumbering and papermaking is the largest source of income.

The premier also objected to IWA tactics and what he called the union's plan to make professional loggers out of 3,000 woodsmen and ignore the 17,000 fishermen who supplement their income by working in the woods a few weeks or months each year.

TEST PICKET LINES

Mr. Hall said three carloads of loggers attempted to drive through IWA picket lines in the Millertown division Friday. "They were just testing," he said.

The premier said several days ago IWA picket lines have disappeared and the men were wandering aimlessly through the woods in search of work. The IWA said their men were standing fast. Although IWA has made no attempt to bolster already strong pickets, Mr. Ladd said volunteers who have not yet been called to duty have been coming in to help.

Meanwhile the BNW's temporary president Max Lane was slated to arrive here Sunday night after spending a weekend in St. John's. He will head the BNW delegation which is expected to include union treasurer Sterling Thomas and organizer Doyle Sharpe.

It was not immediately known what A.N.D. Company representatives would be on hand. Likely delegate is general manager T. R. Moore who has said he would never recognize the IWA by signing a working agreement with them. He turned down a conciliation board report which suggested IWA loggers should get a five cent an hour wage increase over the next two years and six hour reduction of the 60 hour work-week without loss of take home pay. Demands would give loggers $1.22 instead of $1.05 an hour.
