Entertainment Program At Teachers Convention

A highly successful convention and charming little operetta, "The Royal Princess." The excellent costumes added much to the meaning and attractiveness of the number, in which both the singing and the spoken dialogue were very well done by the children. Outstanding in her role was Margaret MacIntyre, as the Princess, who acted and sang her way into the hearts of the audience. Virginia MacDougall as the Prince and Roberta Lappin as the King also displayed very promising voices.

Something new was introduced by way of entertainment at the convention, which was also very much appreciated by the delegates. Instead of the banquet which has been held in other years, an evening of entertainment at P. W. C. was arranged for Wednesday night.

A number of students from Grades IV and V at Notre Dame Academy presented a colourful

Other Highlights

Another highlight of the evening's entertainment was the presentation of a play entitled "The Royal Touch" by the Teachers' Training Class of P. W. C., under the direction of Miss Helen Yeo. Those taking part were Jean Gallant, Mary McElroy, Orella Gallant, Roderick MacDougall, Phyllis MacIsaac, Lorne MacGulgan, George MacKenzie, and Electa Roberts. The play was set in the present, the setting outside a church somewhere in Europe. The make-up was under the charge of Miss Eleanor Lowe, Miss Doreen Smith was in charge of the costumes, the stage manager was Mr. William MacPhee and the teacher training students were responsible for the scenery.

The rest of the program consisted of a sing-song led by Frank Costello, with Royston F. Murgford as accompanist, a solo by Miss Christine King of Charlottetown, a former teacher, and square dancing for all, which was directed by Miss Florine Evans. Refreshments were served to all present.

Choral Selections

On Tuesday evening a new Charlottetown choral group made its debut at the convention, as they entertained the audience with a few well-chosen selections before the guest speaker, Dr. C. E. Phillips, gave his address.

The group, which was organized last October, is composed entirely of young singers, and is known as the Charlottetown Choral. It is directed by Mr. William Rogers, who showed a great deal of skill and understanding as he guided the mixed chorus through their selections. The excellence of their tone, their interpretation and their enunciation, spoke worlds for their training under him.

The following were the selections they sang: "O, What a Beautiful Morning" and "Oklahoma," from the Rogers and Hammerstein musical comedy, Oklahoma; "Moonlight Madonna" by Pibich; "Hallelujah," from the musical comedy, Hit The Deck, by Youmans; "The Ash Grove," an old Welsh folk song; "Come to the Fair," by Easthope Martin.
