The editor of our WI News is asking for more subscriptions so the expenses of publication can be met.

Mrs. John McRae invited the members to her home for the December meeting when roll call is to be answered with an exchange of Christmas gifts.

Mrs. Walter MacLeod will be in charge of the program.

IDA BAILEY ALLEN

Apple Stuffing Stuffed Into Pork Chop Pockets

MILK is a food in liquid form, essential for babies, children teenagers and adults. It is the best of all food investments for it contains no waste; every drop can be used.

Common Knowledge

This is common knowledge. Yet we are often asked, "How can I cut my milk bill — it's running away with my budget — yet not deprive my family of necessary nourishment?"

Buy inexpensive vitamin D milk for the children to drink. If the budget is greatly curtailed, use reconstituted evaporated milk as a beverage for babies and young children.

Evaporated milk is used in baby formulas by the best pediatricians. There is no reason why it cannot be continued indefinitely as a beverage.

Flavor Variations

The flavor may be varied in many ways if necessary. Evaporated milk costs about half as much as fresh milk.

For cooking, use reconstituted whole evaporated milk; it cuts the cost 50 per cent. Or cook with fresh skim milk or with reconstituted non - fat dry milk, which costs about one-third as much per quart as fresh whole milk. If more fat is needed, add 2 tbsp. fat with each half - pt. of skim milk.

TOMORROW'S OVEN DINNER

Tomato - Cauliflower Saladettes
Braised Apple-Stuffed Pork Chops
With Small Onions
Browned Halved Swee. Potatoes
Molded Seasonal Fruits-in-Gel
Coffee or Tea, Milk

TOMATO - CAULIFLOWER SALADETTES

1½ c. raw cauliflowerettes (small sections)
¾ c. not - sweet zippy French dressing
3 ripe tomatoes
3 c. shredded crisp lettuce
½ tbsp. freeze - dried or frozen chives

Cook cauliflowerettes 5 min. in 1" boiling salted water. Drain. Add French dressing; marinate and chill at least 1 hr. Drain; save dressing and use when tossing lettuce.

Cut tomatoes in halves. Slash top of each half to roughen surface slightly. Season well with salt and pepper.

Place a tomato half on a bed of tossed lettuce. Cover top of tomato with cooked cauliflowerettes; dust with chives. Serve at once.

PORK CHOPS

1 c. pkgd. herbed stuffing crumbs
1 c. fine - chopped peeled cored tart apples
½ c. apple juice or cider
6 thick loin or rib pork chops
1½ tsp. seasoned salt
2 tbsp. fat
2 tbsp. margarine
1 (10½-oz.) can condensed beef broth
1 can - measure water
Juice ½ lemon
1 (8-oz.) can, small onions, drained.

Combine and mix crumbs, peeled apple, apple juice or cider. Cut slit in each pork chop to make a pocket. Fill with crumb stuffing. Press edges together. Dust all over with seasoned salt and flour mixed.

Slow - brown on both sides in margarine. Add beef broth and water. Cover and bake about 50 min. in mod. oven, 325 degrees F., or until fork - tender. When almost done, add lemon juice and onions which should be well drained. Our chef often adds 1 tsp. cumin seeds when chops are half - braised.

THE CHEF EXPLAINS

Evaporated milk and condensed milk are two different products. When evaporated, the water is about half evaporated from the milk, no sugar is added. To use in cooking, an equal measure of water is added.

Condensed milk is made by adding 16 per cent cane sugar to fresh milk. It is then heated to dissolve the sugar, and evaporated. The milk is condensed to two - fifths of the original volume. The sugar content is about 40 per cent. This is useful only when an amount of sugar almost equal to that of milk is needed.

MARY HAWORTH

Troubled Teenager Asks About Prolonging Life

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Whoever said teenagers are a troubled generation knew what he was talking about.

Very few people know that I am a chronic worrier — just my mother and me.

During the past two years I have had many questions about life; but usually I found answers (somewhere, somehow) until now.

My present question pertains to religion, for which please help me find an answer.

I want to know why all people try to help "save lives," by which they mean prolonging human life, if the world - to-come is a far better place, supposedly, than the world we know on earth?

If we truly believe this, wouldn't it be more in keeping with our creed to let people die sooner, rather than later, so that they may attain to happiness more speedily?

You may say "It is love that makes us want to keep our loved ones alive." But if we love someone, shouldn't we want maximum happiness for him (or her)?

If there is something I am overlooking or don't understand about this, please point it out to me. I want my loved ones and me to live long and I don't know why. P.S.: To sum up, why do people think it is so bad to die, if a better world awaits us? L.P.

DEAR L.P.: Neither the mind nor the language of man can encompass the whole meaning, pattern and logic of the infinite creation in which we "live and move and have our being."

But I would suppose that most thoughtful persons have grappled, fleetingly or closely, at one time or another, with the question that you pose here.

My own answer (sketchy, of course) which reconciles, for me, the seeming paradox — as to why people strive so mightily, for the most part, to live long on earth, when "eyes of faith" foresee a life immortal and glorious (for the "saved") beyond the grave — is as follows:

Human creatures on the beam of sound health (of body, mind and spirit) instinctively treasure and - or instinctively cling to the "gift of life" to use the folk-phrase. Intuitively sensing, perhaps, that it does represent a wondrous potential: a stake in the universe.

Also, the Scriptures tell us that "death is the last enemy to be overcome."

According to the story of creation, recorded in the Bible (notably in the dramatic account of the Garden of Eden), death as a gateway to eternal life (of salvation or damnation, as the case may be), is a dread expiation which the progenitor of mankind brought upon the human race, by wilful defiance of the Creator's original design for communicating His life to the human species.

In short, the "deposit of faith" (so - called) is to the effect that it is entirely appropriate to human nature, for individuals to cling tenaciously, or appreciatively, or fearfully to life on earth, while also anticipating or preparing for a tremendous acceleration of "life everlasting" (on a higher plane, or different wave - length, as we say nowadays) — after the death penalty, awesome and inexorable, has been exacted.

I am reminded of a call I made, one morning, upon a truly saintly priest, spiritually radiant, very like the late Pope John XXIII. Then about 70, my friend was convalesing from a severe second heart attack. He rejoiced frankly in being out of the hospital, back with beloved workaday associates who valued him greatly..

In effect I said to him, honestly marvelling: "But I should think that you, of all people, would as soon go on as stay here—." To which he replied with a kind of intense gaiety: "Oh NO! I love being alive in this world—!" His summons came a couple of years later.

Sometimes his answer echoes in my memory and I have a momentary sense that his love of life, so joyous and vital, in the midst of earthly trials, must be magnified incomparably in the courts of heaven. M. H.

ELLEN'S DIARY

The Robins' Empty Nest Clings To The Old Tree

"It's wintrish" a farmer come by this morning offered, when he came to sit a minute in the kitchen. "Real cool. And I never saw so much snow down this day of the year."

It was windy, the steps more or less plodding along the yards. The wind had a sting in its breath. But the sun shone, and the air was pleasantly invigorating... There is, it would seem, always a decided lift to the spirits when a touch of frost obtains, a challenge not existing in the Fall's mild, dampish days.

There was a grace in the old white birch, with its robins' empty nest and the idle rope-swing, as feet in the snow, its attractive bole and widespread branches were limned prettily against the sky's morning - blue. How the frost - gems sparkled on the white cover spread on the fields! While we are not enamored by the winter's bleakness, we do find much beauty in the season: in its purity, its cleanliness and in the all-enfolding white of a snowstorm past; also in a snowfall, particularly that which comes down in great feathery flakes, it may be toward the close of a gray day, direct from the "goose-woman," the childrens' fanciful sky - woman, who deals in such engaging down.

"I see" James commented, nodding toward the low of the valley, where the old spruces stand, "the trees are commencing to drop their snow. That's usually a sign of continuing fine weather. No?" he smiled, "that I wouldn't like to have it turn mild!"

"There are more than you wishing that!" the visitor grinned. "Yes, there's a lot of plowing waiting to be done."

"Too much" James smiled, withal a bit uneasily.

"Oh well, we can plow in the spring."

"I've never been too much taken up with that" James said. "No, I always said that if I could do all my plowing in a day, it would be that one just before the freeze-up."

"We'll get open weather yet before the winter sets in. Or so" the visitor added, "this will be one long winter, I'm thinking."

"A long feeding" James nodded.

"Got the stock in?"

"Yes, in a way. Some are loose - housed - in and out at will."

"And the horses? You have..."

"Too many!" James grinned. "Among them two foals!"

"There, that's something I must see" the other farmer smiled rising, "Let's go to the stable to have a look at them."

A day of wintry scenes. One to be grateful for the various stirrings made throughout the summery days.

"It's a long time, I've done a lot of chorring, since we had supper, Ellen" James says, putting by his reading in the old armchair. "How about a bite of something?" he smiles.

Until tomorrow — Diary — Good - night.....

ANIMALS UNWELCOME

BRISTOL, England (CP)— Members of the pop singing group The Animals have complained that they were turned away by the Royal Hotel after the management claimed they were "detrimental to business." An Animals spokesman said "they seem to think we were not properly dressed."

Friends Honor Winsloe Family

Mr and Mrs. James Good, Winsloe entertained Monday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gillespie who have recently moved to Charlottetown after residing for 23 years in that community.

Perley Taylor, as master of ceremonies, brought to the attention of those present the purpose of the gathering and after which Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie and Rudy to seats of honor, called on Daniel Coles to read the address. Presentation of gifts was made by James Good and Garry Good.

Mr. Gillespie expressed regrets at leaving Winsloe, and extended an invitation to friends to visit he and Mrs. Gillespie in their home in Charlottetown.

Music and refreshments were enjoyed.

WEDDING DAY IS TOUGH FOR ONTARIO COUPLE

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—It was anything but a happy wedding day for Margaret Ellen Emberson of Guelph and Henry Ernest Rempel of Kitchener.

The bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Rempel of Kitchener were on their way to the ceremony in Guelph when they were injured in a head-on collision. Mrs. Rempel was taken to hospital in Guelph.

Mr. Rempel, also injured, now is at home. His son's honeymoon to the southern United States, Mexico has been postponed until after Christmas so he can run Mr. Rempel's upholstering business in Kitchener.

At the reception at a Guelph motel the bride's sister, Mrs. Joseph Felice of Toronto, broke her arm in a door, and was taken to hospital as well.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT

The bride's brother, John Emberson of Toronto, was driving a group including the newlyweds, in his new car after the reception when he was in an accident. All were wearing seat belts, and the only one injured was the bridegroom who is limping from shin bruises.

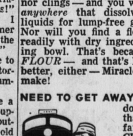
It was only a few days ago that the bridegroom's brother, John, of Kitchener, got out of a truck and gashed his legs. He was an usher at the ceremony—game, but limping.

The best man, Richard Butler of Stratford, Ont., was shot in a hunting accident two months ago and is paralysed from the waist down. At the bridegroom's residence he carried out his duties, though in a wheelchair.

The bride herself was in an accident a month ago when the driver of the car was killed. She suffered leg injuries and still is wearing bandages and limping.

Other than that, everything went well.

Confidentially yours, BARBARA BRENT



MONTREAL, NOVEMBER 26 — Do you spend many and many a sleepless night because of a bad bronchial cough or chronic bronchitis or asthma? Then here is good news for you from Mrs. G. Schofield of Toronto:— She writes "I have been subject to chronic bronchitis which has made me cough and gasp for breath. I also get asthmatic attacks in damp weather. I am very grateful that Raz-Mah Capsules give quick and satisfactory relief from my suffering." Raz-MAH Capsules bring almost instant relief — with no unpleasant after-effects. YOU CAN PROVE (by wearing black gloves if you wish!) how truly mess-free baking can be — with new Five - Roses MIRACLE FLOUR! See for yourself how amazing it is — it never sticks nor clings — and you won't find any flour anywhere that dissolves as quickly in liquids for lumpfree gravies and sauces. Nor will you find a flour that blends as readily with dry ingredients in your mixing bowl. That's because there's only one INSTANTIZED FLOUR — and that's Miracle. You won't find a flour that bakes better, either — Miracle is the finest flour modern millers can make!

NEED TO GET AWAY FROM IT ALL? At times I think we all do . . . and I know how you can do exactly that . . . without creating chaos in the family budget! Go Canadian National and CHARGE-A-TRIP anywhere in Canada. Spending $50 or more, you can charge practically everything from CN train tickets to all CN hotel accommodation, Maple Leaf Tours — even Alaska cruises. There's no down-payment and three years to pay. Or — GO NOW — PAY LATER. Enjoy all this and rail travel (on any railroad) in North America, plus accommodation at any Statler-Hilton Hotel (Spend $300 minimum — two years to pay). Go CN — the way of the worry-free.

SOMETHING TO SING ABOUT . . . the meat you buy at DOMINION is tender for two very good reasons. First, because Dominion's own skilled meat buyers tour the packing-houses every day, carefully selecting the prime young sides that Nature has blessed with an extra measure of quality. But even the very best quality meat is not tender until it is properly hung. So Dominion waits patiently until time and Nature bring out the full, rich, satisfying flavour and goodness. The result is natural tenderness . . . tenderness that owes everything to Nature . . . and to Nature alone! No wonder Dominion meat-lovers say: There is no substitute for the natural tenderness you get at Dominion!"

South African Court Hears Of Plot For White Murders

Africa (AP) — A court heard here of an alleged plot for trained gangs to carry out mass murder of whites at Christmas vacation resorts this year.

The resorts pinpointed for the killings were in the eastern Cape area, witnesses told the court during the trial of 11 Negroes.

This was how the plan would work, the court heard:

A group of 13 Port Elizabeth men were to be trained by the underground "spear of the nation" movement. They would learn sabotage techniques and how to make bombs.

Each one would set out to recruit six men in Port Elizabeth and six more in the Transkei Negro reserve.

By mid-December, "soldiers" trained in guerrilla warfare in other countries would return to South Africa and go into hiding at Transkei.

FORM INTO SQUADS

The start, in the height of the vacation season, they would form into squads of 18—six soldiers and 12 recruits.

When the whites were "revelling and the liquor was flowing freely" the squads would come out of hiding and strike at beaches, cinemas or wherever large crowds of whites gathered The objective was to kill as many whites as possible, witnesses said.

At the regional magistrate's court, at Somerset East Town, 100 miles north of here, the 11 Negroes faced charges of contravening the suppression of Communism Act. One was jailed for 11 years. The others each received nine-year sentences.

SNOWFLAKE WATCHER

Snowflake expert Wilson A. Bentley once observed that the best crystals occurred with a west or north wind and with the barometer reading 29.60 to 30.20 inches.
