Baptist Church Mission Band Has Annual Party

The annual Christmas party for the Charlottetown Baptist Church Mission Band was held on Thursday afternoon, with the Senior W.M.S. assisted by members of the Dr. Zella Clark Mission Circle as hosts.

The ladies of the missionary societies and mothers were welcomed by the superintendent, Mrs. Stirling Inman, who also introduced the officers of the Mission Band.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Thane Burke, and opened with the call to worship. This was followed by the hymn, "Away In A Manger". The scripture lesson which was the Christmas story was read by Delores Tait after which Nancy Nicholson led in prayer. The Mission Band purpose was then repeated in unison.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Diane MacInnis. Roll call followed with 43 members, three leaders, 42 ladies and 17 visiting children. The offering was received by Norma Armsworthy, Carol Whiteway, Graham Burke and John Burke and dedicated.

The flannel-graph lesson, a series about an Indian boy and his family, was given by Mrs. Carl F. Burke. Both children and guests found it most interesting.

This missionary hymn, "Jesus Loves the Little Children", closed this part of the meeting. A program of recitations, exercises, solos and duets, which was arranged by Mrs. Inman and Mrs. George Lewis was presented.

At the close of the program several of the ladies expressed their appreciation of the program presented and the work being done in the Mission Band by the leaders.

Mrs. Burt Rideout offered prayer after which a buffet supper was served. The conveners, Mrs. Carl Burke and Mrs. Dan Bell, were extended a vote of thanks by the secretary.

Before the Mission Band meeting, the Senior W.M.S. held its regular meeting with the president, Mrs. J. A. Clarke, presiding.

During the program Mrs. A. M. Gregory, who for the past 13 years has been a faithful member of the Charlottetown Society, and for six years previous a member of the Montague W.M.S. was presented with a life membership in the United Baptist Women's Missionary Union. The presentation was made by Mrs. T. G. Ives on behalf of the society.

Cypriots Break 3-Week 'Truce'
NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—Greek Cypriot terrorists, who broke their three-week "truce" during the weekend, Sunday declared "a new phase in the battle of Cyprus will begin with the slogan 'we shall fight to the bitter end.'"

The declaration was made in leaflets which fluttered down during a church service in Nicosia from galleries usually occupied by women.

The leaflets said: "Down with the shameful Macmillan plan (Britain's seven-year partnership plan for Cyprus). Governor Foot you will have to tread on many corpses if you insist on implementing your beastly plan. But the majority of the corpses will be on your own side."

Monkeys Called Top Secret At Air Development Centre

By MARY ELLEN LYNCH
Dayton Daily News Staff Writer
DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Monkey business at the Wright Air Development Centre is classified top secret.

When the report came that monkeys might be "in training" for space travel at the base here, a reporter queried public information officials and was told monkeys are classified.

Then, when it was announced by the defence department that the United States will be firing a series of big satellites from California in the next few weeks—and that some will carry mice and monkeys—the queries started again.

MICE INVOLVED?
Were some of the mice and monkeys involved in the project being trained or tested at Wright Air Development Centre's aeromedical laboratory? And if so, could they meet the press?

"That was a D of D (Department of Defence) announcement and not an ARDC (Air Research and Development Command) or a WADC (Wright Air Development Centre) announcement," answered a public information officer. "We don't have anything to do with their monkeys."

WHAT ABOUT HUMANS?
Since humans who have been involved in space medicine tests, such as isolation for long periods at the aeromedical laboratory, have emerged to hold press conferences, it didn't appear that a monkey or mouse could say much to endanger national security. Therefore a call to the Pentagon and to the top echelon of air force PIOs was indicated.

A general came on the phone. "Monkeys? Mice? I don't know about that situation. I'd better let you talk to our colonel who is in charge of Operation Discoverer."

Discoverer is the defence department's tag for the project that will send the new incommunicado monkeys and mice chattering off into space.

"I don't know where they are or if they're classified," the colonel in charge of the project said. Reminded that most of the space medicine experiments in the past involving humans were not classified and asked how come monkeys might be, the colonel answered: "Well, we've got to think of every little thing, you know."

MOST CERTAINLY
Well, would he find out about the monkeys and the mice? "Most certainly will. Most certainly."

Twenty minutes later the phone rang. It was the man everything started with—the first PIO at Wright Air Development Centre.

"Had a call from Washington," he said. "He told me to keep my mouth shut."

So, apparently, will the space-bound monkeys and mice, wherever they may be.

But chattering away right now at the Washington Zoo is a monkey who rode an Aerobee rocket in space for the air force in 1952. It is hoped it won't say anything it shouldn't.

Baby Given Blood Despite Objections

TORONTO (CP)—A seven-day-old baby girl was reported in satisfactory condition Sunday by hospital officials who gave her blood transfusions despite the objections of her parents.

Lori Lynn Campbell was made a ward of the province at a six-hour emergency closed court session held in Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children.

The 11 negative baby was turned over to the Children's Aid Society which promptly allowed the transfusions.

The child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Campbell of nearby Newmarket, had refused the transfusions because they were Jehovah's Witnesses, a religious sect which equates accepting blood substitutes with eating blood, a sin according to their beliefs.

Hospital officials said it may take doctors a few days yet to determine whether Lori's brain has been damaged by the delay. Judge Lorne Stewart, chief of the province's juvenile court, ruled that in a legal sense the parents were guilty of neglecting their child's welfare.

Storm Spreads Up Atlantic Coast of U.S.
NEW YORK (AP)—A wintry storm which iced and frosted as it moved north spread up the Atlantic seaboard Sunday. Behind it, harsh cold gripped most of the southern states.

The snow pattern, which left much of the south under an unaccustomed blanket of white, blew northeastward, dropping heavy snow on either side of the southern Appalachians and eastward to the coastline of North Carolina, Virginia and Maryland.

The pattern reached into eastern Kentucky.

ICY IN ATLANTA
A band of icy conditions, between snow and rain, lay across the Carolinas and just north of Atlanta, Ga. Many highways were closed.

Zero weather blanketed northern New England and the upper Midwest states from Indiana through Iowa and most of Kansas.

Another snow pattern in the upper Mississippi Valley was headed east.

Six additional inches fell on already-snowbound Osage, N.Y., Saturday night. That brought the total for December to 86 inches—75 since Dec. 7.
