

HUNTER RIVER COUPLE CONGRATULATED

S.C. Wright, deputy minister of agriculture, left, is shown congratulating Mr. and Mrs. James H. Andrews, Jr., Hunter River, for their feat of showing the entry of eviscerated capon that was the champion box of capon at the Royal Winter Fair. The Andrews also won first prize with boxes of chicken and of fowl. Poultry officials yesterday said they believe the Andrews' capon was among the best ever shown from this province. They are entitled to the W.A. Brown trophy but it had not arrived in time for presentation yesterday.

Liquor Sale, Theft Cases Occupy City Police Court

Veronica (Mrs. Fred) Larkin, Charlottetown, was convicted of unlawfully selling liquor to another person at 85 Richmond Street in City Police Court yesterday morning. Magistrate A. J. Haslam, Q.C., fined her $200 and costs or three months.

The case of Mary Mamie, charged with a similar offence, was adjourned to Jan. 21.

William Earl MacFarlane, City, charged with break, entry and theft at Buster's Irving Service Station on Grafton Street asked to be tried by a judge without a jury. Magistrate Haslam granted the request but warned that no more elections would be granted as this was the third time the accused had changed his mind. However this was the first time he had been represented by counsel. Acting for the accused is C. R. MacQuaid. Alan Scales is crown prosecutor.

Roger Paul Gallant, City, also appeared before Magistrate Haslam on a charge of break, entry and theft at Buster's. The accused had previously been chosen to be tried by a magistrate. Counsel for the accused was C. R. MacQuaid while Alan Scales acted for the crown.

10 WITNESSES

The Crown called 10 witnesses. Eldon MacDonald, a mechanic at Buster's, testified he had been the last to leave the station the night of the break and had done the locking up. He stated that only himself and Buster have a key and that the night lights were left on inside both the garage and the office.

Ethel Mills, a clerk at Buster's, testified that stock to be sold in the office was kept on shelves in the office and in the stockroom. She said that there had been about six boxes of chocolates on the shelves when she left on Jan. 8 and that they were gone the next morning as well as a supply of cigars, cigarettes, gum, aspirin, etc. She told the court they take inventory at Buster's about once a year.

Malcolm (Buster) MacMillan, operator of the service station testified he arrived at the scene of the crime about 4:20 a.m. on the morning of Jan. 9 as a result of a phone call from the police. At that time he noticed that the bottom pane of glass in the east garage door was broken. He stated a great deal of merchandise was missing at that time and empty cartons and boxes had been thrown around on the floor.

John MacEachern, an Island Telephone Company Employee, stated he was driving to his home in Parkdale between 4:15 and 4:30, Jan. 9th when he noticed people walking along the tracks across Kensington Road carrying what looked like a box.

SAID NOT TO ANSWER

James Longaphie testified that his nephew and the accused were at his home, 10 Kensington Road, on the evening of Jan. 8 and were having a few drinks. Mr. Longaphie had gone to bed between 11:30 and 12:30 and was awakened by a knock at the door at about 4:30 a.m. When he went to open the door, his nephew, Billy MacFarlane, told him not to answer because it was the cops. He asked Billy why it would be the cops and he told him that there had been a break. When he asked Billy how he knew there had been a break he told him to shut his mouth and go to bed.

Mr. Longaphie went back upstairs but came down again and let the police in. The accused, Gallant, had been in the living room but when Mr. Longaphie went to the door he went upstairs.

Mr. Longaphie said that the police had come in and searched the house finding two boxes of merchandise in the basement.

Cst. Allan MacLeod of the Charlottetown police force testified he had checked Buster's periodically as he made his rounds from 9 p.m. on Jan. 8 to 4:30 a.m. on Jan. 9 when he discovered the break. He stated that the break must have taken place between 4:15 a.m. and 4:20 a.m.

He said that he had earlier seen the accused and another person, Billy MacFarlane, leave 10 Kensington Road and after sending other police cars checking in different directions went to 10 Kensington Road.

Cst. Douglas Taylor stated he agreed with the evidence of Constable MacLeod, whom he accompanied to 10 Kensington Road on the night in question.

Sgt. Charles Ready stated he had remained in his car and watched the house at 10 Kensington Road from 3 a.m. to 3:15 a.m. on Jan. 9 before going off duty. At 4:30 a.m. he received a call at his home and went to 10 Kensington Road where a number of other police officers had already gathered. He went down to the basement where he saw two cartons of chocolates, cigarettes, cigars, aspirins, etc.

FOUND BOXES

Then he went to the second floor of the house where he found the accused lying face down on a bed fully clothed. He went downstairs and found MacFarlane hiding behind a large chair in the living room. The goods found in the boxes in the basement were taken to the police station and soon after located in the bondroom, the chief of police being the only person to have a key.

Sgt. Ready stated he didn't think the accused was drinking when he was arrested and that no explanation by the accused was given as to where the goods came from.

Cst. Donald Trainor was called to the stand and said that he agreed with Sgt. Ready's evidence and had nothing further to add.

Police Chief Sterns Webster came to the stand and testified that the goods had been left in the bondroom since their placement there and that he had the only key.

The accused was remanded to Jan. 19 without bail.

Edward F. McIvor of Kinkora was fined $25 and costs or five days for speeding.

Two fines of $5 and costs or two days were handed out. One was for failing to stop at a stop sign and the other for going the wrong way on a one-way street.

Popular City Man, Cripple Dies In Hospital At Halifax

Ralph Carmody, 8 Beach Street, Charlottetown, died Jan. 13 at Victoria General Hospital, Halifax, where he had been a patient for the past two months.

Ralph, better known as "Rabbit" to his many friends, entered the Prince Edward Island Hospital last September and was transferred to Halifax in November.

In his early years he worked with the Pure Milk Co. before joining the Royal Canadian Navy in which he served in the Second World War. After leaving the service he was employed with the Island Fertilizer Co until he joined the Canadian Army.

While in Army service he was involved in a car accident near Charlottetown which left him a cripple and necessitated him using a wheelchair. At that time he was taken to Camp Hill Hospital where he took a laboratory technician course and as a result obtained employment with the Provincial Health Laboratory in Charlottetown.

The late Mr. Carmody did not allow his physical handicap to interfere with his enjoyment of life. He drove his own car, went fishing and hunting, and was always ready to help others in any possible way.

He leaves to mourn his wife, the former Grace Taylor of Charlottetown, two children, Lee and Karen, his mother, Mrs. Helen Carmody, 17 Spring Street, Charlottetown, three brothers, George and Gordon, City, and Charles, Toronto, and five sisters, Helen (Mrs. Colla Power, Ormocoit, N.B.), Delores (Mrs. Erwin Grant, Cornox, B.C.), Joyce (Mrs. Ira Townsend, Summerside), Eleanor (Mrs. Ron Yearwood, Charlottetown) and Wilma (Mrs. George Young, Charlottetown). His father and one brother predeceased him. The brother was killed in action in World War II.

Funeral services will take place this Sunday afternoon from The Cutcliffe Funeral Home at 2 p.m. Interment will be in the People's cemetery.

'65 Shipping Season Seems Open Already

The 1965 shipping season at Charlottetown seems to be clearly in the making with the arrival here yesterday evening of the Irving Oil Company's icebreaking 3,000,000 gallon tanker "Ours Polaris."

The Polaris arrived here from Saint John, N.B. with a full cargo of heating oils for the local bulk storage plant.

William Connolly, district manager for the company, said last night that Harbor Pilot Jack MacDonald reported that ice is rapidly forming in the Northumberland Strait and Hillsboro Bay and in some places it is starting to raft.

Mr. MacDonald said that despite ice conditions the Polaris with her re-enforced bow experienced no difficulty in keeping to her schedule, and she tied up at the company mooring shortly after 7 p.m.

Mr. Connolly said that it is expected that her cargo will be discharged early this morning and the Polaris will sail for Saint John about 10 a.m.

She will then take on another full cargo and turn around immediately for another trip to Charlottetown, which should put her back here about Jan. 22, which date will certainly be a record.

Mr. MacDonald said that although there was no need of assistance, the CCGS Sir John A. MacDonald was observed in the strait standing by and will remain on hand until the Polaris clears the harbor today.

Intersection Claims Two Accidents

Two separate traffic accidents occurred yesterday on the intersection of Belvedere Avenue and the Trans-Canada Highway, city police reported.

The first occurred at 8:30 a.m. when a 1965 model car driven by Charles MacArthur, Charlottetown, R.R.7, collided with a 1962 vehicle driven by Robert J. Petrie, 9 Maple St.

Both vehicles were travelling south on the Trans-Canada Highway. No estimate of damage was given.

At about 7:30 p.m., a 1964 model car driven by Mrs. Eva Leon, 7 Smallwood Crescent, travelling west on Belvedere Avenue, collided with a 1959 compact car driven by Amon Burt, 129 Upper Prince, who was travelling south on the Trans-Canada.

The Burt car was reported to have received extensive damage, while only minor damage was sustained by the Leon car.

No one was reported injured.

Vehicle Climbs Snowbank, Rolls

SOURIS — Extensive damage was sustained by a 1962-model car driven by Harold Lloyd Stewart of East Baitie when it went off the St. Peters Highway at Little Harbor yesterday.

Stewart was proceeding west on the highway when he lost control of the vehicle, which climbed a snowbank, came back down and rolled over.

The driver was unhurt. Souris detachment of the RCMP investigated.
