Demonstrators In Istanbul Are Dispersed

ISTANBUL, Turkey (Reuters)—Tanks and troops dispersed thousands of demonstrators Sunday as they marched toward the British and Greek consulates here. The tanks had been waiting in the streets of Istanbul as the crowds burned an effigy of Archbishop Makarios, leader of the movement to unite British-ruled Cyprus with Greece, at a demonstration in favor of the partition of Cyprus into separate Greek and Turkish sectors. The demonstration came a few hours after the foreign ministry said Turkey had reached a "full and mature decision" to realize the partition of Cyprus "as the only solution ensuring Turkish security."

JACKSON'S POINT, Ont. (CP)—Five RCMP men, crowded into a 14-foot outboard motorboat, were drowned late Saturday or early Sunday when the boat capsized on squall-rippled Lake Simcoe. Portugal's President Re-elected

LISBON (CP)—Premier Antonio Salazar's National Union party easily fought off its first serious opposition in 30 years and scored a sweeping victory in Portugal's presidential election Sunday. Rear Admiral Americo Tomas, the National Union candidate, was elected by a majority that approached 90 per cent. No vote breakdown was announced immediately. The opposition candidate, Gen. Humberto Delgado, conceded defeat. But he said he has no intention of sending his congratulations to "those people." "The elections only showed," he told an interviewer, "that, like Hitler and Mussolini, Salazar can win in Portugal against nobody." Delgado, 52, is Portugal's director of civil aviation. He had said he would fire Salazar if elected. ONLY ONE NAME Only the name of Tomas was on the printed ballots. Supporters of Delgado had to write in his name. Interior Minister Joaquim Trigo de Negreiros said Delgado won a majority in only two or three of Portugal's 302 electoral districts. He made this showing in the Oporto area, but was swamped elsewhere. Delgado charged fraud in the campaign. He said many of his supporters had been stricken from the register of voters for no good reason and many of his aides had been arrested trying to distribute ballots to voters. De Gaulle is tackling the prob-

Suggests Plan To Better Canada, U.S. Relations

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker Sunday night suggested Canada and the United States set up reciprocal legislative committees to improve relations between the two countries. This was the main suggestion in a program to extend Canada-U.S. economic co-operation outlined in a speech to students of Wesleyan College here, of which the Canadian prime-minister was made a fellow. He said these committees would do much to achieve solutions to recurring problems. "We have difficulties arising from our trade relations and in particular from the fact that while there has been a continuing unfavorable balance of trade for Canada over the years... and that in the disposal program of agricultural products by the United States, Canada has been materially hurt economically." "We are united in our defenses both in Europe and in North America... but unity of defence is not enough," he said. "We must reinforce our defence action by economic collaboration. The relations between our countries cannot be taken for granted. They require constructive, continuing and co-operative considerations."

U.S. ASSESSES MIGHT Russian Army Is Huge Force

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States defence department says the Soviet Army is capable of fighting a major non-nuclear ground war, starting an atomic war or providing men for a war begun by a satellite nation. An assessment of Russian forces was issued Saturday night by the army, whose senior officials have been predicting that limited war is more likely to break out than global nuclear conflict. The 14-page summary of Russian strength said: "The Soviet Army is capable of: (1) Initiating a major land war to be fought without recourse to the use of mass destruction weapons, (2) initiating an all-out nuclear war, and (3) supplying manpower as 'volunteers' and providing material support for operations in areas roughly contiguous to the Soviet Union and vulnerable to Communist exploitation."

Taylor of St. John's and of Corner Brook, the children of Mrs. Taylor, 5, and Mrs. Taylor, 7, who were visiting their grandparents. The bodies of the elderly couple were not immediately available. Macmillan In Washington For Talks With Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan flew into Washington Saturday to talk over with President Eisenhower such world issues as the French political crisis and a possible summit conference with Russia. Macmillan characterized the sessions as informal talks with the president, an old acquaintance. But U.S. officials said they expect Macmillan in conferences starting Monday to urge Eisenhower to endorse increased Western trade with the Soviet Union, to move as rapidly as possible toward a summit conference and to strengthen Western machinery for waging the economic cold war. Macmillan flies to Ottawa Wednesday for talks with Prime Minister Diefenbaker. MAY HAIT TESTS 2. The summit and the atom-Eisenhower has been working for several months toward a decision to end U.S. nuclear tests after the current Pacific series. A U.S.-Russian-British agreement to halt testing has been regarded by Eisenhower and Macmillan as the agreement most likely to be reached at a summit conference. 3. East-West trade—Soviet Premier Khrushchev focussed attention on this problem by writing Eisenhower last week that he would like to buy U.S. machinery and consumer goods. Britain for several years has been more interested in Soviet trade possibilities than has the U.S. government. HOSPITAL OFFICIAL DIES SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Leo Daniel Doyle of Saint John, 58, for 29 years supervisor of stores at Saint John General Hospital, died in Hospital Saturday.

Captain Says Super-Tanker Kept Going After Collision

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. (AP)—The captain of the fishing vessel Yankee said Sunday night that the super-tanker Jamestown "kept right on going" after a collision 12 miles off the tip of Cape Cod early Sunday. Capt. Arthur Duarte, 55, and the two-man crew of his 60-foot trawler won a three-hour fight to keep the vessel afloat and nurse her into port, aided by the U.S. Coast Guard. "The weather was very, very clear—like a bell," Capt. Duarte said. "We couldn't believe it when we looked up, it was like a mountain rolling down on top of us. It was only 100 feet away. I kept blowing my whistle."

DIDN'T SLOW DOWN

"A crewman on the deck of the Jamestown looked down and yelled, 'What's the matter?'" Duarte said. "But he (the tanker) didn't even slow down." Duarte said he was unable to contact either the Jamestown or the coast guard because his radio-telephone was out of order. However, the Yankee's sister ship, fishing nearby, radioed the information to the coast guard. A coast guard spokesman at Boston said that about two hours after the collision the Jamestown, radioed, questioning whether any vessel had been overturned off Race Point. The official said the Jamestown was advised of the mishap, that the coast guard was on the scene, and to report the incident to the coast guard at its destination, Harbor Island, Tex.
