

IN MEMORIAM

GERALD GARFIELD MacDONALD

Never was a community stirred with greater sorrow than were the people of Pleasant Grove and vicinity on June 27, when it became known that Gerald, eight year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Macdonald met his death by drowning in Winter River.

He and his two brothers, Ray and George, went swimming Saturday afternoon and, unknown to the boys, the channel came quite near the shore. Gerald waded out too far, and slipped in beyond his depth. His brothers tried to save him, but the youngsters failed in the attempt.

Gerry, (as he was familiarly known) was a manly and intelligent boy. He led his class at school and was dearly loved by his teacher and schoolmates. But it is in the home where his loss will be most keenly felt, where there will be an empty chair, and a much loved voice that is stilled. The sympathy of the community goes out to the family in their sore bereavement. The Master said: "Suffer little children to come unto me."

Two little hands forever clasped Upon a peaceful breast, Two little hands forever closed, And sweetly taking rest.

There are left to mourn besides his sorrowing parents, three sisters and two brothers, Blanche, Phyllis, Dianne, Ray and George. The funeral was conducted by Rev. J. M. Sproule on Monday, June 29, at 2 p. m., and was largely attended.

Funeral services were held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Morrison, Alfred Morrison, Vincent O'Connell, Everett Birt, and Raymond Birt. Interment was in Covehead Road Cemetery.

One Skeleton Found — Two Still Missing in Gaspé Bush

Equipment and clothing collected in the Gaspé wilds are examined by police searching for an answer to the disappearance of three U. S. bear hunters. One skeleton, headless, has been found. The clothing, a blood-stained rifle and two sleeping bags were found near the skeleton. Police at first thought it was the body of a man killed by bears but now discount that theory.

This airview shows the seven-cabin camp near which the skeleton and bits of camp equipment was found. The skeleton is believed to be that of Eugene Lindsey, who set out from Holidaysburg, Pa., a month ago on a bear-hunting expedition with his son, Richard, 17, and his school friend, Frederick Claar, 20.

Men are believed to have stayed at this cabin during their trip into the bush. Search for other remains goes on while laboratory tests are being made of remains found in the bush. Police are pondering many possible theories.

Searching the Gaspé area for traces of the two men still missing are: Ira Claar, uncle of Frederick; Willard Campbell, friend of the Lindsey family, and Clarence Claar, father of Frederick. All three were experienced in bush life.
