HOSPITALITY OF ISLAND ENJOYED BY CHURCH COUNCIL COMMISSIONERS

They came from the prairies, from the northern part of Alberta, from the British Columbia inlets, from the mining towns of northern Ontario; from the metropolitan areas of Montreal and Toronto, from the fishing inlets of Newfoundland and from every part of the Maritime Provinces. The 375 commissioners of the General Council of the United Church of Canada, many of them with their wives, making a total of about 575 people made a friendly invasion of the Island Saturday afternoon and were thoroughly overwhelmed by the hospitality and goodwill of their hosts. Perhaps a greater cross-section of Canadian life has never come to the shores of Prince Edward Island in such large numbers. A 12-car special train bearing the delegates and their wives was met at Cape Tormentine by Mr. George Fraser of the Prince Edward Island Travel Bureau and Piper Bruce MacLaren, on behalf of the Bureau playing "The Road to the Isles", led the large assembly aboard the waiting Abegweit. Through the courtesy of Canadian National Railway officials, the boat had been held for a half hour in order to accommodate the distinguished guests.

WELCOMED ON FERRY

Each visitor as he or she landed on the deck of the boat was handed the Travel Bureau's illustrated folder as well as a specially prepared book put out for the United Church delegates. Mr.

Hurricane Edna Rough Off Coast Of Labrador

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Capt. Ches Windsor stood by the wheel of the 325-ton family-owned coaster Trepassy for 36 hours as hurricane Edna battered him along the Labrador coast. "In my 21 years at sea I've never seen the like," he said on arrival here Sunday. "If we didn't get in the lee of an island," he said, "she would have never kept up to it. There wasn't a drop of black water to be seen. It was all gushing green, and the wind was so strong you couldn't look at it." Edna caused an estimated $10,000,000 damage in its sweep across the Maritimes a week ago Saturday. "We were at Smokey when it first struck," he said. "At first it was a southeast gale, but when the wind veered to the westward, it was too much. The two anchors began to drag so there was nothing to do except get out of there. I told the engineer to start the engines."

STAYED BEHIND ISLAND

"We had to back out of the harbor. All you could see was wind and sea and when we backed out you could nearly touch the rocks." For 36 hours we stayed in the lee of the island which was about a mile long. We would steam the full length of the island and let the wind carry us back, then we would steam up again." The wartime merchant navy veteran said the storm was a climax to "the worst summer I ever saw on the Labrador. It was fog and rain and the last trip it was snow. We couldn't have done it without radar. And we couldn't have kept us to this storm if we had been further out to sea." "But the Trepassy is alright, yes sir."

St. Laurent Rejects View Quebec Cannot Cooperate

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent told his native French-speaking province Saturday night he stands for a strong, united, Canadian nation and rejects the view that Quebec "cannot be a province like the others."

In a speech that struck deep into the heart of Quebec's Union Nationale government doctrine, Mr. St. Laurent said in effect Canada is more important than one province.

Delivered in French to a group of some 300 Liberal organizers, the two-hour, unprepared speech aimed a body blow at Premier Duplessis' powerful Union Nationale party and hit Quebec nationalists who wanted to be separated "from these cursed Protestants."

He told Quebec—the only province to refuse taxation agreements, federal aid to education, and sharing in the trans-Canada highway project—that:

1. The federal government will never recognize that a single province is more important than the entire country. 2. Although it was said in Quebec they would lead to a "frightful disaster," federal-provincial taxation agreements are here to stay until a better system is found to spread the wealth across the country. 3. Although the federal government admits the legality of the Quebec income tax, it has no intention of making it deductible in its entirety from federal income tax.

4. If English-speaking Canadians regard the government as their national government, that should also be the view of all other Canadians. 5. The Liberal party is going to tell Quebec frankly it favors spreading the wealth across the nation by means of subsidies. If Quebec finds that this is a "bad policy, it can vote against us."

The policy is not directed against any group. The federal government believes only that it is the best policy for the majority of Canadians.

OPEN FIGHT STARTS

Liberal party spokesmen described the speech as the signal of an open fight against Quebec's Union Nationale party, which rode to power in 1944 by denouncing wartime tax agreements signed by a Liberal administration.

They also saw coming to grips for the first time two French-speaking Canadian leaders, both powerful in their respective political spheres.

The speech, believed the first in which a Canadian prime minister

Battle Of Britain Sunday Observance Yesterday

A section of the R.C.A.F. Association parade at Charlottetown cenotaph yesterday in observance of Battle of Britain Sunday. Barter's Film Lab.

"As we look back with pride and thankfulness for the heroic action of the RCAF in the Battle of Britain in the summer of 1940, may we rededicate ourselves to fit heirs to the great inheritance of Freedom and Christian civilization which has been preserved for us by these courageous few of 14 years ago," Wing Commander J. Angus MacLean, D.F.C., M.P., said in addressing the parade yesterday in connection with Battle of Britain Sunday observed in Charlottetown.

The parade stepped off from in front of the RCAF clubrooms in the Bank of Commerce building at 10:15 a.m. with W. S. Chandler president 201 (Charlottetown) wing RCAF (Association in command). The Wing representation was augmented by the presence of a large number of members of the Canadian Legion and also a full representation of the RCAF Cadets, bringing the total on parade to well over one hundred.

On reaching the cenotaph, president W. S. Chandler, spoke briefly and introduced the guest speaker, Wing Commander MacLean. His address was followed by the placing of a wreath on the cenotaph by His Honour Lieut Governor T. W. J. Prowse. The Last Post was sounded by Bill Chaisson and following two minutes of silence, the ceremony was concluded with Reveille.

The parade moved off on Grafton St. to Richmond via Prince St., passing the Legislative building where the March Past was reviewed by the Lieutenant Governor.

The parade was headed by Pipers Bruce MacLaren, Margaret Rhynes and Barry MacGillivray with Bobby Mills and Angus McLaren drummers.

Wrens Find Navy Food Too Fattening

LEB-ON-SOLENT, Eng. (AP)—Two hundred Wrens of the women's royal naval service are on hunger strike. They find navy food too fattening.

The dispute arose over Friday's lunch—bean puree, grilled sausages, fried onions and boiled potatoes, followed by suet pudding and treacle. The girls took one look and tried to march out to restaurants near their barracks.

But their commanding officer told them to eat the lunch provided, or go hungry. The girls complain the food is cooked by men who don't know what a woman wants to eat and keep her figure.

Tito Rejects Suggestions Yugoslavia Become Member of Atlantic Alliance

(By Alex Singleton)

BELGRADE, (AP)—President Tito rejected Sunday any suggestion that Yugoslavia become a member of the Atlantic defence community. At the same time he said he would welcome any gesture of goodwill from Russia and said Germany should be granted sovereignty and rearmament "as a strong and vital country."

He cautioned the world to guard against giving Germany, which he fought as a partisan in the Second World War, sufficient military strength to touch off another world war.

He spoke at the little town of Celje in the northern Yugoslav province of Slovenia. A crowd of 10,000 people gathered to hear his hour-long address with cheers of "hero Tito," "Long live Tito," and "Tito is ours."

The occasion was the 10th anniversary of the liberation struggle in Styria.

SAYS ALLIANCE POLITICAL

Referring to the Soviet Union, Tito said: "Of late they seem to be realizing that there can be no normalization only in words, that it will be necessary to demonstrate normalization also a bit with deeds."

"And they have begun to act in this direction. We greet this attempt on their part, and shall gladly accept any gesture of goodwill."

Earlier in his speech he said the Atlantic alliance is "increasingly assuming a political hue—a struggle against communism."

"Hence, the suggestions which are being addressed to us to join the Atlantic pact are unacceptable."

The vote was conducted by secret ballot at a mass meeting of workers. Charles McDonald, president of Local 200, United Automobile Workers' Union CIO-CLC said it was not union policy to reveal the exact vote.

No strike date was set but a union spokesman said with such powerful support, the negotiating committee "wouldn't waste any time."

MEENDES-FRANCE GIVES DETAILS TO ALLIES

NEVERS, France (AP)—Premier Pierre Mendes-France announced Sunday he has transmitted to other Allied governments a new plan for arming West Germany within the Western family. He hinted it calls for strict limitation and equality in armaments. Dedicating a monument to Frenchmen who resisted the Germans during the 1940-44 occupation of France, he said: "I made it clear during my conversations with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden that our points of view were not far apart or irreconcilable. "The French government has made, in that spirit, precise proposals which now are in the hands of the interested nations and of which I will speak more tomorrow at the council of Europe with more detail than I can give today." MUST INCLUDE BRITAIN Mendes-France indicated that this proposal substitute for the dangerous European Defence Community treaty went beyond the military sphere into economic affairs. He emphasized that France wants a reconciliation with Germany and insisted that any organization of Europe must include Britain.

French Have Plan For Germany

But he scoffed at any who think Europe can be armed without France, saying "no useful plan can be set up without us." There has been some unconfirmed talk that Britain and the United States might act independently if France balks at the current efforts to arm West Germany and restore her sovereignty. At the same time Mendes-France said France must take into account the attitude of its allies—"with whom we wish, without hesitation, to maintain solidarity"—and called for the continued confidence of those allies. Discussing the non-military phases of European organization,
