E.P. Irwin Addresses Productivity Seminar

E.P. Irwin of the Productivity Branch of the Economic Council of Canada delivered the keynote address "Productivity in Perspective" to the Productivity Seminar held yesterday in the Confederation Centre under the sponsorship of the Charlottetown Board of Trade.

"Productivity," said Mr. Irwin, "is fundamentally a relationship that can be expressed as a mathematical ratio of output over input. The numerator of this fraction, output, is the sum of physical resources we produce. The denominator, input, is the sum of physical resources combined to produce that output. Some of these inputs are labour, land, buildings, machinery, working capital, raw materials and the like."

In the long run, said the speaker, in a free enterprise society, profit increases to management can only come from productivity gains, and increases in income to workers too, can only come from increases in productivity. Using the average living standard of people in an area as a measure of the people's productivity, he noted that the per capita income in the Atlantic region is by far the lowest in Canada; per capita income in the Atlantic provinces is only 47 per cent of the per capita income of the United States.

One of the basic reasons for the great disparity of incomes is the fact that unemployment is much higher in the Atlantic provinces than in the rest of Canada. Another reason is that "a high percentage of our labour force is employed in primary industries which have traditionally been looked upon as low income operations."

Quoting from the second annual review of the Economic Council of Canada, Mr. Irwin listed and explained several factors which would increase productivity: increased investment in human resources to improve knowledge and skills; improved mobility of resources so that they can move easily and smoothly towards their most efficient employment; greater specialization and better organization of production; swifter and more effective technological advances; enlarged investment in fixed capital; and more initiative and enterprise in exploring new and better ways to use economic resources more productively, under the spur of competition and the lure of higher returns.

Emphasizing the importance of education, he pointed out that the average income for university graduates is $9,200 and average income decreases progressively with decreasing education to $3,500 for workers with 8 years or less of elementary school education.

Mr. Irwin emphasized two points in closing: the importance of education, which means, in the long run, providing a highly trained and educated work force.

South Rustico Hold Workshop

An explanation of the Christian Family Movement, and a discussion on sex instruction for children were the two main topics covered at a Sunday afternoon workshop conducted at South Rustico for prospective CFM couples.

The workshop attracted some 85 people, representing the following parishes: Stella Maris, North Rustico; St. Andrew's, Mt. Stewart; St. Augustine's, South Rustico; St. Pius X, Parkdale; St. Dunstan's and Holy Redeemer, Charlottetown and Hopeville.

After opening remarks from Rev. Joseph LeClair, pastor at South Rustico, the program started with an illustration of how the Christian Family Movement operates, what its aims are, how it originated, and how it affects the individual.

Mr. and Mrs. MacDougall, of St. Pius X Parish, led the discussion on this subject, with assistance from two other couples on the panel — Bill and Norma Gillis and Neil and Cathy MacNeill of St. Dunstan's Parish.

This part of the program was followed by a short talk from the Federation Chaplain, Rev. Andrew MacDonald, who stressed the need for the layman to take the initiative in the formation of parish societies.

SEX INSTRUCTION
The program on sex instruction — which attempted to tell parents how they should instruct their children in this field — started off with a recorded talk on the subject by one of the best-known experts in the field in the United States, Father Filas, a Jesuit priest from Chicago.

In his recorded talk on the subject, which lasts more than one hour, Father Filas covered the whole picture of sex instruction in the home, including what to say to children concerning every question that comes up, how to say it, and when to say it.

Following the recorded talk, points considered to be of most interest were discussed by a panel conducted by Ronnie and Joan Bolger. Other couples taking part were: Merrill and Genevieve Pinea, Gerard and Florence Borge, and Austin and Eileen Trauer.

Chairman couple for the afternoon was Bill and Adeline Ledwell. Other Federation officers present included Urban and

JACK MACKINNON PREPARING FOR SHOW

Easter Beef Show And Sale Parade This Afternoon

Approximately 100 steers will parade this afternoon before the judges, as the Easter Beef Show and Sale gets underway at the Coliseum. The animals will be placed by J.C. (Bill) Bennet, Fredericton, former livestock director for the province of New Brunswick.

There were 115 steers entered for the big show and they were arriving throughout yesterday and being weighed. The animals will be culled this morning and judging will begin at 1:00 p.m.

The annual banquet will be held this evening at the North River Junior Farmers' Hall at North River.

The sale of steers will get underway at 1:00 p.m. Friday with Claude Craswell the auctioneer.

There are 63 adults showing steers at the big show and 13 4-H Club members for a total of 76 Exhibitors.

Many of the exhibitors have more than one animal entered and a number have three steers in the show. The latter include Mr. Justice R.R. Bell, Charlottetown and New Valley; Hayden Brothers, Cherry Valley; MacKinnon Brothers, North River; Jack MacKinnon, Brooklyn; A.H. Mutch, Cherry Valley; Frank Mutch, Earncliffe; Frank J. Platts, Tyne Valley; Alton Younger, Winsloe.

There is a great deal of excitement as the show hour approaches and the most interesting part of the exhibit comes when Judge Bill Bennet slaps the rump of the grand champion, and the reserve grand champion in that order.

James Cudmore, Winsloe took the grand championship rosette last year with a 750-pound Shorthorn steer—that's shrunk weight.

The reserve grand champion ribbon went to an Angus steer shown by Ian MacDonald, York.

He weighed 1,008 pounds, after shrinkage allowable for the buyer had been deducted. He bought the animal to encourage the 4-H Club members.

The Cudmore steer brought

$1.10 per pound and the buyer was William Ball, manager of the Co-op Supermarket, Charlottetown. He also bought the MacDonald steer and the price was 43 1/2 cents per pound.

The 4-H Club champion last year was shown by 11-year-old Edward Hickey, Malpeque who also took the showmanship trophy for club members.

The young lad's steer brought 40 cents per pound from Leo P. McIsaac, who operates a farm machinery business in Charlottetown and runs a herd of Angus cattle at Mermaid, a few miles out.

President of the show and sale is George Kitson, Hampshire who has held the post continuously since 1956.

Dr. H.H. Kelly, provincial director of veterinary services, is the show and sale secretary.

Regional Director Delivers Report

Regional Director of Family Allowances, J.E. Green, yesterday reported a gradual decline both in the number of children receiving Family Allowances and in the number of families with children of Family Allowance age, and consequently a decline in the amount of Family Allowances issued each year in this province since the peak year of 1963.

According to Mr. Green there has been a progressive decline from the high of 40,629 children in September, 1963, to the present total of 39,730.

Noting that the number of children per family has increased slightly, Mr. Green stated that the decline in the child population may be accounted for by the loss of families to other provinces. During the period since September, 1963, Prince Edward Island has suffered a net loss of 475 families, 1190 families having moved here from other provinces compared to the 1665 families which left.

Since the beginning of the Family Allowances program, a total of $56,920,000 has been paid in behalf of children in this province, with annual payments currently exceeding three and a quarter million dollars. Allowances are paid at the rate of $6 per month for children under 10 years of age, and $8 per month for children between 10 and 16 years of age.

Members Require Living Quarters

The accommodations wanted sign has gone up at the Confederation Centre as the staff braces themselves for the task of arranging suitable living quarters for the more than seventy performers and their families who make up the cast list at this year's edition of the Summer Festival.

The casts of the major productions are expected in Charlottetown about mid-June, and will be in the province until at least September 4 as well.

All types of accommodation are required, cottages, rooms, houses and apartments, but all types must be furnished.

Confederation Centre staff will set up an accommodation service for listing the available accommodation in the area, and try to match artists and their families with what is available.

Every attempt will be made to locate housing for the visitors within city limits, but it's anticipated that many will also be placed outside the city proper.

Anyone having accommodation which can be rented to artists is asked to contact the Centre as soon as possible so that the complete situation can be assessed.

Officials are hoping that many people bound for summer cottages will be able to assist in providing suitable quarters in the city, but they admit fears of finding enough.

Music School Set For Here

A Summer School in Music Education of the music department of Mt. Allison University will be conducted in Charlottetown this year at the invitation of the P.E.I. Department of Education and the Board of Directors of the Confederation Centre.

In addition to the facilities of the Centre, classroom space for the school, which is directed towards general classroom teachers and those wishing to become specialists in teaching music in schools, has been made available by Prince of Wales College. Out-of-town students will be provided with room and board at Montgomery Hall.

Six 20-hour courses will be offered, three first-year and three second-year courses. Third-year courses will be offered in the future but will not be available in 1966. Special emphasis on music appreciation will be included in all courses.

The first-year courses are: methods of teaching singing to children from kindergarten to grade five; sight singing, ear training, and theory for children of the same age bracket; and an instrumental course, in methods of teaching practical playing of woodwind and brass instruments in elementary and second-year schools (the course assumes no prior knowledge).

The second-year courses are continuations of those of the first year, with emphasis on first-year courses as applied to grades six to nine. The instrumental course is open to those who have completed the first year, and will feature development of technique in the main instrument studied in the first year.

There are no admission requirements with respect to previous education except in the case of those wishing to earn credit toward a B.A. degree.

It is believed the P.E.I. Department of Education will accept the courses for academic credits and that teachers attending the school are eligible for $100 grants toward expenses from the department. Advance registration forms are to be sent before June 15 to the Director of Extension, Mount Allison University, Sackville, N.B.

A brochure may be obtained on request from the Director of Extension or from Mr. Gledhill at his office in the new Provincial Building.

Truscott Not Allowed To Read Book

KENSTON (CP) — Steven Truscott hasn't been allowed by the penitentiary officials to read the book which claims he is innocent of the 1959 strangling of 12-year-old Lynne Harper at Clinton, Ont., his mother says.

Truscott is serving a life term in nearby Collins Bay penitentiary for the crime which Toronto writer Isabel LeBourdais in the Trial of Steven Truscott blames on an unknown man.

Steven, 34 at the time of the crime, has maintained he is innocent.

Mrs. Truscott, who drove the 100 miles here from her home near Ottawa Tuesday, said her son hasn't been allowed to receive a copy of the book taken to the penitentiary last week by his brother Kenneth, 23, of Montreal.

"I WAS GIVEN NO REASON," Mrs. Truscott said, "but the warden explained to me that other inmates would steal it and might get fighting in taking sides over whether Steve was guilty or not."

"I could understand that. And when I told Steve, he said: 'Yes, I see that. I brought the book home. He'd like to have read it, of course.'"

Mrs. Truscott said she came here after a letter from Warden Fred Smith saying Steven was "pale and strained." The letter, dated March 18, advised the parents to visit him quickly.

The boy's father, WO Daniel Truscott, had to work with the Canadian forces communication centre at Ottawa, but the mother drove here. She said he found her son healthy and unworried.

Mr. Smith says Truscott is a model prisoner.
