

Stolen Car Is Abandoned At Wilmot

SUMMERSIDE — A brand new Chevy II, which was stolen from the air-enclosed parking lot of MacNeill Motors in Summerside on Friday evening, was found abandoned on the Trans Canada Highway near the red bridge in Wilmot on Saturday morning.

RCMP in Summerside received a call at 10:30 a.m. on Saturday morning from a member of the staff at MacNeill Motors Ltd., who said he recognized the white while driving into Summerside a short while before.

The town police and RCMP are conducting an investigation but as yet they have not made an arrest in the case.

There was slight damage done to the front left fender, but nothing else seemed to be wrong with the vehicle.

The lock on the gate leading into the parking lot was smashed by the thieves and an older model car was moved out of the lot to provide an exit route for the Chevy.

Faloney Says Of 'Twist' Good, Healthy Exercise

Canadian football's most valued player in 1961 is an ardent believer in the "twist", the move that swept through the entire United States in lightning-like fashion and is now doing likewise in Canada.

Bernie Faloney, who last year broke the Edmonton-Montreal hold on the nine-year-old Schenley Award, took a few minutes from a busy schedule of appearances in the city yesterday to tell this to a surprised Guardian reporter.

"Why do you do the twist?" asked the reporter suspecting the answer might reveal a new idea in physical training.

"For fun", Bernie said. "Besides, I think it's good healthy exercise and probably helps keep me in shape."

The Hamilton Tiger-Cat quarterback seemed surprised to hear that in these parts the twist is considered a teen-age sport. Nevertheless he is going to go on twisting, even if the management of the Tiger-Cats objects to it as a dangerous pastime, in view of the sprained muscles and slipped discs it reportedly has caused.

"It's none of your business what I do in private life," he maintains.

GREATEST MOMENTS
Faloney's greatest moments in football both occurred last season. The first was the second game of the Big Four playoffs when the Tiger-Cats came from behind a whopping 16-point deficit to whomp the Toronto Argonauts 46-2 in the second to last play of the total point series to advance to the Grey Cup against Winnipeg.

Hamilton lost to the Blue Bombers but that didn't take any of the thrill away from the Toronto upset.

His second biggest moment came later when he was named a winner of the Schenley Award as the most valuable player in Canadian football in 1961.

Bernie's first season in the Canadian game—1954—was almost his last when he decided to retire from the game after the Eskimos had won the Grey Cup cupping Montreal 23-24.

Faloney signed a back-field coach with Calgary Stampeders but a southern uncle, Uncle Sam, had other ideas and Bernie was called into the services with a commission.

After two years of service football, Bernie decided to stay in the game and signed with Hamilton for the 1957 season, where he has been ever since, although he almost ended up in Montreal in 1960.

"NEAR TRADE"
The now famous "near trade" that involved Bernie and Montreal quarterback Sam Etcheberry never left any bitter scars on Faloney's memory.

"It's a business," he says simply. "I play well and they pay me. I do it and they trade me."

But he obviously didn't like the manner in which the management went about making the trade. "They not only didn't bother to mention the pending bid in advance to him, they didn't even tell him after the trade was made. Bernie found out about it from a teammate."

Faloney went to court and Etcheberry went to the U.S. Sam with a "so-trade without consent" clause in his contract wouldn't go to Hamilton and Bernie asked the law to clarify the situation.

But when Etcheberry went to the States, Bernie continued to play for Hamilton.

This storm followed Bernie's—or at least Hamilton's—worst season in the Big Four. They finished dead last and missed the playoffs altogether finishing last with four straight victories, a sign of better things to come in 1961.

"Why the reversal of form?" At the top in 1960, at the bottom in 1961 and at the top again in 1961?

Bernie doesn't find this easy to explain, but he laid a lot of blame for the failure on the coaching staff.

25 Cattie, Poultry, Pigs Lost in Belmont Blaze

BELMONT — The third major fire in about 15 years levelled the main barn on the farm of Harold Yeo, Belmont, last Saturday morning, destroying 25 cattle, including a herd of 25 cattie, including 10 milk cows, a flock of hens and some pigs.

Nothing was saved from the building, which reportedly was partially covered by insurance.

Mr. Yeo discovered the fire when he first left the house after breakfast and at that time flames were already coming through the roof.

The Misouche fire department was called, however due to poor road conditions it was a while before it arrived on the scene, although it is thought that even had they arrived sooner, they would have been unable to save the structure.

All the efforts of the firemen and neighbors were directed at saving a nearby potato warehouse and these efforts were successful, with no damage being sustained.

The unfortunate owner was a first by fire nearly 15 years ago.

ago, when a large potato warehouse on the farm was demolished, while just seven years later his farm house was levelled.

The charred remains of the barn burst into flames again Saturday evening, but although an alarm was sent in no further damage was done.

All the animals were believed to have suffocated to death before the flames reached them.

There has been no cause determined for the sudden outbreak.

4 May Seek Nomination For Prince

The New Democratic Party may have four persons seeking nomination as the party's Prince County candidate to contest the district in the next federal election.

The party's provincial secretary-organizer Thomas Dunphy has announced that Myrne Yeo, Ellerslie school teacher, has agreed to add his name to the list of those seeking nomination.

Also in the running will be Douglas MacFarlane, Bedoune, and Gregory MacInnis, Tignish. Both are farmers.

Mr. Dunphy said that a fourth person, a Summerside resident, is favorably considering running for nomination and if when a decision is made his name will be announced.

The nominating convention is expected to be held within two weeks in Summerside.

It was decided that the present mayor and councillors in wards four and five, would hold office until 1963, when an election would be held in 1964 for the council seats of wards one, two, three and six.

OPPOSE ELECTION CHANGE
This decision also passed by a 7-1 vote, with only Coun. Arthur Gormley opposing.

Coun. Gormley said he didn't think that the public would show interest in an election for only half the council. He also wondered who would pick wards four and five as the wards in which the councillors would stay in office three years.

"Why not let the government decide who stays in or out," he said.

Mayor A. Walthein Gaudet answered that "if we can't make out our own recommendations, we might as well quit."

RIGHT OF WAY
Another amendment passed by a 7-1 vote was one enabling the City Council to close any right-of-way or passage provided an alternate one is provided and has the full approval of those using the former right-of-way or passage.

The only one against it was Coun. Arthur Wright, who thought that the city council "shouldn't enter into it."

The amendment arose as the result of a dispute in regard to a lane on Grafton St.

All other amendments were unanimously approved and included: the raising of the election officer's salary from $25 to $100; authority to declare any street or portion of a street a "set-back street" and to prohibit any permanent structure to be thereon nearer the street line than fifteen feet; authority to call the city clerk the controller or city comptroller.

Also that the whole area of Market Square and Market Street be made available for the erection and maintenance of the Pathe's of Confederation Building; authority to appropriate land for a site for any civic building; or for any public park, playground or parking area or any other civic purpose approved by the minister; authority to rescind any expropriation; authorization to acquire any lands or areas and to dispose of them at the council's discretion.
