P. E. I. Department of Agriculture

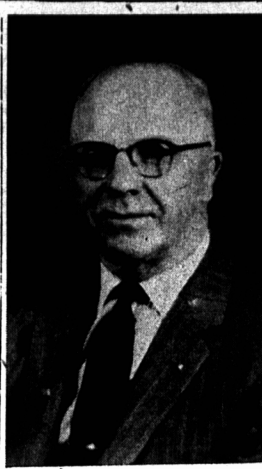

The Dairy Division is one of the oldest sections in the Department of Agriculture. At the present time it is composed of four officials, namely H.J. MacDonald, Superintendent; E.W. Adams, Assistant Superintendent and two newly appointed milk and cream check testers, Claude Paynter and Richard Vessey. Due to the increased production of dairy products during the past ten or twelve years the work in this division has considerably increased, hence the necessity of increasing the number of personnel.

The Dairy Division has no particular policy to follow as such but is directed in its work by acts and regulations. The Dairy Products Manufacturing Act and Regulations thereunder direct the work of the Division. This act deals with the production of milk and cream on the producer's farm; the feeding, sanitation and cooling methods carried on there and the transportation facilities to the dairy manufacturing plant. It also directs the grading of cream for flavor, sourness and other defects and the checking and grading of milk received especially at cheese factory plants for flavor, sediment and bacteria. It covers also the sanitation and construction of cans used in shipping milk and cream. The equipment used in the dairy plants and the sanitary care given to this equipment as covered in the Act is an essential part of this Division's work.

CHEESE TESTS

The Dairy Division has also the duty of correcting defects in the manufactured product. There is a frequent appearance in butter of flavor, workmanship, moisture, salting and color defects which need correction and in cheese there also appears similar defects in flavor, acid, body, openness and finish which very often have to be corrected. These defects are found by a system of grading which was established in this Province about ten years ago and which has proven very beneficial to the industry from a quality improvement standpoint.

By this system a seven pound sample box of butter is taken from each churning made daily in the Province. It is marked with the registration number of the factory, the number of pounds of butter in the churn, the date of manufacture and also whether the churning of butter is packed in solids or wrapped in prints. These samples are kept in storage at the creamery for one week and at the end of that period are sent to the Provincial Agricultural Laboratory for grading.

In the laboratory these samples are checked for flavor, texture, workmanship, color, salting and packing. From these samples yeast and mould samples are taken to determine the sanitary condition of the equipment with which the product is being manufactured. When the grading is completed a report is sent to the creamery manager with the defects marked regarding any of the above mentioned qualities. There is also a separate report sent to the creamery manager showing the yeast and mould counts found in the samples taken for that purpose.
