When you advertise in daily newspapers you know the size of your audience!

Your advertising budget has a big and vital job in building sales. The very wealth of your business depends on it. Hence, there should never be any substantial doubts about the size of the audience you reach, nor about the complete validity of the figures!

Some audience figures have been subject to a great deal of suspicion and mistrust and have come under serious fire from many sources. It will take a good deal of refurbishing before anyone can advance them as statistically and accurately sound.

Daily newspaper advertisers are able to buy a potential audience of known size on a basis of audited, responsible figures which for almost 50 years have been acceptable.

The Audit Bureau of Circulations, a buyer-controlled organization was organized to provide believable, reliable and provable circulation figures. A.B.C. protects the interests of daily newspaper advertisers that they may know exactly the size of their audience, where it is, and much more.

If you want to know what your advertising dollars buy, ask for a copy of our current A.B.C. report.

Fanciful figures are no match for facts!
