light be a delight to the Church of God; that both by preaching and example you may build up the house, the family of God... and he prayed for you... renew within him the spirit of holiness, that he may keep the rank in Thy service which he has received from Thee, and by his conduct may afford a pattern of holy living." Looking back over your rosary of years we must raise our hearts in thanksgiving that these earnest prayers were so richly answered - that these pious exhortations falling on the good soil of your generous soul brought forth such abundant fruit. Your fine qualities of mind and heart enriched by your teaching experience and your co-operation with God's grace have made, in truth the fragrance of your life a delight to the Church of God, as in your own quiet, unassuming fashion you went about your pastoral duties. The parish of Tracadie has benefited by your devoted ministrations these past sixteen years as St. Margaret's did for the preceding thirty-two. How the sick and afflicted look for your visits how little children are attracted by the kindness of your ways. Your saintly acceptance of life's tribulations as when fire destroyed the church at St. Margaret's is always a lesson to us in saying "God's Will be done." Your zeal for our spiritual welfare has not blinded you to the fact that man has physical needs too, and your interest and supporting guidance in all our undertakings have been inspiration and assistance to us in our daily living. Especially have you been for the improved education of our youth and your latest accomplishment in having a convent built here will be a fitting monument to your desires and achievements. Your parishioners have been proud of you as an outstanding citizen in our province and as one who understood the needs of this Garden of the Lord and was unswerving in his efforts to improve the practice of the two-fold virtue of love of God and of neighbor in deed afforded us a "pattern of holy living" as prayed your ordination. We would be unworthy sons and daughters of your spiritual care if we could not now face the fact that we must some day bid you farewell for we have here but a mortal dwelling and all things earthly will be assuredly removed when that day comes it will be a sorrowful one for us. Memory will enshrine precious remembrance.

Following the presentation and the jubilee programme Father MacPherson thanked the parishioners and his many friends present for the honors they had paid him. Following is the text of the address by the priest: Reverend K. C. MacPherson, Pastor St. Bonaventure's Church Tracadie. Fifty golden years of Priesthood: Well may we rejoice with you, our Reverend Pastor, on this sacred Jubilee. Your ordination must come vividly before your mind today. On that solemn occasion the Bishop exhorted you during the ceremony to fulfill blamelessly the duties of the priesthood - to offer sacrifice, to bless, to guide, to preach and to baptize. He reminded you that the priest is called to be perfect in faith and action, that is, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Urban Murnaghan, Pownal Street, City.

In sonorous Latin, the Bishop continued, "Let your teaching be a spiritual remedy for God's people; let the fragrance of your delight be a delight to the Church of God; that both by preaching and example you may build up the house, the family of God... and he prayed for you... renew within him the spirit of holiness, that he may keep the rank in Thy service which he has received from Thee, and by his conduct may afford a pattern of holy living."

Rotarians Visited By District Governor

The fellowship encountered in Rotary was emphasized last night by District Governor David Garceau, Fort Kent, Maine, when he addressed the local Rotary Club at a supper meeting at The Charlottetown. It was the first visit to this Province by the recently named Governor and he expressed his great pleasure in the beauty of the Island, the friendliness he met and "the peaceful look" all people here seemed to have. He was introduced to the meeting by Club President W. W. Reid and thanked by co-chairman Harold Shaw. Mr. Garceau spoke of his visit to the School for Rotary held on an international basis at Lake Placid, New York. He expressed amazement in finding that though people were in attendance from 80 countries they could all talk the same language so far as Rotary is concerned. His talk last night was confined primarily to matters of interest to Rotary which he had prepared notes and said he preferred to "talk of the cuff." Shortly after the start of the supper meeting Rotarian E.S. Giddings made a presentation of the past president's pin to Gordon Avard who recently finished his term in office. Another Rotarian Dr. J. A. Clark returned to the club after having spent the winter and early summer in Florida and on the West Coast. He briefly told his fellow members that he had
