sipeg North Centre seat. Conservatives had some consolation in unseating Walter Pitman in Peterborough, which he won in a 1960 byelection to become the first NDP member of the Commons.

As early returns flowed in from 72 western and far north ridings—all but six of which were won by Conservatives in 958—there were signs of further losses by government candidates, though not as many as in Ontario and Quebec.

Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson captured Red Deer in Alberta from the Conservatives to assure his party of leadership in Parliament. It was his first bid for public office.

The deputy national leader of Social Credit, Real Caouette, credited by many with his party's surprise showing in Quebec, captured Villeneuve in northwestern Quebec from the Liberals.

Finance Minister Fleming was re-elected in Toronto Eglinton after a stiff campaign battle by the former deputy trade minister, Mitchell Sharp.

Late evening returns also showed re-election of Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton in Qu'Appelle, Justice Minister Fulton in Kamloops, Defence Production Minister O'Hurley in Lotbiniere and Veterans Affairs Minister Churchill in Winnipeg South Centre.

WALKER DEFEATED

But another Liberal gain in Toronto Rosedale unseated Works Minister Walker, longtime friend of Mr. Diefenbaker.

Among prominent Conservatives defeated were John Bassett, Toronto Telegram publisher and candidate in Toronto Eglinton who lost to a Liberal, and former minister without portfolio J. M. Macdonnell who lost Toronto Greenwood to Andrew Brewin, a member of the NDP national executive.

Liberal prominents William Benidickson in Kenora - Rainy River — his party's financial spokesman — and Alan MacNaughton in Montreal Mount Royal, were re-elected.

Among prominent Liberals winning were former health minister Paul Martin in Essex East, former immigration minister M. W. Pickersgill in Bonavista - Twillingate, Judy LaMarsh in Niagara Falls — the party's only women member in the last Parliament — former deputy defence minister C. M. Drury in Montreal St. Antoine-Westmount and Walter Gordon, top Liberal economics expert who toppled a Conservative in Toronto Davenport.

Among the NDP gains in Ontario was that registered by 53-year-old David Lewis, one of the party's most influential men, who unseated a Conservative in York South.

Rehabilitation Work Supported By Rotary

Two projects of province-wide interest met with continued Rotary approval and support when the local club at its weekly luncheon meeting in the Charlottetown Hotel yesterday voted an expenditure of $9,000 on the recommendation of the directors.

Of this amount $4,000 will be allocated to operating expenses of the Crippled Childrens' Camp at Bellevue and $5,000 assigned to the Rehabilitation Council for its work with crippled children and adults.

These payments were made possible through the co-operation of the general public in the purchase of Easter seals in the campaign conducted by the Rotary Club.

The payment of $200 from club funds was assigned to the Rotary Foundation which deals with world-wide scholarships. The amount voted constitutes 100 per cent paid up membership for the local club.

President - elect, Dr. Gilbert Houston who headed the delegation of 26 Rotarians and Rotary Anns to the district conference in St. John's, Nfld., last week reported on the outstanding hospitality of the host club and the cordial welcome given the Charlottetown contingent comprising the largest club representation other than hos club members.

Club secretary- elect Andrew Likely, the official delegate, in addition to Dr. Houston, reported 75 couples and 38 individuals in attendance at the conference, totalling 388 registrations.

Rev. T. H. B Somers was chairman of the meeting with B. Graham Rogers-co-chairman.

A letter of appreciation for courtesies extended by Rotary to the national executive IODE, recently in session at Charlottetown was received from the national president, Mrs Peter Robinson, Toronto.

Visiting Rotarians who received a cordial welcome from the chairman were Athol MacLeod, Cambridge, Mass.; Fred Kelly, Wolfville, N.S.; Gordon Grierson, Toronto; Robert S. Coffin, Cleveland, Ohio Charles Clark, Halifax was a guest.
