Four Farm Buildings Lost In Geo'town Royalty Fire

A fire of unknown origin, which broke out between 3:00 and 3:30 yesterday afternoon, completely destroyed two large barns (attacked end to end), a garage and hen house on the farm of Mr. James Aitken at Georgetown Royalty. Nine hundred bushels of threshed grain and a large quantity of straw, along with some small agricultural implements were also lost in the fire. The barns had a total length of one hundred feet and were about twenty-five feet in width. Five calves and a pig which were in the barns at the time of the fire were saved.

The fire was first noticed by Mrs. Aitken and young son who were in the potato field. The other children of the family were in school at Georgetown.

Mr. Aitken, who operates a school bus which transports the Georgetown Royalty children to and from school in Georgetown, had left home about fifteen minutes earlier for Georgetown to the school children, and while there noticed smoke rising from the direction of Georgetown Royalty, about two miles distant. He immediately drove home and succeeded in saving his house which is located about seventy feet from the barns.

Mr. Aitken is a non smoker and does not carry matches and had not been in the barns since before noon.

He has twenty head of cattle which he will house in a barn on an adjoining farm and in which his hay crop is stored. His heavy machinery, in value amounting to quite a number of thousands of dollars, including his tractor, were fortunately not in the barn at the time of the fire. Mr. Aitken who is a World War Two veteran, had spent considerable money improving and remodeling his barns since taking up residence in Georgetown Royalty shortly after the last war.

The buildings were partially covered with insurance.

Little Theatre

Leone Ross; Lights: Gordon Rodd; Stage: Harry Morris.

The first of the three one-act plays was "The Dream House" directed by Nellie Hughes. This is indeed a comedy of youth and errors, and very, very funny.

The cast was: Michael Jenkins, Gerard Campbell, Jennifer Jenkins, Edythe Pryce; Grandma O'Hara, Margaret Collins; Alice Jenkins, Marjorie Banahan; Kathleen Jenkins, Frances Doucette; John Jenkins, Sterling Walker; Chester Nutkins, Eric MacGregor.

Script, Betty Holl.

The second play was "Afterwards" directed by Edith Davison. This proved to be a poignant little drama in complete contrast to the other two plays.

The cast was: Nana (the old nurse), Flora Neale; Kitty (Nance's daughter), Noryne MacPherson; Maid, Elaine MacLure; Nance (the mother), Edith Davison.

Committee heads for this year are: Casting and Play reading, Mary Moran, Eric MacGregor; Costumes, Adele MacKinnon; Entertainment, Lillian Duchemin; Historian, James Coyle; Lights, Gordon Rodd; Make - up, Miriam Matthew; Publicity, Marjorie Ranahan; Radio and T.V. Plays, Marjorie Harris Reception, Lloyd Yeo Sound, Margaret Collings; Stage, Harry Morris.

The well-balanced programme was an example of competent directing, good acting and fine co-operation on the part of backstage assistants and other workers. There were several new members acting for the first time which is always an exciting experience for actors and audience alike.

The new President, Mr. Stirling Inman, welcomed the members in his usual friendly manner. The Guild has a large membership this year and, judging by the success of last evening, it is going to be an enjoyable season.

A very pleasant surprise was the presence of a newly formed L.T.G. orchestra consisting of Alex H. McLean at the electric organ with Thelma Reid and Alfred McKearney, violins.

It is many years since the Guild has undertaken a venture of this kind and the members of the orchestra are to be congratulated on their contribution to the success of the evening.

Coffee and Doughnuts were on sale after the final curtain and the evening ended on a gay social note.

Fire In Montague Dwelling Causes Considerable Damage

A fire of undetermined origin broke out yesterday evening about seven o'clock, gutting the interior and causing considerable fire and water damage to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fitzpatrick, Montague.

The fire gained considerable headway, due to the fact that Mr. FitzPatrick was absent from the house, having left to pick up his family who were visiting in Cardigan.

Smoke was first noticed by a neighbor's child who reported it to Mr. Everett King, who immediately phoned the Fire Department. The chemical truck was promptly put to use until a line of hose could be run from the Burnt Brook dam. The blaze was then quickly brought under control.

Considerable furniture was removed from the building but not before receiving smoke and water damage.

It is not known if there was any insurance.

Island Cattle On Way To Maritime Winter Fair

Approximately 150 head of Prince Edward Island's best cattle were rolling toward Amherst this morning where they will compete against the best that the other Maritime Provinces can produce next week at the Maritime Winter Fair.

A MacRae and Son Central Royalty head the list with twenty-five head of their Fairvue Farm Ayrshires. Keith Boswell and Son of Victoria have 18 head of their Lealand Farm herd entered. Andrew B. and Fred T. MacRae, Union Road, have eight head entered, Col F. J Andrew, East Royalty, has two, Brent Stead of Bay Fortune has three and all of these breeders are Ayrshire men.

Dual Purpose Shorthorns are going to be well represented with Seymour Wood and Son of Mt. Herbert and Stanley Hurry of Winsloe showing eleven head each. Keith Dixon of Clyde River has three entered, Fred Hughes of Brackley Point has eight and Austin Smith of Victoria has ten. Dan Jewell of North River has eleven entries but Mr. Jewell often shows both Dual Purpose and Scotch Shorthorns and it is not clear as to whether he is showing both types at Amherst or not.

H. Lyle Boswell of Marshfield has five head entered and they are all Scotch Shorthorns.

Falconwood Farm is sending thirteen head to the Fair and they are said to be shipping their cattle to Amherst by truck. Lewis Brothers of York, several times the biggest money winners at the big fair in other years, are listed as sending only one animal this time.

Harold Palmer of Kensington is sending fourteen Guernseys to the fair and he is the only Guernsey man showing from this province so far as information available to date indicates.

Collect Treats For Overseas

"It's a neat trick to collect fine treats for friends overseas." So reads the slogan that became a watchword of a new kind of Hallowe'en celebration adopted by the Explorers of Trinity United Church, Charlottetown.

Yesterday afternoon the Explorers called on members of the congregation to solicit contributions to UNICEF—the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund. They were their uniforms and carried marked cans, and displayed armbands lettered UNICEF.

The cash donations received will be forwarded to U.N. Headquarters in New York City for distribution by UNICEF. The many gifts of good used children's clothing, soap, face cloths, needles, pins, thread and darning cotton will be sent to a Children's Home in Europe.

On arrival at the church the children were met by Miss Beryl Morson, a missionary on furlough from India. Miss Morson was dressed in native Indian costume. For the entertainment of the children, Miss Morson showed a number of very beautiful colored slides depicting the life and scenic beauty of India.

Following the completion of Miss Morson's program, the children were treated by the Counsellors.

Officials reported the response to the drive as "excellent."

Hallowe'en Social Held

On Tuesday evening, October 29th, Zion Y.P.S. held their annual Hallowe'en social in the church hall.

Costumes were judged by Louise Cummings, Davila Stewart, and Arlene Larter. The prize for the weirdest costume was won by Earle Steele. Prize for the most original was awarded to Adele Jardine and Corena Steele; while the prize for the funniest was awarded to Mary Farquharson.

Judy Millar then led a lively games period after which a delicious lunch was served by the social committee.

The young people were then escorted on a weird, eerie ghost walk by David McKenna and Eric MacRae.

Following the ghost walk, "ducking for apples" was enjoyed by all.

The president, Mary Farquharson then announced that there would be no regular meeting next week. Instead, on Wednesday night, November 6th, the annual fall rally will be held in Summerside.

The meeting closed with the singing of "Blest Be The Tie That Binds."
