Household Hint

Flat silver will need little polishing if you use it often and wash in hot suds. A brisk rub with a dish towel will give it added beauty.

For a cheese dip nearly everybody will like, blend together cottage cheese and mashed blue cheese and season with minced parsley and onion.

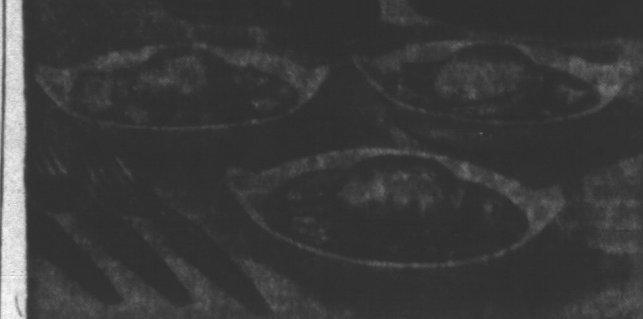

A portable electric broiler for use in the kitchen, dining room or out on the patio was recently placed upon the market.

Delightful Buffet Supper Is Prepared In Advance

"THE NOTES I made on the buffet-dinner we enjoyed at the Villa Bristol Spanish home and guest house of our British co-host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. George McWatters, are interesting," observed the Chef. "It seemed unusually elaborate," I added, "yet could be duplicated with comparatively little effort when two hostesses entertain jointly."

HORS D'OEUVRES

Included on the menu for hors d'oeuvres were: boiled prawns (shrimps) with an English mustard-mayonnaise dip; warm cheese sticks; jumbo olives; hot bite-sized party tarts with a savory Spanish sausage or chopped meat filling.

The aperitifs were sherry fino, fresh-pressed tomato and Spanish orange juice.

SPANISH SHRIMP - STUFFED

Hot consomme and fish filets meuniere were served from chafing dishes. Platters of cold roast chicken and broiled Spanish-cured ham were served with really good potato salad. Dessert was English trifle or the ambrosial Spanish melon, followed by black coffee.

All the foods could be prepared a day ahead ready to reheat if necessary and to garnish with plenty of parsley, pimientos, sliced tomatoes or pimiento-stuffed olives. In Spain a food that does not look pretty is considered dull indeed.

As an innovation shrimp-stuffed artichokes could be served instead of the filets. In that case, shrimps would not be needed as an hors d'oeuvre.

Measurements are level; recipes for 6

artichokes cooked by directions previously given in this column

1/4 cup olive oil
1 1/2 tablespoon chopped onion
1 section peeled garlic, crushed
1 1/2 cups cooked or canned chopped shrimp
3 hard-cooked eggs, coarsely chopped
1 1/2 tablespoons shrimp liquid or dry sherry
1/4 teaspoon saffron, crushed
1/4 teaspoon paprika

Heat oil. Add onion and garlic; cook over low heat until lightly browned. Mix in shrimp and eggs. Pour shrimp liquid or sherry over saffron; let stand 5 minutes. Mix into shrimp mixture; spoon into artichokes. Dust with paprika. Place artichokes in oiled shallow baking pan; bake 30 minutes in moderate oven 350 degrees F.

MONDAY DINNER

Spanish Shrimp-Stuffed Artichokes
Broiled Chicken
Creamed Green Peas
Buttered Noddles
Fig-Pineapple-Coconut Cup
Coffee
Tea

FIG-PINEAPPLE-COCONUT CUP

3 cups diced tenderized, or drained canned, or diced peeled fresh figs
1 1/2 cups drained canned pineapple chunks
1/4 cup grated fresh or canned coconut flakes
Mix ingredients in glass jar or bowl. Cover. Chill thoroughly. Heap in sherbet cups; dust with extra coconut.

FISH PATE FOR CANAPES FROM THE CHEF

Oddments of cooked, delicately flavored, light-fleshed filets of fish, such as halibut, flounder or whitefish, can have a tasty spread for crackers or canapés.

Mince fish very fine with a fork. To 1/4 cup add 2 teaspoons olive oil or enough to make a thick paste. Work in 1/4 to 1 tablespoon mayonnaise until creamy. Add 1/4 teaspoon crushed fresh garlic or garlic salt, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 4 drops Tabasco and 1 tablespoon minced capers. Chill at least an hour. If making canapés, decorate with capers.

NEEDED VITAMINS

Citrus fruits and juices are excellent sources of vitamin C.

Mrs. Pigott, along with Harry Davison who is also residing in the city, are the last living people who attended the old Harbour district school in an age before school buses or cars were ever dreamed of; and when farm work was done with a hoe and grain cut with reaping hook and thrashed with a hand flail. During these years you could fish trout through the ice all winter. The late Dr. Roddie MacDonald was practising during these years and Ephram Lapierre made fisherman's barrels by hand. Tanning pits for processing cow hides were operating in Bristol.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Bright Candlemas Day Presages Wintry Weather

By this another Candlemas Day will have come and gone. And whether or not Mr. Woodchuck failed to find his shadow in some winter-caught Island dell, according to some reckonings, half the season of stable-feeding is past. James spoke of this yesterday to the younger farmer, from the house across the lane.

"I never like to see that beam in the mow showing this day of the year. No. They do have it that now the winter's half gone, but you never can tell. After all spring may be early or late."

"Well," the other smiled, "we can't go out these times with a horse and a sleigh with four short stakes - and a pole on it, to look for hay!"

"No, but I reckon you'd feel just the same going with a tractor and trailer. "James remarked soberly.

"A fellow wouldn't need to go so often," the younger man chuckled.

"It's all very well to make light of it," James nodded. "But it wouldn't be pleasant to have no hay about the place and no sign of the grass. You and your generation have never seen bare mows. What plenty there has been these years for the stock!"

Plenty from the fields. And today little drifts born of a snowfurry blew along the white-patched valley, taking in passing a dusty toll from the furrows of frozen land, bearing it off like so many idle words, to be set down where, we knew not.

"It's good," Mack said coming by this morning, "school doesn't keep today. I wonder," he speculated, "if this wind and drift will moderate by the afternoon to give us a spell at the skating?"

To satisfy the longings of such youngsters, there was skating on the outdoor rink up the mill-stream - there where once upon a time a mill sat, the stones grinding out the flour and meal for humans and stock. Little trace of it remains now—indeed too few of an older generation are left now to tell of it. But the stream, dammed once more, provides a winter-pond for the children about it. It was to this site a neat building was moved recently by young hands to make a shelter there. It is good to know that in this age so extremely busy, a stove and seats have been voluntarily installed to further the comfort of those who come to skate there. Lovely days and nights, the week has given. We remember its sunlight, and the moon in the morning hours; frost diamonds glittering, and the clean sharp blue of the high winter-sky. What loveliness is given to us on every hand by a kindly Providence. Enough, yes. And always added, more.

"God-Thou hast made the world so beautiful!
A flock of birds on pinions fleet and strong,
Then-though it were not enough to soar—
Gave to them song.
God-Thou hast made the world so beautiful!
A bower of June with roses gay abloom,
Then-though it were not yet enough to grow—
Gave them perfume.
God-Thou hast made the world so beautiful!
A million beings, soul their priceless gem,
Then-though it were not yet enough to live—
Gave love to them."

Until Monday — — Diary — Good-night.

RESULTS!

Newspaper Advertising Scores More Sales than Other Media

The nation's local advertisers invest more in newspapers each year than in all other media combined. This is fine testimony of the ability of newspapers to pay off in results. As one leading business executive expressed it: "I feel that when you place an advertisement in a newspaper — something happens . . . You get action."

If you want action, if you want results — use the daily newspaper.
