

MR. AND MRS. EDWIN DONALD MOASE AND PARTY

Midsummer Wedding Myrna Hancock Soloist

Baskets of Summer flowers formed a charming setting in the Presbyterian Church for the early August wedding of Marie Eleanor daughter of Mrs. Lawrence Murray and the late Lawrence Murray, Summerside, and Edwin Donald Moase, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mayor Moase, St. Eleanors, which took place Saturday, August 4, at 3 p.m., Reverend Mr. Bean officiating. Mrs. Cleve Whalen accompanied Miss Myrna Hancock who sang "O Happy Home" before the ceremony and "Because" during the signing of the register. Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Daniel MacKenzie, of Charlottetown, the lovely young bride was gowned in white slipper satin, floor-length, with a very full skirt with diamond shaped inserts of sequins and pearls. The gown had a fitted bodice of Chantilly lace, with a Chantilly lace jacket with long tapering sleeves coming to points over the hands, and a tiny Peter Pan collar with sequin and pearl trim. A crown of sequin and length veil of tulle with embroidered edge. She carried a cascade bouquet of briarcliff roses. Miss Mabel MacDonald, maid of honor, was gowned in pink net over taffeta, waltz-length with a full gathered skirt, strapless fitted bodice, with a short-sleeved bolero of matching lace. She wore a matching headress with pink flowers and carried a bouquet of Queen Elizabeth roses. Miss Anne Nicholson, bridesmaid, was gowned in powder blue net over taffeta, waltz-length with Chantilly lace fitted bodice, her full skirt had a deep border of shirred, frilled net, a tiny sleeveless bolero of net completed the gown. She wore a matching headband with blue flowers and carried a nosegay of briarcliff roses. Miss Margaret Murray was junior bridesmaid. She was charming in her waltz-length yellow net over taffeta gown, while her overskirt of net had tiny yellow flowers, and a fitted bodice and matching short-sleeved bolero. She wore a matching headband and carried a nosegay of briarcliff roses. Mr. Vernon Moase, brother of the groom, was best man. Mr. Norman Moase and Edward MacDonald ushered the guests to the pews that were marked with pink and white satin true lover's knots centered with a white tulle. Mrs. Murray chose for her daughter's wedding a pale blue brocaded taffeta dress with white accessories and wore a corsage of pink carnations. A reception for fifty-five guests was held at Birch Hill. The bride's table was centered with a three tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom under an arch of roses. Reverend Mr. Bean proposed the toast to the bride which was responded to by the groom. Miss Mary A. MacKenzie was in charge of the guest book. For her honeymoon trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls the bride donned a smart navy blue box style suit with navy and white accessories and a corsage of briarcliff roses. Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Moase, Moncton; Mr. Robert Moase, Halifax; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel MacKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. John MacKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Tremere, Charlottetown; Mr. and Mrs. Edward MacDonald, Miss Anne Mabel MacDonald, North Tryon; Mr. and Mrs. W.J. MacGregor, Arizona.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Old Sermon Is Recalled

Along another summer week we go, the sun checkering our paths with its light and its shadow—a sun not so brilliant nor, mellow as it deepens the orange of the rowan berries and caresses the cheeks of first apples. It puts cicadas on droning wing and coaxes the crickets to sing, in notes a bit mournful, the last song of the year.

The last? After that the song of the wind remains, of rain too and the snow when days draw in and the old year, white and bent and weary goes down the road, to disappear around a last bend of way.

"We came up to see the threshing," youngsters from the city who angled at the millpond, loving the day with the sun warm on young shoulders and a little breeze tickling it to wavellets of laughter, said this afternoon. "We're not threshing," we said with a chuckle "our grain's not ready yet to harvest."

"What is it then? We heard something."

"The men are sawing wood."

That then was one interest of the day—a spot of woodsawing to last the housewife's fires until the winter—wood is saved and brought in from a field. This was bits and pieces in an accumulation gathered up about: odd silvery rails telling their tale of old fences, timbers, some hand-hewn discarded at some work of repair, stout limbs, apple and willow and birch torn from the trees about in the ice storm of January. Through the morning and into the afternoon with Mr. C's saw, and he himself coming over from his house on the hill to lend a hand, they worked to bring it to a close. Then Mack filled the respective woodboxes with the haulings of his small wagon, the pup attending him, seemingly as interested as he.

There day saw then preliminary work done on a barn of the place, which new-silled, moved, and re-ringed in part, awaits now its concrete foundation.

"Unless you build solidly, your labor is vain," we recall the old Minister in the Church at home, exhort his listeners earnestly in a young year, and of the soul's buildings—on a morning of Summer, so easily remembered. The birds were a-twitter in the Manse—trees without; a horse eased his position reverently at the hitching—rail nearer, and within the moiled sunbeams as golden as the streets of that New Jerusalem, he preached, rested lovingly on old pews about.

So our farmers in this occupation which always brings Heaven so closely to earth, so dependant are we on its favors and because its miracles we daily see, fashioned in part the necessary forms for the barn's foundation—then left it to haul in buyings of hay to Rob's.

And on a fence-post of a field where we walked this afternoon, where old spruces stand in a hedgerow, a chipmunk sat a moment, cheeks suspiciously puffed, doubtless as are we on farms already preparing for winter, filling well the lofts and mows—the housewives adding a jar of this, a tin of that to their cupboards, from the sunshine and growth of the summer. And into another summer week we are, and with us tonight at Alderlea, all is well. Until tomorrow — — — Diary Good-night.

Double Ring Ceremony Will Reside In Truro

Wedding vows were exchanged at the Manse, Murray Harbour North, on Saturday, July 7th, when Sylvia Laurie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot MacLeod of Iris, became the bride of John James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Stewart of Iris.

Rev. M. Carl Currie performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride looked lovely in a dress of white crisp nylon net over taffeta, garlanded with flecked all-over rayon border. The style was empire with full skirt. Her petal pretty cap with brow veil was of white embossed rayon leaves with rhinestones and wreathed in tiny flowers. Her corsage was of pink roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Betty Buell, cousin of the bride was attired in a dress of pink sheer nylon over taffeta with matching trimmed. Her corsage was of pink roses.

The groom's man was Mr. Billie Compton, cousin of the groom.

The wedding reception was at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J.A. MacLeod. The dining room was decorated with pink and white streamers and white wedding bells. The table was centered with a three tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. The cake was flanked with lighted pink and white candles and floral decorations.

Grace was asked by the groom's grandfather, Mr. Charles MacLean. The supper was presided over by Mrs. John Ross, friend of the bride and groom. Assisting were the following: Mrs. Edwin Matheson, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Kathern Hume, aunt of the groom, Mrs. Malcolm H. MacDonald, aunt of the bride.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing. Violin, Guitar, and Harmonica music was supplied by Mr. Cleve Hancock, Mr. Harry Buell and Mr. Raymond Stewart.

Previous to her marriage the bride was tendered a shower at which she received many lovely gifts and a nice sum of money. The happy couple will reside in Truro, where the groom is employed.

Cool! Quick! No Baking! No Cooking!

The secret is Carnation—the milk that whips no other form of milk will do!

... One easy recipe for 3 delicious pies! And every one as smooth as only this milk with special blending qualities can make it!

"NO-BAKE" LEMON PIE
Use lemon Jell-O instead of orange Jell-O. Mix ¼ cup water with ¾ cup (6 oz. can) softened frozen concentrated lemonade. Save 2 tablespoons for whipping with Carnation, in place of lemon juice. Heat remainder; dissolve Jell-O and ½ cup sugar. Cool. Add whipped Carnation; turn into shell.

"NO-BAKE" ORANGE PIE
(Makes 9-inch single crust pie)
1 package orange Jell-O
¼ cup sugar
1 cup hot orange juice
1 cup undiluted CARNATION EVAPORATED MILK
2 tablespoons lemon juice
9-inch CHRISTIE'S HONEY GRAHAM wafer shell*

Dissolve orange Jell-O and sugar in hot orange juice. Cool until thickened and syrupy (20-25 minutes). Chill Carnation in refrigerator tray until soft crystals form through milk (15-20 minutes). Whip until stiff (about 1 minute); add lemon juice. Continue whipping until very stiff (2 minutes longer). Fold whipped Carnation into chilled orange Jell-O. Spoon into shell. Chill pie 2 hours, or until firm.

*GRAHAM WAFER SHELL: Mix 1½ cups crushed CHRISTIE'S HONEY GRAHAM WAFERS with 2 tablespoons sugar and ¼ cup melted butter. Line sides and bottom of 9-inch pie plate.
