INTERPRETING THE NEWS

Fall Of French Gov't Is Being Taken Seriously

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
The fall of a French government is a tired political joke. This time it's being taken seriously. The resignation of Felix Gaillard as head of the 24th government since liberation poses a double danger—of complete disorder at home and of undisguised Western disunity over North Africa. Responsible observers in London and Paris, saddened by what they regard as a "senseless" crisis, consider that the domestic situation is potentially grave. The latest demonstration of parliamentary decay, coupled with signs of public restiveness, may drive France toward an extreme solution, such as communism, fascism or some form of militia authoritarianism. FAVOR STRONG MAN As President Rene Coty goes through the familiar charade of interviewing potential prime ministers, the name of General Charles de Gaulle is again mentioned. Many ordinary French people, tired of the old faces, would like to see a strong man in power to "clean up the mess." But experienced students of the French scene feel that de Gaulle, at 68, has lost much of his political dynamism. The vote that toppled Gaillard leaves France more isolated than ever. "We are alone," mourns a headline in Le Monde, an independent Paris newspaper. Another French paper, Le Figaro, warns that there is no majority for a policy of "xenophobia and extreme nationalism." Le Figaro usually favors the right wing, which is being blamed for bringing down the government. AWKWARD MOMENT The hostile votes came mainly from the Communists, who have a vested interest in mischief, and the right-wing Conservative Independents led by ex-premier Antoine Pinay. Pinay is thought to have been angered by Gaillard's first speech in Tuesday's assembly debate and to have made only a nominal effort to control his unruly followers. Pinay, one of the more moderate men of the right, is likely to be a key figure in discussions on the new regime. The crisis could hardly come at a more awkward moment. NATO is in session in Paris, European trade negotiations are in stalemate and trouble looms on the industrial front. WALKING GHOST And the vote solves nothing. Right-wing intransigence merely makes the North African problem more intractable. The French case in Algeria will be harder to justify and President Habib Bourguiba may have to jettison his pro-Western policies. As Allied diplomats see it, the upheaval is largely the result of the determination of a section of French politicians, goaded by a sense of national humiliation or other motives, to cling to an all-or-nothing policy in Algeria. "Algeria today is the walking ghost of the past which the French have not laid," the British weekly, The Economist, wrote last January. Most observers sorrowfully agree.

Montague Junior Board Of Trade Entertained At Party

The members of the Montague Junior Board of Trade were guests last night of the management of the Bison Restaurant when they were entertained at a fourth birthday dinner, complete with a beautifully decorated three-tier birthday cake. When the Junior Board received their charter four years ago in the Rainbow Room of "The Bison" the proprietress, Mrs. Clay invited the members to make it their home. It is needless to say that the home of this active organization has contributed very largely to the success of the organization. Some of the projects started by the Junior Board are: garbage collection in the town; the well known road side table site at Bell's Hill; the Teen-Age Safe Driving Road-E-O and last but not least the Garden of the Gulf Museum. This year the board will carry on these projects as well as the erection of a new sign at Cherry Valley corner, having received a donation of up to $300.00 from the town of Montague for this purpose. Following the dinner, chairman and retiring president, Alan Nelson called for reports from the committee chairman and on their completion, presented his report which dealt with each project. He said that any one of them were well worth the effort of all the members could look forward to an even greater year in 1958. Mr. John Trednick, who was elected president for the ensuing year, then took the chair and congratulated Mr. Nelson on a job well done and expressed the hope he would be able to carry on as successfully. Other officers elected were first vice-president, John Shaw; second vice-president Richard MacLean; and secretary treasurer, Don Williams. At the conclusion of the meeting a discussion took place on the Teen-Age Safe Driving Road-E-O to take place at Montague on May 14th. A unanimous vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Clay for the very warm hospitality extended to the members last night and on every occasion.

Montague Home And School Hears Report On Conference

An excellent coverage of the Canadian conference on education held at Ottawa in February was the highlight of the evening when the Montague Home and School Association met on Monday evening for the regular meeting. Mr. John Hughes, principal of Montague High School, and delegate from the P. E. I. Teachers' Federation to the conference dealt with several specific aspects of education. Mr. Hughes reported especially on discussions which dealt with the quality and quantity of teachers. With reference to the quantity of teachers, Mr. Hughes quoted figures showing the present situation and giving estimates of that of the next few years, clearly showing the need for the teacher recruitment. A good person should have a suitable personality for the profession of teaching, for children and for the work and also a sense of dedication. The president of the association, Mr. Archie Hillehey, conducted the business meeting. A committee was appointed to arrange transportation for school children taking part in the Musical Festival in Charlottetown. Discussion took place on ways and means of raising money but nothing definite was planned. It was recommended by the association that a director for physical training and organized athletics in the school be made available. The president expressed the appreciation of the association to Mr. Hughes for his very interesting and concise report on the conference. Lunch was served by the committee and matters of interest to parents and teachers were discussed during a social hour.
