JOE MARTIN, K. C. ATTACKS CANADA

LONDON, Nov 27—There is comment in Anglo-Canadian circles over an unreported incident affecting Hon Rodolphe Lemieux and Mr Joseph Martin, K. C., formerly of Vancouver at last week's dinner in the Liberal Colonial Club. There was an influential gathering present, including several members of parliament, and some British ministers.

Mr Martin, being down for a speech let out in pungent sentences against the Canadian government's naval policy. He ridiculed what he called the "tinpot navy" which could be no possible help to Britain in time of peril, and would only make Canada a laughing stock for the world and serve to fill the pockets of certain Canadians with ill-gotten gains at the public expense. "For eighteen years," he said, "I have been fighting graft in the Tory party in Canada. Now I must turn round on my friends and fight it in the Liberal party. Canada should make a frank and direct contribution to the Empire's central fighting force."

Mr Lemieux defended the government policy on general lines.

The Times, Morning Post and Daily Chronicle, though recording the dinner and reporting the speech of Lord Lucas of the ministry, say nothing of this incident, which created some stir.

Earl Cawdor and Earl Cromer speak on Tuesday. Premier Asquith will introduce a resolution affirming the Common's uncontrollable right to regulate all financial matters and Burleigh will offer a counter resolution declaring that such a radical measure as the Budget Bill must be referred to the people.

If the parliament merely adjourns these resolutions will continue in effect until dissolution.

WEST FEARS A BIG COAL FAMINE

WINNIPEG, Nov 27—Disquieting predictions of a coal famine in the northwest this winter from both east and west.

Coal operators in the Edmonton district claim that only a mild season will stave off a disastrous state of affairs. It is stated that although the supply of fuel in Alberta is practically unlimited it is being exported by only three mines and their combined output does not exceed six hundred tons a day, which is not sufficient to meet the warm weather demand. The three months coal strike last summer is said to have exhausted the surplus existing at that time and the operators have never had time to retrieve the situation.

Railroad men and dealers are not at all alarmed. D. B. Hanna, third vice president of the Canadian Northern Railroad, who has just come from a tour through the Pennsylvania coal fields, declared that he thought a false impression had been caused by the quantity of coal passing rapidly through. There was always a hurry to get coal through at the last available moment of navigation and while it was possible the domestic supply had been underestimated the Canadian Northern would be amply supplied until the lake ports were open again.

RECORD PRICES AT NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov 27—To the hundreds of thousands of workers who buffeted their way home from office, shop and factory through a driving mixture of sleet and snow—the first real winter storm of the year—it looked as though Thanksgiving day would be a "white" one. The streets were thinly coated with snow and the continued cold weather made the day appear as prophesied by the weather man "fair and cold".

Despite an alleged scarcity of turkeys and the record prices of 35 and 40 cents a pound, these was no need of the inhabitants of the metropolis to fast rather than feast Thanksgiving. The markets reported that they were well sold out of turkeys, chickens and rabbits—the last mentioned in unusual demand here this year.

Charitable organizations, undaunted by the high prices, stocked their baskets for the poor as abundantly as ever and distributed them even more thickly.

Missions provided dinners for thousands of the penniless.
