

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Before one can teach one must understand. You are trying to be our teacher, our master, yet you have not mastered what you hope to convey. Even a quick glance over anything you have published shows that you are merely an echo of the original sound. You use unoriginal phrases found in almost any copy of the Moscow News. If you truly understood what you believe in, then you would be able to use new phrases, vivid expressions, and original examples. Perhaps you should read your books over again and go through them and try to understand what they are truly saying. Perhaps then you will be able to help us ignorant people to see the truth.

What is truth? Truth is anything you believe. Even a lie becomes true if enough people believe in it. Even propaganda is the truth, and recall that in Lenin's sense, the use of propaganda is a very commendable and honest thing to do, and that agitation, or the use of parables and half truths to exploit the grievances of the uneducated and unreasonable, is a step in the direction of a revolution. Propaganda, if looked at from the right side, is actually the truth and any good propaganda article viewed from all sides will appear to be true. Your truths, lies, and propaganda leave a lot to be desired. Your understanding of propaganda techniques is as superficial as your understanding of your own political beliefs. Go to the library and pick up The Rape of the Masses by Serge Chakotin (HM. 263 .C353), Communist Propaganda Techniques, by John C. Clews (DK 270.C6) and Soviet Foreign Policy in Perspective, by Robert A. Wessen (DK 63.3.435).

There is a fine line between propaganda and truth. Just make sure that you are still capable of seeing that line. Otherwise you may be a victim of someone else's propaganda (truth?)

You must learn to keep things in perspective. "One" does not become "100", "small" does not become "large" and "lies" do not speak the "truth". Everything you write is so full of inflated pseudo-impressive phrases that your readers get turned off by your lack of foresight. If you are an intellectual then you won't try to bloat or float what you have read. If you are intelligent you will see the true needs of our society and not the needs of expanding the membership of your political party.

I suppose I should stop now. I really didn't feel that I can change you through this letter. I wrote it, not to destroy you or to spread lies and distortion, but merely to express my opinions. I don't want you to leave the campus. I want you to stay because every campus needs a communist, and since UPEI is small we may have trouble replacing you.

Final words of advice? You are a bit too rigid. But that comes from having read too many books on one topic, from believing only in one star when there are so many others in the sky. If you truly believe in something so strongly that you are willing to give your life for it, then you have found true faith. If you have true faith, but can still feel life through someone else's eyes, then you have found true humanity.

Good luck Kate
We all love you.

To the Editor,

It has been made known by the Engineering Society, (if you can call it a society), that disco does not appeal to them. However, in regard to last week's

"VIEW FROM THE BOTTOM", Doug White stated that after the softball game "the Engineers were not too tired to DISCO" quote-unquote. They seem to contradict themselves.

Also in regard to this matter, several members of the the Engineers are frequently seen attending GJ's. Their usual drink is what they call a "Beer Dog".

Come on Engineers. Get your act together.
