The amount of the thank-offering last night was $117. This, added to the collections previously taken, make the total receipts $507. The expenses totalled $280, leaving a balance for the evangelists of $227.

Dairy Meeting. — An enthusiastic meeting of farmers was held at Winsloe last night, presided over by Mr. Charles Bryenton, president of the Winsloe Dairying Association. Good practical addresses were made by Messrs. Dillon and Moore, and the result was a decision on the part of the farmers to furnish a good supply of milk to the central creamery. Hearty votes of thanks were tendered Messrs. Dillon and Moore for their presence and instructive addresses.

Salvation Army.—It was announced at the meeting last night that during self-denial week the snug sum of $325 had been collected in Charlottetown. Of this sum Captain Newell herself collected $110. The most collected by any one city collector last year was $35. It will be remembered that in collecting during self-denial week Captain Newell challenged all Captains of the various corps in the Maritime Provinces and as far west as London, Ontario, to raise as much as she. Captain Carter, of Halifax, accepted her challenge. At latest accounts last night from a friend in Halifax he had collected only $35.

Tea and Fancy Sale. — The tea and fancy sale in St. Paul's Schoolroom yesterday was well attended, notwithstanding the unfavorable weather, and a very pleasant evening was passed. The various tables presented a very tasteful appearance, and it is pleasing to hear that the ladies in charge were kept busy. The house-keepers' table was a special feature, and the candy table furnished extraordinary attractions for the young. Tne tea and refreshment tables had attractions for all, and the oysters were delicious. The room was brilliantly lighted by electricity. It has been decided to continue the tea and sale this afternoon and evening, and everyone desirous of spending a pleasant evening should make a point of attending. The sale will open at four o'clock. Admission for children 5 cents; for adults 25 cents (including tea), 10 cents without tea.

THE CATHOLIC LITERARY INSTITUTE.

The formal opening of the Catholic Literary Institute took place last evening. A large number of the members, which already overtop the century mark, were present. The League of the Cross Band was also to the fore and rendered some choice selections during the evening. Addresses were delivered by His Lordship Bishop McDonald, Revs. Dr. Morrison and P. P. Arsenault, Judge Richard Reddin and Messrs. P. McCourt and D. O'M. Reddin, jr. All the speakers impressed upon their hearers, and especially the more youthful ones, the immense benefits to be derived from such an institution, provided proper use is made of the many opportunities and advantages therein afforded. The absolute necessity for a thorough digestion of the intellectual feast daily placed before them was also pointed out, and the good that accrues from such aptly illustrated.

As already noted, the members of this organization are quartered in the Lyceum building on Prince Street. The main hall has been neatly and comfortable fitted up for the intellectual advancement of the members. Here on file can by found all the leading newspapers, periodicals, magazines and reviews of the day. Of course amid this plethora of ideas from the pens of the ablest writers and advanced thinkers of the day, the local press bobs up serenely and smilingly; and, needless to add, its columns are as eagerly conned as any to be found within the walls of the room. The tastes of the grave and the gay are catered to in the choice of reading matter; and this portion of the building cannot but be popular with the members.

The rooms in the upper portion of the building are used for the amusement of those who may desire something more than the department to which we have just alluded affords. All are not readers, neither can they be made readers in a day. But daily contact with a pleasure that is alike fascinating and profitable—and reading has both these qualities—cannot but tend to bring fresh votaries to its shrine. The habit of daily reading, and reading with profit, can be acquired just as can any other good or bad trait of character. Therefore, such amusements as pool, English billiards, 'sippi, checkers, etc, have been made subsidiary to the prime object of the organization, and are already working the desired consummation.

The wants of the physical man are also to be well attended to. The old axiom of a sound mind in a sound body is just as true to-day, and its need just as pressing, as when he who first recognized its necessity gave public expression to the thought. Consequently the management have decided to fit up a bowling alley and gymnasium in the basement of the building. This excellent feature is expected to be in full blast in the very near future. The reading room is open from 2 o'clock to 10 o'clock, p. m. The building throughout is lighted by electricity and altogether presents a comfortable and homelike appearance. A course of lectures, debates on various subjects, and entertainments of a musical nature also hold a prominent place upon the management and of the good things yet to be. The main hall is so arranged that it can in a short time be transformed into the old play or concert hall we all so well know.

THE EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.

THURSDAY NIGHT—FAREWELL MEETING.

Last night's meeting will linger long and fresh in the memories of the large congregation which, in spite of the unpleasant night, found their way to the First Methodist Church to hear the evangelists' farewell to our city. All the exercises were marked by a solemnity, yet strangely mixed with a joyousness, for many who sadly would say good-bye would do so with great gratitude for the blessings received through the services of these dear brethren.

Upon the announcement of the title of the solo to be sung, "Come Unto Me," Mr. Crossley said a friend of his in Toronto said he had counted the "comes" in the Bible and found 777 there. The first "come" was "Come thou and all thy house into the ark." The last was, "The spirit and the bride say come, and let him that heareth say come; and whosoever will let him come and take the water of life freely." And the best come was that of Jesus, "Come unto Me all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." The Rev. W. J. Kirby led in prayer, and the Rev. Mr. Sutherland made the last announcement and appealed for a generous thank-offering. As the treasurer was unable to be present and read his report of the finances, a full statement will be given to the public press.

Mr. Frank Beer, Secretary, read his report showing that 270 persons had up to date given their names as seekers for Salvation. But this did not by any means represent the total number who had expressed in some way a desire to be helped and saved. A beautiful duet rendered by Miss Collings and Mr. Crossley on "Some blessed day," was very choice and deeply impressive.

The Revs. Corey, Kirby, Elder Stevenson, Revs. D. Sutherland and G. M. Campbell all spoke in highest praise of the work of Messrs. Crossley and Hunter in the city. It was the general impression that the work was only commenced, and that greater results will follow their efforts now they have left.

Mr. Hunter thanked the ministers for their kindly remarks, and wished them every success in their future work. He stated that about 100,000 persons had professed to be converted in the services they had held together in the various places. The secret they said was that thousands of prayers are being offered for them all over the land. He asked the prayers of the people to follow them to Amherst, Halifax, Bermuda, Yarmouth and Marysville, places in which they will labor before going again west.

Mr. Crossley spoke on Acts xi-26, "And they were called Christians first at Antioch," and said many kind things for the people, the choir, and others who had been so kind to him. He desired to speak his last words: 1. To those who were Christians before the meeting began, and would say continue faithful to your Christian vows. Stir up the gift that is in thee. Don't leave everything for your minister, but stand by him, stand by each other, stand by the new converts and help them along.

2. I would speak to the unsaved—(a) these awakened, don't be satisfied with mere reformation, but be sure of salvation. Three things are said of the spirit, resist not, grieve not, quench not, the spirit. (b) Those seeking—don't rest short of finding. If you will decide for God you may be saved to-night. The last meeting of a camp meeting was the time of his conversion, and this last meeting may witness yours.

3. New converts—and what I say will be applicable to all. (a) Be a joyous Christian. Measure your religion not by the lenght of your fall, but the breadth. (b) Be a persevering Christian. Christian life is like riding a bicycle, you must keep going on or fall. An old Indian made up a song of fourteen verses and a chorus as follows:

Go on, Go on, Go on, Go on,
Go on, Go on, Go on, Go on.

And when you feel like backing out sing that and if the feeling does not leave before, sing the whole fourteen verses. (c) Be a uniform Christian. Don't be like the colored people's song, "sometimes up and sometimes down," or like the old man who had been a Christian on and off for 20 years.

The secret of uniform life is given in Is. xxvi—3.

The pivotal point is to have the mind stayed on God. "He will keep,"—not you will keep yourself.

(d) Be a church Christian, i. e., be a member of the church. The one you should join is the one where you can get the most out of the service, and where you can do the most good. A Christian out of church membership is an ecclesiastical tramp.

(e) Be a steadfast Christian. Rom. xiv, 4. "He shall be holden up, for God is able to make him to stand." Yes; it is not you holding God, but God holding you. "Keep by the power of God," says Peter.

(f) Be a covenant Christian; covenant with Christ for time and for eternity. You have slips, but go back again, and remember you are a Christian not for a day, but for ever. As long as your will is towards God, He will remain faithful to you. "Ye are the bride; I am the bridegroom," saith the Lord. Let us stand firmly by our religion and by each other.

"Here's my heart, and here's my hand,
To meet me in the heavenly land."

Mr. Hunter made a most powerful appeal to all at the close. He thanked the ministers, the choir, the ushers, the newspapers, the reporters, and said no place had given them a better show than the press had here. Some had misunderstood him, and perhaps he had them, but he said humorously, "If I have offended any of you by my remarks come to me and ask my forgiveness and I will forgive you." Now I would say to the new converts put down the date of your conversion, and then like an old colored man when the devil tempts you and says you are not saved you can bring the devil to date and say, "there, old devil, read that while I go and pray." Keep away from anything which would hinder your religious life. Don't invite these young Christians to the dance. I lost a whole year and nearly my soul by the dance. Join a church and don't let your religion lie as the little girl said to her mother in your trunk. Give—more said in a bible about giving than about praying. We give 20 per cent. to charities; don't give less than ten of yours. The next great revival to sweep over the land is a revival of systematic giving. O, come to-night I beg you and decide for God and heaven. The after meeting was the grandest yet, many more finding Jesus in the service.

The services have closed, but let the churches look out for the young converts that much more may be accomplished for God and the city.

Washington, Dec. 10.—In a letter sent to the house yesterday congress was asked to appropriate $50,000 in connection with the survey of the boundary line between Alaska and British Columbia. This amount is asked in view of the possible necessity of running definite lines of demarkation on the Upper Youkon, and of providing for the contigency of surveys which may be required along the boundary in unforseen localities. Secretary Olney in accompanying letters says the determination in the marking of the 141st meredian in the part which by the treaty forms the boundary between Alaska and British Columbia is not provided for by any existing treaty.

Tea and Fancy Sale. — A tea and fancy sale will be held in St. Paul's Schoolroom on Thursday, the 12th inst. A feature bound to be of interest to the ladies will be the "Housekeepers' Table." Tea will be on the tables at 5.30 p. m. Oysters will be served in the evening between 8 and 9 o'clock. Admission 10 cents; tea 25 cents. Don't forget the date, and don't forget to go and have tea.
