

Ruptured Spleen and others

By Robert Bodroz-Goodland

RUPTURED SPLEEN-INTERNAL BLEEDING-EPIC

This new Canadian techno-pop band is based in Halifax and consist of four second year students from Dalhousie Medical School. Remarkably enough, they can all read music, and even play their own instruments.

When asked about where they got the name, keyboardist Mark Saxon said, "It just came to me one afternoon while I was writing my Anatomy final; I thought, 'Hey, Ruptured Spleen, pretty bitchen name,' so I told the guys about it, and we've been using it ever since."

Formed in 1983, this is the group's second album, and they hope it'll go over a lot better than their debut EP, "Scalpel City".

I don't think they've got anything to worry about this time; with the first single off the album "I've got an EEG on you", climbing rapidly in the charts. And with other strong tracks like "I'm gonna wash that girl right offa my hands", "surgical healing", X and "your sterile heart", combined with good video to back them, I'm sure we'll be hearing much more from these young interns.

BOBBY & THE BASTARDS -OUT OF WEDLOCK-WEA

All you metalites out there will love Bobby and the Bastards. They make groups like Black Sabbath and Twisted Sister sound like the Carpenters. "Out of Wedlock" is this British band's first North American release, but is expected to do well. And with tracks like "You're a Bitch", "Let's Smash Things", and "Contraception Now", it seems the sky's the limit for these five hard rockers from Leeds.

JOHN-PAUL AND THE JESUITS-ABSOLUTELY DIVINE-VATICAN

The long awaited live album from the Pontiff's 1984 Canadian visit is finally here.

Very inspirational in places, and with a new video running on MTV, this album could be the best thing to happen to the Catholic Church since they dropped the Latin and started giving mass in English.

And with singles like "Sacramental Wine", "Sitting in the Confessional Blues", "I've Got A Wafer Under My Tongue" and "Ten Little Commandments", this album proves that just because you're holy, doesn't mean you can't have rhythm.

WINSTON SMITH-THE REINCARNATION-RCA

Everyone's favorite and best-loved protagonist from George Orwell's "1984" is reborn and takes us on a magical musical experience along with the lines of Pink Floyd's "The Wall".

The album opens with Winston in the recovery room of the Ministry of Truth, supposedly 'cured' of his anti-government ideas, but we learn he was really only faking it.

Eventually, with the help of some super-natural forces, Winston stages a surprise coup d'etat and succeeds with instating himself as supreme and undisputed leader of Oceania.

No. 1 on his hit list: O'Brian, the man that made his life miserable. After he's taken care of, Smith becomes overly paranoid and orders the execution of all the fatherless boys in the nation to insure that the Big Brother's organization can never gain hold of power, ever again.

I won't ruin it and tell you how it all turns out, but believe me, it's worth it just to hear O'Brian scream "Uncle!"

Indeed this album is destined to be a modern day classic. Best tracks include "Thinking For Myself", "Oceania Coup: April 1985", "Death to O'Brian" and "Big Brothers Will Die". However it does get a bit mushy with tracks like "I Miss You Julia" and "It's Lonely At The Top," which only proves that just because you change the government doesn't mean you'll solve any problems.

Thailand with WUSC

Applications for the 1985 WUSC International Seminar to Thailand are now available on university and college campuses across Canada.

Thirty students and three faculty leaders will be selected to participate in the summer programme which begins in July 1985 and includes six weeks of travel, study and exploration of development projects in various regions of Thailand.

WUSC seminars have been providing opportunities for cross-cultural study and travel for Canadian students since the first WUSC seminar to Germany in 1948. Research topics in the areas of economics, education, agriculture, geography, demography and the social and health sciences lead participants into special interest fields with the help of Canadian professors and local resource people. Participation in rural development projects and a variety of cultural events are integral parts of the programme which takes members of the academic community into first-hand experiences in the developing world.

The working language of the Thailand seminar will be English and a familiarity with Thai would be an asset for faculty applicants.

Selected students will be required to raise a portion of programme costs, the remainder will be covered by WUSC, including travel, lodging, meals, and all seminar activities, beginning with a pre-departure briefing in Ottawa and an orientation in Bangkok upon arrival.

The deadline for faculty applications is November 8th, with student applications due December 7th. Information and application forms may be obtained from the local WUSC committee representative on campus:

to be built onto the rink. Everything would be completely accessible to the disabled.

Behind the offices and locker rooms, next to the rink, would be a heated pool measuring 12,276 square feet, with three- and five-metre diving boards. Besides that would be a therapeutic wading pool, sloped for wheelchair access, and heated ten degrees warmer than the swimming pool.

The field house would be organized with partitions and equipped with pull-out bleachers. It could house three basketball courts, three volleyball courts, four tennis courts, badminton courts, or a combination, as required.

Racquetball courts would also be included in the complex.

U.P.E.I. has adequate parking and accessibility, heating capacity, service crew, and above all, need for a complete sports complex. With 200 more students coming in the vet college, the need can only grow.
