

3-Day Centennial Celebrations End

BORDEN — The town's three-day centennial celebrations came to an end yesterday with church services for both Catholic and Protestant denominations. Mass for the Roman Catholic was held outdoors on the original planned yesterday morning but the protestant service was held in the Borden United Church due to inclement weather.

A number of activities kept spectators from being bored Saturday while swimmers were stilling their way across the Strait.

One of the main attractions during the afternoon was the concert by the Royal Canadian Artillery Band which the crowd of some 5,000 people attended. Other events were the swimming meet staged inside the stadium under the direction of the Red Cross.

SOFTBALL TOURNEY
Presentations of Borden were made throughout most of the competitions were held in the park adjoining the rink early in the afternoon. The softball tournament was held in the park on the outskirts of Borden in March-which was a term and early evening.

Early in the rink were scheduled to put on a performance Friday evening but were forced to call it off because of high winds, held spectators spellbound as they made a number of jumps. In the rink later that night presentations took place to the swimmers when number of dignitaries were gathered. Among the dignitaries were J. W. Stewart, secretary, Mayor Gilbert Bell and Inspector Drew, commanding officer of the RCMP vessel Fort Steele.

Making the presentations was James McCormick, chairman of the Borden Committee.

SWIMMERS SPEAK
While the large audience listened raptly a number of swimmers expressed their appreciation for the way they had been treated while in Borden and a number of them spoke. Among those speaking were Herman Willemse, Abner Hoff, Wendy Birch, Carlos Larrera, George Park and Gerald Brooks. Will George Park, leading "Happy Birthday" for Wendy Birch, turned it at the day of the swim.

Wendy also drew the lucky ticket on the draw for the 1964 automobile being lottered by the swim committee and the winner was Mrs. Allen Hughes of Vernon River.

This program was followed by a dance in the rink where lobster and ham dinners had been served earlier in the day.

P.E.I. Centennial Choir Makes Happy Night

There is no more versatile or beautiful instrument than the human voice, properly used, or words to that effect, has been said by many in the many years that culture has recognized the singing voice as one of its great possessions.

Choraleaders have recently been given twice the opportunity to judge themselves the truth in that statement. Last week it was the Canadian Opera Company, performing in the regular Sunday concert series at Confederation Centre Theatre.

The former was a professional company of singers trained for opera, the latter a amateur group of local people trained by Royton Magford in the rather different field of chorale singing.

On Saturday night, at the last performance by the opera company, the audience gave them a standing ovation. Last night the audience was slightly different, but the response given by the audience to the chorus would seem to indicate as favorable a reaction.

At least 800 people went to the concert, according to theatre officials who were extremely happy every performance of every show put on there to receive such large audiences.

Last night they were happy with the turnout, the singers were happy with their reception and the audience was happy with the music. The choir was served. It was a happy night.

A number of solo selections proved to be a highlight for the audience, that the Island gifted with some very good voices, the choir members are without the experience of singing on stage.

"The Staging Father," as someone called him last night, was Frank Kelly. He died with two other soloists and one of the basis in an Acadian folk song. The audience heard three songs from the French which appeared on the program last folk tunes. Father Kelly admitted that he was never Irish, with no trace of his ancestry in his background, judging from one French-speaking person in the audience, his authentic French was good indeed.

Gerace Stars In Pentathlon

By JERRY GLADMAN
TORONTO (CP)—Dianne Gerace of Trail, B.C., captured the women's pentathlon championship at the Canadian Olympic decathlon and pentathlon trials here Friday and Saturday, but it was more than just a victory for the slender, long-legged 29-year-old.

Dianne, who set a Canadian mark of 4,716 (this was the first time of her kind ever held in Canada) was a rookie competitor in her first pentathlon competition. Her first start was an impressive one and enabled her to qualify for the Olympic standard with 4,569, over three of the five events with Dianne taking the other two.

Her first event was the 100 metres, which she won in 1:30.4. The next event was the 200 metres, which she won in 3:10.4. The third event was the 400 metres, which she won in 1:15.4. The fourth event was the 800 metres, which she won in 2:45.4. The fifth event was the 1,600 metres, which she won in 6:45.4.

GUEST CONDUCTORS
Two guest conductors, William E. Fletcher and W. R. Rogers, directed the choir in their own compositions, respectively the anthem We Give Immortal Praise and a group of Three Songs From Emily Dickenson. Mr. Rogers' three beautiful little melodies, inspired by poems of the beloved female poet, received what might be termed deserved great acclaim.

The choir sang the best in its progress in singing the opening anthem, O Canada, and the closing one, The Queen for which no one refused to stand. As one man backstage said, "Royton Magford deserves to be congratulated for the fruit of his efforts."

Monsoon Rains Mean Misery To India's Teeming Slums

NEW DELHI (AP)—The rain beats harder and faster. Woods bend under the peeling puddles form. And rivulets ooze out of erode shelters where families huddle against the downpour.

Without referring to Republican allegations, Rusk said: "No one has to convince us the contest between freedom and Communist imperialism is our first order of business in the state department. And it must never cease to be our first order of business until a world wide victory for peace and freedom has been secured."

"Our purpose must be to win the victory without a great war if possible. We will defend our vital interests, and those of the free world, by whatever means are required."

"But a military edge is not a rational path" to a decent world order of free men. No sane man could regard the incursion of most of the northern hemisphere as a triumph for freedom.

Golf and Country club, Bathurst, was fourth among the amateurs with a 149 while John Estabrooks finished fifth at 149.

Cealie's score of 140 broke both the meet and the amateur record while his single round of 62 tied the record for low 18-hole score in the meet. The old record for the tourney was a 143, set last year by Ted Reedy of Riverview.

The mark of 68 was set in 1953 by professional Ben Ogden of the Miramichi golf and country club.
