WITCH DOCTOR AT LULUBOURG

'Hallow'en must be late this year," says Sigmalan Robert Freeman of Vancouver as he is stopped by one of the native villagers close to Lulubourg in The Congo by the village witch doctor. Freeman, a member of the 57th Canadian Signal Unit, is a teletype operator in the Lulubourg detachment. The witch doctor's costume is made of straw and skin. The knife is a symbol of office. Newfoundland Norse Ruins Claimed Not Ericson's Site

OSLO (AP)—The Viking hamlet found on Newfoundland can't be Leif Ericson's, a specialist on the northern tip of Newfoundland, last summer. His discoveries were announced by the National Geographic Society in Washington Nov. 5.

The find is great news indeed and the support they have received from American scientists is most welcome," said Jo Christian Torsoe in an interview. "But Leif Ericson sailed from Newfoundland to Nova Scotia and thence on to Falmouth, where he is settled near Martha's Vineyard."

Torsoe is publishing a book at the Oslo University Press soon about Leif Ericson's discovery of America.

Leif's voyage to America entirely on the Norse Star, but where others dismiss certain aspects, such as the distances covered, as poetic licence, Torsoe has been unshaken.

"The Norseman had much larger and faster ships than they are normally given credit for," he said, basing his assumptions on, among other things, recent excavations in Bergen where parts of such ships have been unearthed.

"It was thus quite possible for Leif to have sailed from Labrador to Falmouth in the time stated in the Saga," he claims.

Thalidomide Babies Total 115 In Canada

TORONTO (CP)—A report in the Journal of the Canadian Medical Association says the drug thalidomide is known to have been associated with the births of 115 deformed babies in Canada.

Thalidomide, a sedative drug, was withdrawn from use in Canada in March, 1962, after it was alleged its use by women during the early months of pregnancy was causing them to give birth to deformed children.

The report was written by Dr. Jean F. Webb, chief of the anti-Jewish leaflets dropped by the department of national health and welfare. Dr. Webb says the number 115 represents only the malformations in which thalidomide definitely was implicated.
