TRIBUTES

From Capt. L. Titeombe, Salvation Army:

"It is to men like the late Colonel K. S. Rogers from whom I received the best advice, generous and unflinching energy in community projects, right up to the hour of the final call, that the Salvation Army with many other agencies for the alleviation of human suffering owes an efficiency of service on a national scale.

"His friendship for the Army for many years developed into membership on the Advisory Board when it was organized here in 1925. A letter of thanks for radio time on behalf of the Salvation Army brought the reply: 'We regard it as one of the great charitable and social organizations of the world, doing irreplaceable work in many fields.'

"Colonel Rogers worked unflinchingly in the development of the Sunset Lodge project which today stands as a monument to those who like him and associated with him brought cheer and comfort to many elderly ladies. On two occasions he headed the Red Shield appeal when considerable monies were raised for the furtherance of Sunset Lodge.

"A soldier has laid aside the weapons of warfare after contributing of his recognized ability in the strife for Democracy and our way of life and also in his vigorous and aggressive campaigns in the interest of the aged, lonely and even deserted.

The silence of remote farming communities has been broken, the drabness of life to those in hospital and Sanatorium beds has been enriched and singular enjoyment has been brought to many of the Maritimes, the brain child of our dear friend, Colonel Rogers.

"But for him the curfew has tolled the parting of his day. Some might say his task of bringing Television to his native province is unfinished, yet to many who knew him well we can almost hear him say:

"Oh! all ye people, clap your hands, And with triumphant voices sing, No force the mighty pow'r withstands Of God, the Universal King."

From Dr. W.J.P. MacMillan, O.B.E.

"Thousands of friends in P. E. Island, the Maritimes, Canada and elsewhere bowed in profound sorrow on learning of the very sudden death of one of the Island's most brilliant sons, K. S. Rogers. History will accord him a first place among the many great men this Province has produced.

"His military record in the important field of communications is well known as one of the highest excellence.

"As a pioneer in his chosen field of radio he stood in a class of his own in this great country. As a champion of private enterprise in broadcasting, he was noted for his independence and he fought long and courageously against heavy odds.

"As a public spirited citizen he gave generously of his time and talents as well as free service over C.F.C.Y. to every good cause.

"In the many campaigns for public welfare both in stress of war or in time of peace I have used a lot of free time over his splendid broadcasting system and the resulting publicity went far to make a success of generous contributions to the Red Cross, the Cancer Campaigns, the Children's Aid Society, the Free Dispensary, and many others.

"I pen those few feeble words in tribute to one of the most public spirited citizens I have ever known.

"It is with sincere feelings of heartfelt regret that I, among thousands realize that the 'Friendly Voice' we have so often listened to is stilled forever—but we shall cherish always fond and grateful memories of this great Islander.

"To his devoted wife and family and venerable mother, I tender my very sincere sympathy."

News and Views From P.W.C.

College life has returned to normal after the Christmas vacation and it seems difficult to realize that half of the year is passed already.

The hockey teams are forming up well and the senior team acquitted itself excellently in a close 6-5 win over S.D.U. We look forward to more games with St. Dunstan's since on Tuesdays PWC and SDU have consecutive periods at the Forum. Games are planned with Montague and Summerside and, especially with the cold weather which we have had already, this promises to be a good hockey winter.

Interest in the college house league has waned so much an extent that the AAA has seen fit to change its forum periods next week over to the senior and juvenile teams. The main reason for the varied interest in comparison to last year's house league seems to be the new ruling eliminating senior and juvenile players on the college teams from the house league.

The basketball team is being whipped into shape and thus far has made a good showing. The basketball house league also has flourished and in this sport again we may expect a good season.

The Students Council held a mass meeting after New Year's to hear criticism and advice from the student body which seems recent in expressing its views through its representatives. All reports the idea was well received and Council members have expressed their appreciation for the ideas presented at the meeting as well as for the attendance.

The Variety Concert committee has been active in producing a new show entitled "The Fables of '54". Last year's show was a tremendous success and from all appearances this year will see an even better one. The show will be presented in February.

Has Big Job In Mapping Galaxy

One of the hardest jobs in the world is picking a star out of 100 million and when the number gets to be 100 billion the scientists can have the task. One of the men in Canada trying to separate the various stars is Dr. Donald A. MacRae, son of Dr. D. A. MacRae, Osogode Hall, Toronto, and a nephew of Mrs. C. R. MacKinnon, 12 York Lane, Brighton.

Dr. MacRae's biggest task is that of trying to separate the galaxy and cataloguing the radial velocities of the stars. The galaxy is a lens-shaped collection of stars about 100 million light years across.

One of his tasks is ascertaining the relationship between such groups as the Pleiades and trying to learn how they fit into the galactic structure.

By means of special instruments Dr. MacRae is enabled to determine how far away the stars which he is observing are. He also has for his use a 74 inch telescope which permits him to determine whether the stars are of the same type, though possibly of different size and luminosity.

His studies have carried him from the University of Toronto, where he received his degrees in mathematics and physics, to Harvard University, Boston, where he obtained his degree of Ph.D. in astronomy, and through the University of Cornell, Pennsylvania and the Case Institute at Cleveland, Ohio. During the war years Dr. MacRae did a considerable amount of research at Oak Ridge, later returning to the University of Toronto where he is an associate professor of astronomy.

Physics and astronomy have become increasingly allied, and through Dr. MacRae's study of the galaxy is more astronomical than physics in its nature, much of the observed phenomena is only explainable in the light of physical knowledge.

"Trollafoss" Gives Aid To Vessel In Distress

A drama of the sea took place recently involving the Icelandic ship Trollafoss which on January 7th arrived in Charlottetown to load potatoes for the Associated Shippers Incorporated and which later completed her cargo at Georgetown.

The Trollafoss left Georgetown on the night of Tuesday the 19th and on Wednesday morning Captain Christian Adasteinsson radioed a message to Mr. George Thompson, the local agent, that "she had cleared the Strait of Canso and all was well". At noon on Wednesday Mr. Thompson received a phone call from New York, stating that a sister ship, the Largarfoss, coming from Iceland with 1500 tons of frozen fish, was in distress with a broken cylinder wall and that the Trollafoss would have to go to her aid and tow her to Halifax. It was estimated that the towing speed would not be more than three knots, in which case the potatoes would have arrived in Norfolk, Va., three days behind schedule.

On Friday, the 22nd, the New York agents advised that the engineer from the Trollafoss was going aboard the stricken ship. He was able to seal off the broken cylinder wall and with her sister ship accompanying, the Largarfoss made Halifax. The Trollafoss then proceeded on her way and arrived at her destination only three hours behind time.

The fact that a sister ship was only within one or two hours sailing distance of the other, certainly eliminated the cost of an expensive salvage operation and since the cargo of potatoes were not insured against frost, a delay of three days in the North Atlantic could have proven costly to the shippers.

Employees Taking First Aid Course

Seventeen employees of the Maritime Electric Company received their initial instructions in the standard First Aid Course at Red Cross Headquarters annex last evening.

Instruction is being given by Mr. Kent Ellis, fourth year student at P.W.C. specializing in Pre. Med. work.
