HALIFAX (CP) — The weather office says Edmundston, Campbellton, Chatham and Fredericton all reported afternoon temperature readings in the nineties Monday. The highest reading reported in Prince Edward Island was Charlottetown's 78. Greenwood's 84 was the highest reported in Nova Scotia.

Cooler air approaching the St. Lawrence River Valley will push across the Maritimes today. Along the leading edge of cooler air, scattered showers and thunder showers are expected to occur. The showers will have ended in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island by this afternoon and over Nova Scotia by this evening. Wednesday promises to be mostly sunny with temperatures somewhat cooler than those experienced during the last few days.

Regional forecasts:

Mr. Knowles' amendment called for reconsideration of the entire clause dealing with newspapers and magazines. In introducing it, however, the veteran New Democrat specified that his group specifically wanted removal of the exemption provided for the Canadian editions of Time and Reader's Digest, both foreign-owned.

As the division bells summoning members to the chamber rang for more than 20 minutes, there was some doubt whether the life of the government was actually at stake in the roll-call of MPs.

The amendment in itself was simply a procedural one, referring the bill back to committee where it might not necessarily have been changed. But some members argued it at least implied changes in the proposals on which Mr. Gordon had said the government would "stand or fall."

GIVE QUICK READING

Once the amendment was out of the way, the House gave third reading to the bill without a formal vote.

As well as the magazine and newspaper provisions, the legislation also embodies a 10-per cent cut in personal income taxes effective July 1.

Almost all the fire, however, was centred on the one clause dealing with publications.

The magazine provisions were attacked by most opposition spokesmen over the exemption for Time and Reader's Digest whose Canadian editions claim more than 50 per cent of magazine advertising in this country.

Before the vote, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker reiterated his stand that "this is a bad bill."

INFRINGE FREEDOM

The newspaper provision was a serious infringement on press freedom that might not stand up in court in face of the bill of rights. As for the magazine measure, it would exempt a publication like Time which had "elevated itself to so interpret the news as to direct Canadian thinking."

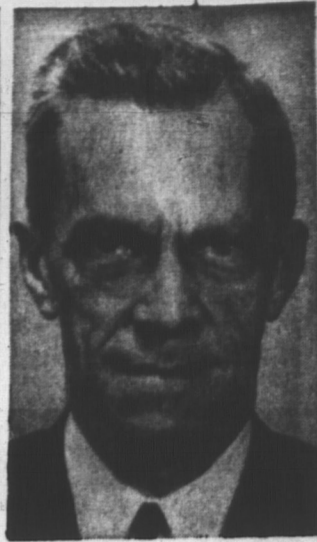

"This is not a Canadian magazine. It has those three or four pages of a Canadian section that make it a counterfeit in trying to be Canadian."

Mr. Diefenbaker said he has seen no evidence that anyone wants the newspaper measure. Why was it introduced when no newspaper in the country asked for it?

"I can only conclude that the minister of finance, having suffered so many wounds and so many retreats in the last two years and two months, wants to be able now to say here is some-

U.S. Consul General Visits This Province

The Consul General of the United States of America, Robert Smallwood Black, Halifax, was a visitor to Charlottetown yesterday.

R.S. BLACK

Mr. Black, on his second visit to this province, paid courtesy calls on Lieutenant Governor W.J. MacDonald, Premier Walter Shaw and representatives of the City of Charlottetown.

In a brief interview, Mr. Black said his office serves Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia and "is responsible for any problems that come up that have to do with Americans in the two provinces."

Mr. Black estimated that there are "a few thousand United States citizens in the province." He pointed out, however, that this is only an estimate as records are not kept. He suggested that many Islanders who worked in the United States returned to the province on retirement.

thing that he got through the House."

Douglas Fisher (NDP — Port Arthur) said he wonders if the newspaper measure will be fully effective. Did it cover situations such as the Thomson papers and the Fredericton Gleaner where, although the papers were formally owned by Canadians, they remained in the effective control of British residents Lord Thomson and Lord Beaverbrook?

According to Mr. Black there is a great deal of travel between this province and the United States. He estimated that his office processes an average of 15 visas a day.

Mr. Black has been in Halifax for about a year. Prior to coming to Halifax, he served his department in Indonesia. "It was a pleasant change to come to where, although the papers were formally owned by Canadians, they remained in the effective control of British residents Lord Thomson and Lord Beaverbrook?"

appear to be in a sound financial position."

He said, however, "it is regretted that the net membership is down from a year ago. . . we still require men of quality—men who will become good Rotarians, not just members for the sake of numbers.

"Attendance is still a prime requisite of a good Rotarian and although some members can show 100 per cent attendance for the year, some others show up rather poorly."

"I wish to thank each member of the directorate, committee chairmen and all members of the club for their wonderful co-operation and help throughout the year without which it would have been impossible to carry on."
