Commons Given Information On Proposed Gaspe Rail Line

OTTAWA (CP) — A detailed survey of a 37-mile railway between Matane and Ste. Anne des Monts in Gaspe will begin with the thaw and the CNR hopes to call for construction tenders by fall, Transport Minister Balcer said here.

The outline was given the Commons committee on railways, canals and telegraph lines which approved the development railway project, expected to cost a maximum $14,000,000.

The bill awaits third and final Commons reading before going to the Senate.

The committee sitting featured statements that the line on the north shore of the Gaspe Peninsula will open up fresh mineral and timber development for some 100,000 residents.

Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur), who said his reservations sprang from CNR branch line activity in his northern Ontario riding, expressed some doubt whether the benefit will be as ample as anticipated.

Mr. Balcer emphasized that the line will not "saddle" the publicly - owned CNR with any new debt. The government itself was putting up the money and the CNR was only its agent. The government would accept any profits or losses.

STRESSES EXPANSION

Russell Keays (PC—Iles de la Madeleine) said the emphasis should be on the fresh expansion—long awaited — that the railway would bring rather than on doubts and reservations.

CNR witnesses said they had not calculated on any ore or mineral shipments so that these additions, when available, would swell revenues. Over the short run, the line was expected to carry 75,000 tons of freight outbound annually and 65,000 tons of freight inbound. It might take 10 or 15 years before the line was producing a return to meet interest on the investment —depending on freight development.

Negotiations have begun about operating agreements with the Gulf Terminal Railway from Matane to Mount Jolie, the committee was told. The 37 - mile line will have 15 bridges on it.

Ships and trucks have supplied transportation so far and the truckers have indicated that they feel the railway will be good for their long-term business, Roland English (PC — Gaspe) told the committee.

Welensky Hits Constitution For N. Rhodesia

LONDON (Reuters) — Sir Roy Welensky sharply attacked Britain's new constitutional plan for Northern Rhodesia and declared "the next step" is up to his Rhodesian federation legislators.

Welensky, the central African federation's prime minister, told a press conference his government had received "little help" from the British government in trying to bring about racial partnership in the federation and "advance" the Negro.

He accused Britain of having done "little or nothing" to establish or maintain faith in a federation it had created.

Welensky flew to London two days ago in what was widely seen as a last - ditch bid to modify the new British proposals to give a bigger political voice to Negroes in Northern Rhodesia, a British protectorate. The proposals were not modified.

Opening lead—six of hearts.

The Rule of Eleven can be used to advantage by either side. It has as its base the custom of leading the fourth best card of a suit.

In this hand, for example, when West leads the six of hearts—the fourth best of his long suit—it becomes possible for both East and South to apply the Rule of Eleven.

South subtracts six (the card led) from eleven. The answer five tells him there are five hearts higher than the six in the North, East and South hands.

Since South sees one of them in dummy and one is his hand, he knows that East has three hearts higher than the six. The knowledge does not help South in this particular deal, but that is the method he uses to obtain it.

East applies the Rule of Eleven in the same way. He also subtracts six from eleven and learns that North, East and South have five cards higher than the six. Since he has three higher and dummy one higher, East knows that declarer has only one heart better than the six.

East can make good use of this information in choosing his line of defense. After East plays the jack of hearts, which loses to the king, South leads a low club to the king and another club back. East has to discard on the second club and should play his queen of hearts!

When West takes his queen of clubs, he is then in position to cash his hearts and defeat the contract.

But suppose East is unfamiliar with the Rule of Eleven. Then he might discard the six of spades or seven of diamonds on the club lead, and in either case West would find it difficult to lead the ace of hearts to run his suit.

West would be afraid that declarer had started with the K-Q-x of hearts and might lead a spade or a diamond in response to East's discard of either of those suits. This would permit declarer to make the contract.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
