

Poundmaker in Captivity.

MR. JAMES TROW, M. P., VISITS THE CHIEF IN PRISON.

Mr. James Trow, M. P., for South Perth, who is writing for the Stratford Beacon a series of letters on a recent visit to the Northwest, gives the following account of a talk with Poundmaker at his quarters in the Stony Mountain Penitentiary:—

"Passing along the lawn we noticed quite a number of Indians and other prisoners marching past under command of their guards to their work at a new building. The Indian prisoners were dressed in prison suits, giving them a more respectable appearance than when clad in a dirty blanket with gaw-gaws, painted faces, and eagle's wings. Some of them looked gloomy, others more cheerful. The Indian has a decided dislike to the wearing of pantaloons. On one occasion Dr. Hagarty, then Indian medical adviser for the Northwest, and myself, decorated a young chief at Fort Ellice, with a new Government suit. He evidently felt uncomfortable, sighed for 'freedom,' and while we were exploring the Fort the rascally redskin cut the seat out of his pants! We were taken into the garden containing several acres under excellent cultivation, and laid off into well formed beds containing almost every description of vegetable and flower known in the East. Engaged in the undignified work of

WEDDING ONIONS we found the great Indian Chief Poundmaker. O tempora! O mores! Varily, how the times have changed! Ascertaining that it was not against the rules of the institution to hold a conversation with the fallen chief, or make him a present of a few cigars, I gave him some, which he accepted with evident pleasure. This I considered a necessary preliminary to engaging in a general conversation. I need not weary your readers by rehearsing the tenor of our confab. Suffice it to say Poundmaker nodded, we did the same; he said 'ho!' we said 'ho!' This concluded our interesting interview. Probably the Cree chief was out of temper that we did not understand Cree, and we were disappointed that he didn't understand English or Welsh, or even Gaelic. His figure is well formed, slender, and tall; his features are good—nothing wicked or villainous in his countenance. He is very fond of EXHIBITING HIS LONG HAIR, which reaches to the small of his back. He was very much annoyed on entering the penitentiary when he was informed his hair would be cut short, and earnestly craved the influence of Governor Dewdney and Mr. Bodson to intercede with Sir John in his behalf, that his silky locks should be spared, saying he would sooner lose his life. This privilege was granted. Most likely the poor fallen chief was not as bad as represented, and that he could not, as alleged, control his braves when attacked by Col. Otter. In all probability he will be set at liberty before his sentence expires. If he is a judge of comfort he will remain not merely for the term of his sentence but during his natural life."

Strange Friendships.

The painter Razzi formed friendships with all sorts of animals, and he filled his house with squirrels, monkeys, Angora cats, dwarf asses, he-goats, and Elba ponies.

Besides these he had an enormous raven, who gravely strode about among the other animals as if it were the exhibitor of this Noah's Ark. When any one knocked at the outer door, the raven called, "Come in!" in a loud voice.

Pelisson, confined in the Bastille, made a friend of a spider, which he tamed. The jailer one day seeing Pelisson take pleasure in contemplating the insect, crushed it under his foot, and left the prisoner distressed and melancholy at the loss of his friend.

Latude, in the same prison, made companions of some six and twenty rats, who inhabited his cell. He gave each of them a name, and they learned to come to him at his call. He fed them, played with them, and they thus greatly relieved the ennui of his captivity. But Latude made friends of rats only from necessity.

The Marquis de Montespan, in perfect freedom of choice, had the extraordinary taste to amuse himself with mice, when occupying the gilded apartments of Versailles. True, the mice were white, and had been brought to him all the way from Siberia; but the taste was a most odd one, nevertheless.

Cardinal Mazarin, the French Minister, employed his leisure in playing with an ape; and Cardinal Richelieu amused himself with his collection of cats.

There are other historic names associated with pet animals, among which may be named the vulture of Semiramis, the butterfly of Virgil, the starling of Nero, the ape of Commodus, the sparrow of Heliogabalus, and the dove of Mohammed.

True Nobility.

Schiller, the German poet, had a patent of nobility conferred upon him by the Emperor of Germany, which he never used. Turning over a heap of papers one day in the presence of a friend he came to his patent, and showed it carelessly to his friend, with this observation—"I suppose you did not know I was a noble!" and then buried it again in the mass of miscellaneous papers in which it had long lain undisturbed. Schiller's friend might have answered, after this action, "I did not before know you were noble, I know it now."

Found a Manufacturer Overloaded! Bought Part of His Stock at a Sacrifice.

Prices are Still Tumbling and Purchasers will Reap the Benefit Thereof!

REID BROS. have purchased a large Invoice of Fine Saxony All-wool Tweeds from a Manufacturer's Agent, whose name we are not permitted to mention, at a great sacrifice to the mills, and we intend giving our patrons the advantage of this purchase. These goods have never in the history of P. E. Island been retailed at less than $1.40 to $1.75 a yard, and we now can offer them at Sixty a yard, or will make up suits from them to order, with linings worth $1.10 a yard and other trimmings to match, at the popular price $16. worth just $22.50 all over this country. Will produce letters from some of the best men in town and country which must satisfy the most astute that our cutter, Mr. Bruce, and his helpers, are equal to the times, and his garments are always neat, strong, perfect-fitting and full-fashioned.

Experience has taught us that many persons have been driven away in disgust from houses who are continually advertising goods at extraordinary prices, which they are unable to produce when called for, and to meet this difficulty we ask intending purchasers to call and examine our stock and we are confident that one inspection will satisfy the most skeptical that we never advertise a humbug.

New and Original Departure in Coal Cooking Stoves

COMBINING DURABILITY, HEAT AND ECONOMY.

This Cut represents my Patent Fire King Cooking Stove, with the oven, end and lining partially drawn out, as it appears while being cleaned, or when a new lining is being replaced.

THE above Stove I invented and patented in 1876, and at the present time HUNDREDS ARE IN USE, giving perfect satisfaction. A large number have been in constant use for eight years, and the repairs have been very trifling, in many instances none have been required. This valuable experience should be sufficient evidence of their durability, which is accounted for in the following:—It has, instead of a Lined Fire Box, two heavy Curved Cylinders, which obviate the expense connected with all Square Cooking Stoves of being compelled to renew Linings and Grates, at least once or twice every year. The heat being radiated from the Cylinders to the floor, where most needed, overcomes a serious objection to all kinds of ordinary Coal Cooking Stoves. The Cylinders are situated directly under the cover holes, and a fire may be made in one or both, thus adapting it for use either in winter or summer, with equal satisfaction, besides effecting a great saving to fuel. I have also attached the PATENT TELESCOPE OVEN to all my Elevated Oven Wood Stoves, such as the Waterloo, Niagara, Star, &c, causing the thousands using them to exclaim—My Stoves are worth TEN DOLLARS MORE than the same kind made by other foundries. The trade and retail purchasers will please bear in mind the fact that although a great advantage is claimed for my own Oven above all others, they cost no more, and being the sole manufacturer and patentee, no other foundry can supply. Enquire for Fawcett's Patent Telescope Oven, and if your dealer has none on hand send direct to the Sackville Stove Foundry.

I am adding several new and handsome Patterns this season, which, with my former large variety of One Hundred Different Patterns and Sizes of Cooking, Parlor, Office and Hall Stoves, also Farmers Boilers, Hollowware, Ploughs, Stove Pipes and Tinware, comprise the most complete assortment offered by any manufacturer in the Lower Provinces. Terms and prices will be found as favorable as can be obtained elsewhere.
