Island Contestants Return From Coburg Plowing Matches

Prince Edward Island's entrants in the Dominion and World's Championship plowing matches, Mr. Stanley Willis, Cornwall and Mr. Sterling Moore, Pownall, arrived home Sunday after competing in Coburg, Ontario.

Mr. Willis, who was the Island champion, placed fourth in the Dominion competition. He was most enthusiastic about the trip and the experience gained. A peculiar thing about the winning of the world's championship, was that everyone thought that Timbers would win and were quite surprised at the outcome when Eccles was named the champion.

Incidentally these two boys were well known to each other and each was happy to see the other winner of the championships. The story of Eccles' win over Timbers was that, contrary to the regulations of the match, Timbers' father turned his son's machine while the boy was adjusting a furrow; and although he did not move plow or tractor onto the field, Timbers was almost disqualified. After an hour's consultation among the judges, he was allowed to restart, but not before he was penalized to the extent of five points. This lost the match and the championship for Timbers, since Eccles had only a margin of four points over him.

Mr. Willis, while not offering an alibi, states that the other entrants in the match were working at a decided disadvantage to Ontario plowmen. The reason for this was that the Dominion match was conducted according to the rules of the world plowing match, and only the Ontario contestants were familiar with these rules. It was not until a few minutes before the match, that contestants from the other provinces were aware of the conditions under which they were required to plow. In view of this fact, Mr. Willis made a most creditable showing in placing fourth.

The enthusiasm evidenced by the tremendous attendance—as many as 50,000 in one day—was a most interesting sight to behold at the match. There was a complete city of tents at the site of the match, with street names, lights, etc. The display of agricultural equipment of every conceivable type and design added greatly to the attractions at the match. In addition to this practically every other industrial firm had their wares on display.

The European plowmen were not particularly impressive. This could have been because they were using brand new equipment, which in most cases will not give the performance expected from a machine which is broken in. In addition to this, the soil was very dry and hard—a condition which they were unfamiliar with. Mr. Willis strongly recommends that future representatives in such matches should not be without the services of a competent coach. So great was the need for this, that at one time he and Moore were in the act of testing to see who would plow and who would coach the other. Not wishing to spoil each other's chances, they decided against this and both became contestants.

Both men were high in their praise for the way they were treated. There was a banquet every night they were there. One matter of a business nature arose out of the meetings which was the proposal of a "Dominion Plowing Association", with matches to be held in a different province each year. The need for greater interest in the way of sponsors for the various events was also stressed. With the experience gained this year, these two Island representatives are now in a position to pass along valuable information to any who are anxious to receive it.

What many buildings are really made of...

When you look at any building in which life insurance dollars have been invested, you may see only bricks and mortar. But these buildings are really fashioned out of many different people's dreams.

What dreams? Perhaps a father's hope of sending his boy or girl to college some day. Or a school teacher's goal of a trip to Europe. Or someone's plan to pay off a mortgage, buy a farm, or retire at 65.

Out of such dreams many different kinds of buildings are constructed all over the nation. Schools, stores, office buildings, homes, hotels, power plants, factories—these are some of the useful structures created with the aid of money which life insurance companies invest for their policyholders.

So, if you are a life insurance policyholder, remember... while you're working to make your dreams come true... while you're providing for your family's security... you're also helping to make Canada a better land to live in!

AT YOUR SERVICE! A trained life underwriter, representing one of the more than 50 Canadian, British and United States life insurance companies in Canada, will gladly help you plan for your family's security and your own needs in later years. Rely on him!
