From place to place along holdings of the name, the interests of our day move—now at "the other farm" and then at the Mother of them which is Alderlea; or it may be at this one "In the Road" which neighbors the former. All—farmers and helpers—join hands to have some task of season completed.

This week, Jamie and the younger lad on Fall-holiday from school, encouraged by a Grandfather who delights in a unity of purpose on a farm, contributed no small share to the work of field.

"If he could get the dog to carry a basket," one of the Family laughed at the day of the digging, "he would have him picking potatoes like the rest of us!" Neither is only-Granddaughter to be left in ignorance of such farm-work.

The digging at this place on a recent day, only a minor chore in the small acreage now grown, revived for a time the excitement and joy of the occasion and brought us back echoes of former years. . . . And the names and faces of helpers we once had, returned to mind. . . . those gone now from earthly scenes or it may be retired to less active lives.

And the youngsters, the happy boys and girls with merry laugh and jest—and quick hands to gather the tubers to baskets.

And a little wind of day called to us who must provide fare for the hungry workers—so lovely was the day—to follow it. . . .

Canadian Consumer News

The slogan "What you don't know won't hurt you" is not only wrong and stupid but harmful when applied to our economy. It makes us wasteful and leads us to buy the wrong things. It often causes us to blame our political leaders and our economists for troubles which rise straight from our own mistakes and misjudgments.

The purpose of careful shopping is to get the most of what we most want and C.A.C. is trying to educate the consumer to do just that.

Here is some helpful advice from specialists on buying nylon and crepe stockings:— It's not enough to tell the salesgirl whether you want service weights or sheers, the specialists insist on wearing quality even among sheers. We should know and specify both gauge and denier number and length as well as size. Remember gauge is the fineness or closeness of knit and denier the fineness of the nylon yarn.

Thus 15 or 20 denier hose can be expected to last longer in the close weave of 60 or 66 gauge rather than the 45 or 51. And the heavier 30 denier will give better wear with 45 or 51 gauge.

It is worth considering the wearing advantage of crepe hose because the yarn has a twist that makes it stronger and does not wear so easily. Crepe hose come in different gauges and deniers now too, so study this out and choose your stockings wisely the next time.

C.A.C. asked Canadian manufacturers to mark the leg length on their stockings and several are now doing this. So always ask for your correct leg as well as foot length.

Now here's a tip for the men! The experts tell us that all nylon socks are not as popular as they expected they would be because they do not absorb the moisture but a combination of wool and nylon is much sought after. A percentage of 20 or 25% nylon is recommended as an excellent wearing sock, so ladies remember this when shopping for Dad this Christmas.

Did you know that if your nylon blouse gets a bit greyish or off color you can dip it once in a while in a mild bleach?

For Tomorrow DELAYS and dangers beset the way on this weekend, with little encouragement for plans that include any of the regulation avocations or indulgences. In fact, there may be hazard in travel, with unconventional or irregular contacts or experience that might eventually precipitate sinister or malefic developments. For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have to rearrange plans or projects on some sort of schedule, in which it is advisable to keep alert to hidden or obscure factors of sinister or malicious portent. While there are certain favorable propensities or bids for new ventures or affiliations, beware of subtle or crafty undercurrents. Keep on solid ground and security by sustained effort, overcoming obstacles by wise judgment, long-range vision and high purpose. Beware traps and symptoms.

Day After Tomorrow The horoscope holds augury of outstanding and extraordinary developments in the realm of cultural, social and civic advancement and progress. There may be unusual celebrations as well as spectacular municipal festivities or gay programs. Action and excitement are in the air.

That Body Of Yours

Health writers, in a desire to enlighten their readers about common ailments and their management until the doctor arrives, may sometimes give the reader needless worry or, on the other hand, fail to mention a dangerous sign or symptom.

When a child has a pain in the abdomen, it may be due to a simple irritation of the lower bowel (colon) and diarrhoea occurs, showing that Nature is providing extra water to wash the irritant out of bowel. Pain might also be due to a spasm of the lower bowel, causing a temporary delay and constipation.

As the first thought about pain in the abdomen is that it might be appendicitis, Dr. Louis R. Slatery (New York University), in the New York Journal of Medicine, states that early diagnosis in acute appendicitis is relatively easy when abdominal pain starts in region of stomach and goes down to the lower right side of abdomen and remains there. It is always wise to call the doctor immediately as actually less than 1 in 100 die if an acute appendix is removed within 24 to 36 hours.

I have written several times of what is known as the Philadelphia experiment in which deaths from appendicitis reached almost zero, if operation occurred in the first 36 hours and patient was not given food or a purgative.

DOROTHY DIX'S COLUMN--

Vacation vs. Romance

Less With A Good Job' Delays On Marriage

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been going with a girl for six years. I have asked her several times if she would marry me but she keeps saying she doesn't want to get married for another two years. She has a very good job and claims she prefers it, just now, to matrimony. I am 26 and she is 21. I offered her an engagement ring which I thought would change her mind, but she still insists she wants to wait at least two years. Even then, she doesn't guarantee that her attitude will change. She doesn't seem as anxious to have me around as she used to, so I am wondering if her love isn't fading somewhat. Do you think I should wait for the next two years to pass? V. A.

ANSWER: Your young lady gives every indication of being somewhat less than in love with you. Perhaps her ardor hasn't survived a six-year friendship; again, perhaps the difference in your ages has made you more serious minded than she is. After all, when you began to go together, she was only 15—scarcely an age to form a permanent attachment—while you were 20 and capable of having a more fixed purpose. It may be that you are rushing the girl a bit, even now.
