Will Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Their friends, who are legion, in their native province of Prince Edward Island, will be much interested in a coming event in the lives of Colonel and Mrs. R. H. Campbell, now residing at 640 Cornwall Street, Victoria, British Columbia, who on July 3rd will observe no less an event than the 50th or "Golden" anniversary of their wedding. Colonel Campbell has had so much to do with the educational, military and fraternal life of the Island Province that his fellow-Islanders at home, hearing of the approaching anniversary, could not rest content to let the notable occasion pass without taking due cognizance of the same.

Mr. Campbell was born at Montague, July 3rd, 1863, so that the coming wedding anniversary will also be on his birthday. In the face of many difficulties he educated himself to be a teacher and taught in a number of schools, among them Georgetown Royalty, Bridgetown, Lower Montague, West Kent and Prince Street, in Charlottetown, and in 1895 he became Principal of Summerside High School and continued in that position for ten years. He then became, for a time, editor of the Pioneer and Island Farmer, Summerside weekly newspapers, but when opportunity offered to become the Principal of West Kent School in Charlottetown, he gave up journalism for the work which by his training and experience he felt he was better fitted. He remained in this position for several years, resigning to take the honored position of Superintendent of Education for the province and labored with marked success to raise the standard of education in Prince Edward Island.

It was during Mr. Campbell's first period of residence in Charlottetown that he began his military career by joining the 4th Regiment of Canadian Artillery. Upon moving to Summerside he became identified with the splendid youth organization of that period known as the Boys' Brigade which has now been superceded by the Boy Scouts. The Boys' Brigade in Summerside was under the leadership of Rev. J. M. Withycombe, the then rector of St. Mary's Anglican Church. Mr. Campbell later joined "C" Co. of the 82nd Battalion of Infantry. He was the commanding officer of this company for a number of years, taking it each summer to its annual camp at Charlottetown.

Upon the outbreak of the Great War he received an appointment to the 85th Nova Scotia Battalion and was instructed to secure recruits in Prince Edward Island for that unit. He succeeded so well that he and his men were detached from their battalion and formed into the nucleus of that 105th P.E.I. Regiment. That body was recruited to full strength, spent a period of training at Valcartier, Que., and then proceeded to England. Here it was found impossible to take the regiment to France as a body, so the officers and men were used to reinforce battalions already in the line. Mr. Campbell had been advanced to the rank of Colonel and served for a time as convoy officer and later saw considerable service in the front line with the Canadian Engineers, acquitting himself with much credit.

Following the Armistice and his return to Canada he resumed his duties as Superintendent of Education in Prince Edward Island, resigning later to move to the Canadian West. He taught in the High School at Wilkie, Sask., for a year and then went to Powell River, B.C., where he was Principal of the High School for seven years, at the end of which period, owing to serious illness he retired and he has since resided in the city of Victoria.

Mr. Campbell was married July 3rd, 1889, his wife being the former Miss Ella J. Bulpitt, of Roseneath. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. Mr. Goldsmith being the officiating clergyman. The bride was attended by her sister Lulu, now Mrs. Cyrus Moore of Union Road, while the groom was attended by his brother Ernest, now of Victoria, who will be able to attend the anniversary celebration. The six children of the marriage, all born in P.E.I., are now living in Western Canada, George H., at Ladner, B.C.; Ruth, now Mrs. W. Wigginton, at Red Willow, Alberta; Dorothy, now Mrs. R. Baker; Lorna, now Mrs. E. Profitt; Enid, now Mrs. Norman Cary; and Ernest, all of Powell River, B.C. There are also six grandchildren.—(Summerside Journal).

defeatists is made up of those who have least reason to be pessimistic,' the Conservative Leader asserted.

The value of export markets must not be forgotten, he said, but it must not be allowed to overshadow the close-to-producer home market.

The tariff policy of his party was to protect the native industry, urban and rural, against unfair competition, Dr. Manion continued. Such a policy gave jobs and built markets. At the same time the party would guard against this policy permitting the exploitation of producers and consumers.

Dr. Manion praised seasonal tariffs on imports of early fruits and vegetables ahead of the time these reached the market from Canadian farms and gardens.

There would be an effort under Conservative Government to control unfair producer-consumer spreads, he promised, and there would be action should any combine be shown to be taking advantage of the farm producer.

"I recommend and think we should support co-operative selling agencies," he said.

Tobacco, a large item in Haldimand, was a thing that benefitted greatly from co-operative selling, Dr. Manion submitted. In the Maritimes co-operative organizations were setting an example to the rest of Canada and they merited official support.

The Empire Trade Agreements were proving their value these days, he said. As for the United States Trade Agreement, his opinion was that Canada gave too much and got too little.

Mayor E. V. McMillan Of Sault Ste. Marie, Island Native, Dies

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., June 29—(CP)—Mayor E. V. McMillan, M.C. who had been chosen Conservative candidate in Algoma west for the next federal election, died last night at Bruce Mines, 40 miles east of here. He lived here but was stricken ill Tuesday night at Bruces Mines after attending a political meeting.

Born in Alberry Plains, P. E. I. in 1892, Mr. McMillan was called to the Island bar before he entered the legal profession in Ontario. He came to Sault Ste. Marie in 1912, becoming a partner of Urian McFadden, now Kent County judge.

He served in the Great War with the Fourth Canadian Mounted Rifles and was decorated with the Military Cross for bravery at Passchendaele. Recently he was officer commanding the reserve depot of the Sault Ste. Marie and Sudbury Regiment. He was prominent in Canadian Legion and in other activities.

Two years on the city council here was part of his public record. In 1935 he was Conservative candidate in Algoma west.

Surviving are one sister, Miss G. McMillan, Alberry Plains, P. E. I. two brothers, Shaw and Alex also of Alberry Plains

The deceased was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George McMillan of Alberry Plains, his mother being Jemima Shaw, a sister of the late Cyrus Shaw of New Perth and formerly a member of the Provincial Legislature.

After completing his public school and college course Mr. McMillan studied law with the firm of MacLeod & Bentley of Charlottetown and later in Osgoode Hall, Toronto.

He entered the law office of Mr. McFadden of Sault Ste. Marie who was subsequently appointed Judge of the Supreme Court at Hamilton, Ontario.

At the outbreak of the Great War Mr. McMillan enlisted for overseas with an artillery unit giving up his military rank of Captain and reverting to that of lieutenant in order to go to France.

He saw active service for three and half years.

On return to Canada in 1918 he took over the law business of Mr. McFadden and had as his partner his cousin Norman MacMillan, a native of Alberry Plains, the name of the firm still remaining as McFadden & McMillan.

The late Mr. McMillan was an unsuccessful Federal candidate for Algoma at the general elections of 1935 and was renominated about two months ago. He built up a large practise as a lawyer and was an outstanding citizen of Sault Ste. Marie where he was held in high esteem. He was an eloquent and forceful speaker and was regarded as one of the strong men of the Conservative party.

He last visited the Island about two years ago at the time of his mother's death.

Describes Death Of Former Islander At Little Current

LITTLE CURRENT, June 29—"I knew if I moved, I would be where Bert is today—dead."

In these words, Jack Muckler, described the horrible situation which confronted him when his fellow-worker, Alfred Griffith, was electrocuted before his eyes.

Griffith was trapped by 4,400 volts of electricity while he and Muckler were repairing a transformer.

Griffith's wife and Muckler helplessly stood by and saw Griffith, caught in a super-charged area, lie in a pool of water which was livid with the full voltage.

"Stood There Like Statue"

"I stood there like a statue, afraid to even take my hands out of my pockets," said Muckler. "I'm still afraid. I can still see that awful sight—Bert on the ground while over and all around blue flames flashed. It was a long time—at least it seemed that way—before anyone came near.

"I saw his wife and heard her screaming. Then another fellow tried to get close to me. I shouted at him to get back, but he kept on coming. He had a lantern in his hand. He got within ten feet and apparently struck the electrified area. The lantern flew out of his hand and landed 20 feet away. It was burned and twisted I found out after. That seemed to calm the others. They seemed to realize that they could do nothing until the power was turned off.

Muckler said he and Griffiths had just finished a repair job on the 4400-volt transformer The transformer had carried no current while they worked. "We packed our tools and headed for the wire fence which surrounds the transformer station," he said.

Flashes Like Lightning

"Bert was ahead of me. He started to put his leg between the wires. In a second blue flashes as fierce as lightning hid him from sight. The whole enclosure seemed to be on fire. Sparks showered on the ground.

"I knew what had happened. Somebody had turned the power on again. How were we to know that? We were doing a job inside. All this flashed through my mind as I saw Bert fall to the ground and gasp. I believe he died at that moment.

"I stood there while the juice flashed all around me for 25 minutes. It seemed like 25 years. It all happened so fast, I hardly knew what to do. All I could think of was Bert lying there and the possibility that I might be where he was in a few minutes.

"I could see the people standing around. I knew what they were thinking and screamed at them. I didn't know a man could scream. But I screamed at them to keep back. Bert had gone. Nobody could have done anything for him. He went like he always feared he would—electrocution."

Seeing her husband fall, Mrs. Griffith rushed to the spot. As she approached the high voltage area Muckler shouted: "Stand back, for God's sake or you'll be gone too." She halted. A few feet away her husband law prostrate.

(Mr. Griffith was a former resident of Montague, P. E. I.)

"Not Guilty" Is Verdict In Forgery Case

John McAleer and Frederick McAleer, charged with forgery on two counts were found "not guilty" yesterday by a Supreme Court jury after slightly more than two hours deliberation. Evidence in the case was completed Wednesday and the case summed up for defence by Mr. J. J. Johnston, counsel for the accused and by Attorney General Thane A. Campbell for the Crown. The charge to the jury was delivered by His Lordship Mr. Justice A. E. Arsenault when the court resumed yesterday morning.

Next case called was that of the King vs. Roderick Steele, obtaining money under false pretenses. The accused was dismissed by the court for lack of evidence. His Lordship Chief Justice J. A. Mathieson was presiding judge. Mr. J. Augustine Macdonald, counsel for the accused moved for dismissal as the Crown had failed to establish a prima facie case. The Chief Justice granted the motion. Assistant Crown prosecutor F. A. Large and Mr. J. O. C Campbell represented the Crown.

The case arose out of a sum of money obtained from a bank.

Next case on the criminal docket to be called was that of the King vs. Douglas Aretas Smith, charged with causing bodily harm by operation of an automobile. The jury was selected and one witness heard before the case adjourned until 10:30 this morning. Witness to testify was Norman Anderson of Charlottetown. The case arose out of an automobile accident on harbor ice last winter when Bertha LeClair, 15-year-old Charlottetown girl was seriously injured.

Jury hearing the case include, Bruce MacLean, foreman, Oliver Nunn, Neil Darrach, Augustus Tierney, Leigh Stewart, James Hurry, Lawrence Kickham, James McQuaid, Victor Shaw, Frederick Prowse, Myron Shaw and Walter Scott.

One other case remains on the criminal docket, the King vs. Arthur Amand Galant, charged with receiving stolen securities.

"Shock" Corps For U. S. Armv Urged

WASHINGTON, June 29—(AP)—On the eve of his retirement as Chief of Staff, General Malin Craig recommended today that five "small, seasoned, hard-hitting" United States Army divisions be created to strike rapidly against any enemy attacking the western hemisphere.

They would be infantry-artillery divisions, and would be available for instant dispatch to seize or hold naval and air bases and to destroy enemy bases.

Murphy And McManus Nuptials

The Sacred Heart Church, Newton Centre, Mass., was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Miss Clara Mae McManus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McManus, of Bonshaw, Prince Edward Island became the bride of Mr. Richard Anthony Murphy, son of Mrs. Catherine T. Murphy and the late Mr Murphy of Brookline, Mass. The ceremony was performed in the presence of many friends and relatives by the Reverend Father Bernard, J. Wynne.

The bride looked charming in a dress of white silk muslin de soie and her veil of net and lace was caught at the cap with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Sallie Beaton of West Newton was the bride's only attendant and she wore a dress of pink net trimmed with blue ribbon and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and pink sweet peas.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was given at the home of Mrs. J. F. MacDonald, Dorchester to nearly one hundred guests, Mrs. MacDonald is a sister of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Murphy left Boston the same evening to motor to the home of the bride where they intend to spend a two weeks honeymoon with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McManus, Bonshaw, P. E. I.

The bride and groom were the recipients of many bountiful checks and beautiful gifts. Previous to her marriage a shower was given the bride by her friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Curley formerly of Tyrone and Kelly's Cross, respectively.

Mr. Murphy is a graduate of St. Mary's High School. Brookline and also of Bentley's School of Accounting.
