Maglie Hadn't Won Any For Dodgers Just Year Ago

By WHITNEY MARTIN
 NEW YORK (AP)—Just a year ago today Brooklyn Dodgers won the National League pennant. They had no idea at the time they had done it. They'd just seen something glimmer a little in the dust of oblivion and had picked it up and stuck it in a pocket thinking it was a piece of glass. Might use it as a paper weight or something.

Imagine their surprise when Sal Maglie turned out to be an 18-carat diamond whose 13 victories against five defeats made the difference between a first-place finish and just a finish.

That the Dodgers had small hopes for him was indicated by the fact that it was 16 days before they rather hesitantly gave him a starting assignment. He

Order Marks Its 300th Anniversary

MONTREAL (CP)—The Company of St. Sulpice, a monastic order whose history in Canada dates back almost to the founding of Montreal, is celebrating this year the 300th anniversary of its arrival here.

The order was established in Paris in 1641 by Jean-Jacques Olier to train candidates for the priesthood. He died in 1657, the same year that his priests set foot in New France.

One of their first acts in Canada was to help Maisonneuve develop the settlement of Ville-Marie, which later became Montreal.

Three years after their arrival the priests built a mother house, which stands today on Notre Dame Street as Montreal's oldest building. But the original parish church of Notre Dame, nearby, was replaced in 1828 by the present structure. The church is still administered by the Sulpicians.

Starting as missionary priests, the Sulpicians in time became seigneurs of the island and teacher. They granted land to settlers, arranged for the building of mills on surrounding farmlands and opened Montreal's main streets.

Their school system remained in force until the British victory at Quebec in 1759. After the conquest, the priests continued to teach in parish schools. Today, their classical college and theological seminaries stretch from Canada to Japan.

ATTENTION POTATO GROWERS

The attention of all farmers is directed to the provisions of the Prince Edward Island Potato Production Act passed in 1947 whereby all persons planting one acre or more of potatoes must plant those of the "Certified" class or better.

Also be advised that any grower whose field or land has borne a crop of potatoes infected with any plant disease or pest shall not permit the same area to be planted to potatoes the following year except on the authority of an Inspector, and shall destroy any volunteer plants on such land.

Areas so infected in 1956 will be policed to see that these regulations are strictly enforced.
