Here are some figures to be proud of: Trans-Canada Air Lines fly 17,000 miles daily on trans-Atlantic and Transcontinental routes.

On domestic operations during 1950, 147,931 persons were carried. They carried 6,480,548 pounds of freight and express, 2,040,734 pounds of mail flying a total of 4,707,284 miles.

Nylon has come a long way since 1938 when it first came on the market in toothbrushes, industrial brushes, for surgical sutures and fishing leaders.

One of the longest gasoline pipe lines in the world stretches from Edmonton, Alberta, to Superior, Wisconsin, a distance of 1,128 miles. It cost $90 million and has a daily input capacity of 95,000 barrels, and can be raised to 146,000 barrels should the need arise.

The Connaught Tunnel, through Mt. MacDonald C.P.R. is 5 miles long, double-tracked, 29 feet wide, 21½ feet high and is lined throughout.

Perley Taylor, Winsloe, Prince Edward Island, scratched his head in amazement on a morning last December when, among a litter of new-born piglets he found a pig, or two pigs, with only one head.

Two completely formed bodies and limbs were joined in such a manner that one head served the two bodies. The head a little larger than normal, was adorned with two sets of ears. The freak pig, or pigs, died soon after being born.

The 17,000 miles of C. P. R. pass over 3,300 bridges and approximately 30,000 culverts. The Winsloe terminals house 279 miles of tracks, the great mileage of any individual yard in the world.

The initial cost and expenditure of maintaining this ocean to ocean railway may be gleaned from the following figures: Tax payments will hit the end of 1950 totalled $333,000,000 and covered charges on railway property and outside operations, such as hotels, express, land and communications.

Every day of its existence this mighty system pays nearly $15,500 in taxes.

Besides the rail system C. P. R. operates trans-Atlantic service between Canada and Europe.

An economist is a person who tries to solve problems we would not have if there were no economists.

According to "Individualism" the British Government's business operations from 1945-1948 sustained these losses, which of course the taxpayers had to meet, $206,061,336 on cereals, $67,430,190 on sugar, $112,234,004 on meat, and $16,909,642 on tea, representing a total loss on basic items only of almost 1-238,565,600 Canadian dollars.

The first plane flight in Canadian history took place at Brodbeck, Nova Scotia, in 1909 when Jock McCurdy (now the Hon. Mr. McCurdy, Lt. Governor of Nova Scotia) piloted the plane, Silver Dart. Incidentally, this was the first plane flight by a British subject within the Empire. Since then civil aviation in Canada has been stepped up at an amazing rate.

Parkdale Organizes Scout Auxiliary Group

Parkdale ladies met to organize a Scout Auxiliary Group in the Community Hall. The first regular meeting was held on Wednesday night, February 13th, when committees were organized and programs drafted.

The Parkdale Ladies Auxiliary made history by being the first group of interested mothers of Cubs and Scouts organizing in the Province to assist the group committee and leaders in expanding the Scout activities of their community.

An able executive has been appointed, consisting of: Mrs. Warren Burns as president; Mrs. Henry Clay as vice-president; and Mrs. Ernest MacKay as secretary-treasurer. Committee chairmen have started laying plans for sewing neckerchiefs, a cake sale, and several other projects.

High praise is due to the ladies of Parkdale who have organized to assist in the development of the boys in their community.

Testimony Given At Murder Trial

HULL Que., Feb. 14—(CP)—A crown witness testified Tuesday at the murder trial of 37-year-old Rhea Leo Bertrand that Bertrand displayed an interest in the financial status of his wife before he married her and had remarked that if she became his wife and then died, he would be well off.

The testimony came from Edward Mathurin, 59, an employee of the Ontario cleaning firm where Bertrand worked. Bertrand, holder of three correspondence school diplomas in psychology, metaphysics and divinity, is charged with his wife's murder.

Mrs. Leo Bertrand, 52, was burned to death in a remote hunting cabin at Lac Ste. Marie, Que., last November. Bertrand reported her death to police and said the cabin had been set on fire by an exploding gasoline lamp and that he could not save her.

Mathurin said Bertrand had told him that the woman who later became Bertrand's wife was "from a good family and she has some pretty nice properties too."

"You know, she is older than I am," Mathurin quipped Bertrand as saying, "If I married her and she died, I would be well off for the rest of my days."

WAITING YONDER They are not dead those loved ones who have passed Beyond our vision for a little while, They have but reached the light while we still grope in darkness where we cannot smile.

They are not dead. Theirs is the fuller life Theirs is the victory, the Joy, the gain; For us is still the waiting and the strife, For us the loneliness, for us the pain.

Then let us gird us once again with hope And give them smile for smile the while we wait, And loving, serving, when our Father calls, We'll go to find our dear ones wait us at the gate. Author unknown.
