CHAPTER XIX

Continued

"Quite a few things," the captain answered slowly. "You see, and me had a few chinwags before he was took bad, and naturally we spoke about mister here. And after a bit his talk gets me thinkin' that there's somethin' wrong. For one thing, he allows you was at school together in Sydney. Well, I know that can't be right, because he's well over fifty from the look of him. An' then he says you was a good looker till you had smallpox, and got bits all over your face. O' course, I know better than that, and we had a regular argument about it. And to clear up with, he trots out a photograph to prove he's right. I've got it here among his papers."

He rose and went over to a locker on the port side of the saloon and began to take out a number of neatly folded garments which he piled up on the settee.

"Thurlow watched him mechanically, his brain working furiously to cope with the situation. Without looking at him he knew that the trader was eyeing him curiously, and he was conscious that both he and the captain were beginning to entertain doubts about him. As yet they would be unformulated, but he was painfully aware that they would gain strength unless he could find some means of combating them.

"It's a queer business, isn't it?" Strange observed. "After all, if the chap didn't know you, what did he think he was going to gain by coming here?"

"I can't imagine," Thurlow returned with a slightly unnatural laugh. "The whole thing is a mystery to me."

"Here you are," the captain remarked, returning to the table with a small packet of papers in his hand. "There's a couple of letters here — one of 'em's supposed to be wrote by you — an' a certificate that showed he was a Mason, an' this photograph." And he laid the latter on the table.

Thurlow picked it up and studied it closely. It was evidently the work of an amateur, for it was considerably over-exposed and it showed a group of three men sitting in deck chairs on a verandah. They were all three dressed in white shirts, and one wore a uniform cap which seemed to mark him as a ship's officer. The other two were bareheaded, and the man in the middle was holding up a glass and grinning at the photographer. To be continued relaxation rather than exhausting pastimes; they are excellent, too, for catching up on unanswered correspondence.

For the Birthday

If tomorrow is your birthday, you have probably just passed through a period of mental confusion accompanied by a feeling that life has passed you by. But don't fret. The labors of the past are about to bear fruit and, toward the first of July you should embark upon one of the best periods of your entire life. The stars favor the Gemini-born over all others during the latter part of 1953 and your horoscope indicates that the promised financial prosperity, career advancement and opportunities for travel and social activities should carry well over into 1954.

Your imagination and creative ability will reap rich rewards, but you are frequently deflected in your aims by permitting others to put their burdens on your shoulders. You must learn to say "No" more frequently.

CANADA PACKERS'

JUMBO JACKPOT

$1,000 JACKPOT $100 EVERY WEEK

WIN $100.00

It's Easy To Win

You may win $100 next Monday night. Simply find all the missing letters in 13 small panels in this advertisement.

The missing letters make up the official name of one of the Canada Packers' products advertised here. The Jumbo Jackpot operator may call you next Monday during Zero Hour. Be sure you're ready with the official name of the product. Read the rules carefully. Someone every week is going to win $100—it could be you!

HOW TO PLAY

Every Wednesday, starting May 20th and continuing for 10 weeks, a special advertisement will be published in this newspaper for the Jumbo Jackpot, offering $100 a week for a total of $1,000 in cash prizes.

This advertisement includes a series of panels each advertising a particular product. In these panels (small individual ads) letters are left out of words in every-day use—not trick or unusual words. The problem is: Find all the missing letters and out of them form the correct and official name of one of the products advertised on the Jumbo Jackpot page only. The official names of these individual products are printed at the bottom of the panels advertising them—one of them is the solution to the Jumbo Jackpot and that is the one you must make up from all the missing letters.

You have from Wednesday to Monday inclusive to find the correct solution.

HOW TO WIN

Zero hour to win the Jumbo Jackpot is from 6:30 to 7:30 every Monday evening, starting May 25th and continuing for 10 weeks. In the event that Monday falls on a holiday, zero hour for that week will be from 6:30-7:30 Tuesday evening.

During zero hour, the Jumbo Jackpot operator makes telephone calls to private residence numbers only, selected at random from the city and vicinity directory. All telephone calls are recorded.

IMPORTANT: If you are called by the Jumbo Jackpot operator and answer the telephone with the usual "hello" or any other salutation, you are disqualified from winning the Jumbo Jackpot.

The Jumbo Jackpot is awarded to the first person called by the Jumbo Jackpot operator and who answers the telephone by stating the correct solution for the week. The first word or words spoken to the Jumbo Jackpot operator MUST be the official name of the advertised product made up of all the missing letters in the previous Wednesday's Jumbo Jackpot page. So remember—if your phone rings any Monday evening during zero hour it may be the Jumbo Jackpot operator.

Your best bet to win is to answer every call with the winning word or words—nothing more. After you speak, the operator then, and then only, talks to you, and tells you if you won or not. Anyone who answers the telephone can win the Jumbo Jackpot; the winner need not be the person in whose name the telephone is listed. No further telephone calls are made during Zero Hour after a winner of the Jumbo Jackpot is declared.

The Jumbo Jackpot starts at $100 and increases each week by $100 until a winner is declared.

If you live out of town you may be called long-distance by the Jumbo Jackpot operator. Winners of the Jumbo Jackpot receive their award the same evening where possible and will be required to provide identification upon delivery of the cheque. The decision of the judges is final and no correspondence or other communication will be entered into.

Employees of the advertiser, this newspaper or the advertising agencies associated with this contest and their immediate families are not eligible to win the Jumbo Jackpot.
