Books of the Year South Africa with its race problems and World War II have provided a wealth of material for many new books—a wide open field for the critical talents of Star Weekly book review editor W. L.
McGeary.

This week in his annual review, Mr. McGeary presents a desecrating choice of "Books of the Year" —a reliable guide to good reading.
Twenty-four pages of colored comics, a complete novel, three fiction stories —there's good reading on

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen
Need Not Embarrass Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or worked at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you.
Just apply a little PASTEREK, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your gums. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (dentural breath). Get PASTEREK at any drug counter.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

operates, we describe the role three notrump contract. Probably South was optimistic in leaping to three notrump, and perhaps a two notrump rebid would have been adequate, but South was the nervous type who always thought that his partner was not as anxious to score a game as he was.
Declarer captured East's jack of spades with the ace and returned a club to dummy's queen, losing to the king. East surveyed the dummy's imposing club suit which was good for five tricks by conceding two clubs tricks in exchange, and also observe that dummy's hand included the ace of diamonds as an entry to cash the club tricks as soon as they were developed.
East also noted that if he made the routine return of a spade, his partner's opening lead, dummy would eventually contribute a total of six tricks to declarer's cause, a disheartening number of tricks which was likely to make the three notrump contract impregnable.
He therefore, returned the king of diamonds, a play which automatically cut the number of winners in dummy to two. Lopping off four tricks with one motion (from the declarer's potential six winners in dummy) proved to be the decisive blow.
South struggled a while but ultimately went down two. Had East returned a spade instead of the diamond king, declarer would have made four notrump.

BEDTIME STORIES

Peter Goes Looking

In what they see most people trust And will not doubt until they must.
— Old Mother Nature.
It was winter. Peter Rabbit knew it was winter. The ground was frozen. There had been some snow, but that had melted. The Smiling Pool was frozen over. Nights were cold. Some days it was not too cold. In fact, jolly, round Mr.
Sun made things quite warm when there were no clouds in the sky.
"Did you hear what Sammy Jay said?" Peter asked Mrs. Peter.
"He said he saw a Butterfly this noon," replied Mrs. Peter.
"Do you believe that?" asked Peter.
Little Mrs. Peter hesitated. "I believe he thought he did," she replied finally.

Peter grinned. "I'm looking for a Butterfly," said he.
"I don't believe he even thought he did. I think he just made that story up," declared Peter. "How could a Butterfly possibly be alive when Jack Frost has been here as long as he has?"
That was something that little Mrs. Peter couldn't answer. She pretended not to hear him. Peter scratched a long ear with a long hind foot as he said, "If Sammy Jay really thinks he saw a Butterfly, I wonder where he thinks he saw it," said Peter. He scratched the other long ear with another long hind foot. He has a way of doing this when he is trying to think.
"Just forget it," said Mrs. Peter.
She knew Peter so well that she was sure that if he didn't forget it, he would slip away the first chance he had and go looking for a Butterfly himself. Peter didn't forget. And he did just what she feared he would do. He went looking for a Butterfly. He left the Dear Dear when Mrs. Peter left the Dear in LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints.
Each day the code letters are different.

Two American Turncoats Head For Homeland From Red China

HONG KONG (AP)—Two American turncoats of the Korean war, sullen and homesick, said Sunday they just want Peace—which they didn't find in Red China—and to be back with their kinfolk for Christmas.
Arley Pate, 26, of Cordoba, Ill., and Aaron Wilson, 24, of Urban, La., crossed the border into this British crown colony wearing cheap western-style blue suits and carrying brown suitcases.
A half-dozen of the 51 American prisoners who chose in 1953 to stay with their Communist cap-tors had come out earlier. One died in China. Of the 14 others, Pate and Wilson said they knew of none who might ask to leave.
Pate, the more talkative, said he "never informed on American prisoners of war while in a Korean camp, never informed on an British Press Pays Tribute To Canada For Moral Leadership

LONDON (CP)—Editorial tribute to Canada for taking over the "moral leadership" of the Commonwealth is renewed in the British press.
The Observer discusses the loss of British prestige in the United Nations caused by the Suez policy, and says that in the immediate future Britain should work through other countries, "notably Canada and India." If she wishes to have any influence upon the United States.
"For the time being the moral leadership of the Commonwealth has passed to Canada whose external affairs minister, Mr. Lester Pearson, has worked tirelessly to prevent a much more bitter contamination of Britain's action in the assembly and to get the UN force into being."
The tribute is paid by The Ob-
